The Carlsbad Caverns. Most Wonderful Baby. And Ima Jo Fleetwood.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 1.

TO SPEND Thanksgiving Day crossing the continent, through part of Texas and on into New Mexico and Arizona, is to feel grateful for such a country as this. There is not this side of Heaven another like it.

A fine progressive modern city, El Paso, 3,785 feet above the sea, with beautiful high mountains around it, has what every energetic city needs, a first-class newspaper, Dorrance D. Roderick's El Paso Times.

The Times, forty pages yesterday, with a big red turkey in shadow across the front page, carries nearly two hundred columns of display advertising, no depression there.

The advertising includes three "double trucks" by "The Popular Drygoods Company," "The White House Department Store" and the "Safeway Stores." The "White-House" for good measure puts in an extra third full page.

Such advertising shows the merchants' intelligence. They know that the way to get business is to go out and get it, also that a business not worth advertising should be advertised for sale.

IT IS enough to say of El Paso's life and appetite-giving climate that after you have walked up and down for twenty minutes, and go to breakfast you change your mind about ...ing "just coffee and a piece ...ast" and for the first time in ... years order orange juice, ... buckwheat cakes, sausages ... coffee, each buckwheat cake ... n-eighths of an inch thick ... as big as a soup plate.

... your friend Dr. Leopold ...glitz, of New York, could know that, he would say, "All right, get some other doctor," but in El Paso such a breakfast is as light as a feather.

IF YOU like wonders, something to make the European with his Acropolis and Forum bow his head, go off a short distance to the northeast to the Carlsbad caverns in National Park, New Mexico.

You are not told that the caverns are "the eighth wonder of the world," they are the world's first wonder ahead of the other seven.

It could not be otherwise, since man made the other seven and God made this one.

Ringling Brothers' press agent could not describe one big room in the cavern 625 feet, more than three city blocks wide, three hundred and fifty feet to the ceiling, and three quarters of a mile long:

"Fathomless pools, clear as glass, terraced bowls of onyx marble, filled with crystal water, totem poles delicately etched by the earth's chemistry, rippling curtains of tinted silk frozen into everlasting beauty, rushing multi-colored flames shooting upward to mingle with a forest of glittering ice blades that point down from the vaulted roof. Some have likened it to the Grand Canyon roofed over with an inverted Zion Park."

YOU SHOULD see those Carlsbad caverns. Yet how marvelous is nature. There is something as wonderful in this Pullman car of the Southern Pacific, an American boy baby born in San Francisco, seven months old, as fair as a harvest apple, and about the same color and in yellow hair to small fat ...

R. B. MELLON DIES HERE AT 75

Helped Brother Build Industrial Empire, Rites Sunday

Richard Beatty Mellon, who helped build the vast Mellon business empire, died quietly at 5:19 a. m. today in the big brown, vine-covered mansion at 6500 Fifth avenue. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Mellon's health had been failing for months. Early this week, however, he seemed to be in better spirits.

Late Wednesday his condition took a bad turn and physicians notified his family that probably he would not survive. The cause of death was pneumonia.

He became unconscious some hours before his death. At his bedside was the family—Mrs. Jennie King Mellon; a son, Richard K. Mellon, and a daughter, Mrs. Sarah Cordelia Mellon Scaife, wife of Alan M. Scaife.

Mr. Mellon was a brother of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, who reached home shortly after death came. The two grew up together in business. With the bank left them by their father as a nucleus, they spread the Mellon name and interests throughout the world. Under them the Mellon fortune became one of the greatest in the world.

When President Harding named Andrew W. Mellon to the Treasury post, the Secretary turned many of his business responsibilities over to his quiet, reserved brother.

Funeral services will be at 3 o'clock Sunday in the Mellon home. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery.

BUILDS NEW CHURCH

Among R. B. Mellon's many business posts was the presidency of the Mellon National Bank. This was perhaps his chief interest in the business world.

He was greatly interested, too,

U. S. PROBES CAPTIVE PIT ELECTIONS

Murray's Charges of Intimidation to Be Sifted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—National Labor Board officials said today the board was making an "exhaustive" inquiry into charges of intimidation and other irregularities in the Western Pennsylvania captive mine elections.

The charges were laid before Senator Wagner, chairman of the board, by Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Murray claimed that certain miners were influenced to vote against the union as their representative for collective bargaining by bribery and threats of losing their jobs.

Bombings and shootings followed some of the elections in Fayette County last week.

Near Grindstone three houses were dynamited.

At Smock eight men, celebrating the election results, were sprayed with buckshot fired from houses.

At Colonial No. 3 mine and Colonial No. 4 mine three homes were damaged by dynamitings.

Following the bombings state police controlled the "battlefields."

In a majority of the elections held thus far, the United Mine Workers have been victorious over the so-called company unions, but the Brotherhood Union was successful at a majority of the mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

Obsolete Government Pampers Politicians And Starves Schools

AMERICA WILL NOT remain what Ralph Waldo Emerson said this country was, "the land of opportunity," unless the American people, North, East, South and West go swiftly and in force to the defense of the public school system against the sapping expeditions of the spoilsmen of politics.

Politicians, state and local, are starving the public schools of this country today to subsidize an obsolete system of state and local governments that urgently needs reorganization and simplification.

This system, as President Roosevelt rightly says, was "built up in the days of the oxcart" and in most states of the Union is maintained with little change in the days of the automobile. Under this outworn and wasteful system more than half of every tax dollar is going to pay the costs of state and local governments.

Forty-eight cents out of every tax dollar is being consumed by the costs of local government, in counties, cities and towns.

It is estimated that there were last year on the payrolls of state and local governments, 2,400,000 officeholders whose salaries ate up between three and four thousand million dollars of the people's hard earned money.

WHY SHOULD the people of the state of New York be taxed to support thirteen thousand local units of government?

Why should the people of Michigan go on subsidizing three thousand local public offices when the people of England get along on three thousand?

Michigan has a population of only four million four hundred and eighty-two thousand while the population of England is more than thirty-seven million.

Why should the state of Georgia owe its public schools systems more than $2,500,000 while one hundred and fifty-nine county governments in the state are living off of the people's money?

Why should the taxpayers in metropolitan areas pay the salaries and expenses of the officials of a hundred different governments clothed with power to tax and borrow where one government would give the people better service at less cost?

Why should taxpayers in rural sections all over the country be compelled to support sheriffs, clerks, treasurers, tax collectors, supervisors and hordes of other county and township officials while public schools are closing down and teachers are unemployed or compelled to work without pay or for less than a living wage?

THE PEST of needless politicians is rapidly becoming a menace to the public school system throughout the country. The country, under this obsolete system of state and local governments, is supporting a swarm of political parasites. They are eating up the country's substance. They are leaving the people nothing with which to pay for the necessities of their civic existence.

If the public school system in this country is to be preserved, the fathers and mothers of the country must lead the people in exterminating this horde of needless politicians as relentlessly as any other pest would be exterminated. It is not merely an advantageous thing to do; it is an essential thing to do.

America cannot continue to go forward under this oppressive load of useless and worthless political parasites. The people will do a great work by getting rid of them and the people can get rid of them by modernizing state and local governments so that more and better schools, better trained and better paid teachers may keep America the land of opportunity the founders resolved she should be.

Aluminum, Phone Firm Codes May Be Imposed

Johnson Tells Plans As Both Companies Balk NRA Chief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson today told newsmen that if necessary he would impose NRA codes containing only labor provision on both the telephone and the aluminum industries.

He had received from the American Telephone and Telegraph a communication objecting to coming under a code at all, on grounds that the company was non-competitive.

In response to questions at a press conference, the NRA administrator said the Aluminum Company of America was refusing to accept a code with fair trade practice provisions.

Since this company controls 98 per cent of the business in this country and the law requires that a substantial proportion of any

KIDNAP SUSPECT HANGS HIMSELF

ST. PAUL, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Willie Sharkey, one of four Chicago gangsters awaiting removal to that city for kidnaping after being acquitted in a similar case here, committed suicide by hanging in jail today.

Using his necktie after failing in an effort to use his belt, the 39-year-old accused kidnaper took his life in a cell early this morning, Sheriff George H. Moeller said.

He, with Roger Touhy, Gustav Schafer and Eddie McFadden, was acquitted in Federal Court Tuesday in the $100,000 kidnaping case of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer, in June.

Held in separate cells in Ramsey County Jail, Sharkey and the other three were to have a hearing tomorrow on removal to Chicago for trial on charges of kidnaping John Factor, for whose freedom $70,000 was paid last summer.

William Scott Stewart, defense attorney, at one time during the Hamm kidnaping trial, called Sharkey "stir crazy."

Bones Show Richard III Slew Princes in Tower

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The report of an unofficial coroner today had accused Richard III of the murder of two boys who died 450 years ago and absolved Henry VII of the stigma of guilt.

In a paper read before the Society of Antiquaries last night, Prof. William Wright, dean of the London Hospital, described research in which he had removed from their burial urns in Westminster Abbey the bones of the "Little Princes in the Tower," found evidence they had been murdered by Richard III and that they were not so little.

A scar of the facial bones of Edward, Prince of Wales, eldest son of Edward IV, led Prof. Wright to conclude that the boy and his brother, the fifth Duke of York, had been slain.

The professor placed the ages of the boys at 10 or 12 years.

They were tall for their ages, he said, and one showed evidence of an abnormal tear duct which the professor said indicated he had "cried his eyes out"—presumably during his and his brother's imprisonment in the Tower of London.

Suspicion in the slaying of the lads has rested for centuries between Richard and his successor, Henry VII, but Prof. Wright placed it with Richard.

The ages of the boys, he explained, precluded their having been alive when Henry came to England from France and defeated Richard at the Battle of Bosworth on August 22, 1485.

The boys were 4 feet 9 inches and 4 feet 6½ inches tall, according to the professor's measurements.

Borah Joins Battle To Remonetize Silver

U. S. Uses Little Of Gold-Buying Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Disclosure that the government had used only a fraction of its $50,000,000 gold-buying fund during more than a month's operations accompanied today a vigorous new demand from Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, for remonetization of silver.

Exact figures were withheld on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's actual outlay for newly-mined domestic metal and gold bought abroad, but in official quarters the expenditure was described as "not anything like" the $50,000,000 originally set aside. Unofficial sources put the correct figure at well under half this amount.

LABOR REVIEW

At the same time, the American Federation of Labor added another element to the situation with statements in its monthly review of business that "uncertainty over the dollar's future and fear of fiat money retard business advance" and that "the President's method of devaluing the dollar by stating the gold price daily differs greatly from inflation by fiat money."

The Federation also found that "the beginning of improvement" in the basic construction, steel and lumber industries "brightens the horizon."

Meanwhile, the government gold price was raised again today to a new high of $34.01 an ounce, an eight-cent increase over Wednesday's figure.

Roosevelt Joshes Monetary Critics

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt resumed his vacation visit today after a joshing jab at his monetary critics.

Introducing a magician at last night's Thanksgiving party on the Warm Springs Foundation, the President remarked he probably "knows some of the things we are never able to solve" and suggested "perhaps he will put on something about the gold standard."

Later, in opening his remarks as presiding officer of the Thanksgiving affair, Mr. Roosevelt noted the acts of the magician, Julian Boehn, of Atlanta, and of the assistance in one act by Gus Gennerich, the presidential bodyguard who was called on by Boehn in a card stunt. The President said:

"I suppose I have to have my chance at the press and so I will tell you now that there are certain papers in the United States that you need not read tomorrow because I am going to tell you now what the headlines are going to be tomorrow morning. They are going to say that Dr. Julian Boehn is going to be appointed Secretary of the Treasury and that Gus Generich is going to head the Federal Reserve System."

DECATUR JURY OUT 24 HOURS

International News Service.

DECATUR, Ala., Dec. 1.—A tense state today anxiously awaited the verdict of 12 rugged hillmen pondering the fate of Heywood Patterson, one of seven Negro defendants in the third trial of the Scottsboro case.

Twice sentenced to death for alleged participation in an attack on two white girl-hoboes aboard a freight train, Patterson again faces death in the electric chair if the jury returns a verdict of guilty.

With anxiety heightened by lynchings in California and Missouri this week, fears were expressed that violence might result should the Negro be acquitted. Decatur was tranquil, but 30 armed deputies stayed on guard during the night at the county jail and did sentry duty in and around the courthouse today.

This afternoon, after nearly 24 hours, there was still no indication of an imminent verdict in Patterson's case.

Meanwhile the task of selecting a jury was begun to try Clarence Norris, second of the seven defendants in the famous Scottsboro case.

Mayor Herron was down for $1,550 and Senator James J. Coyne for $1,500.

The report states that $32,500 was paid watchers at the polls.

"Not later than an hour ago I talked with the bishop of the Roman Catholic Church who accompanied Smith on his trip from the Empire State Building to the House of Morgan at Wall and Broad streets. This bishop had just read Raskob's statement.

"'Stick to your guns—retract nothing,' the bishop counseled me. 'Nothing you said last Sunday was outside the facts as they happened in my presence. Sooner or later Mr. Smith will come to recall the incident.'"

BOND REFUSED WYNEKOOP IN WIFE'S DEATH

Police Trace Romances; Woman Doctor to Seek Acquittal

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—As prosecutors delved into new disclosures of his friendliness with many women, Earle Wynekoop lost two court pleas today for his release on bond from charges of being an accessory to murdering his wife, Rheta. She was found dead on the operating table in his mother's surgery.

In Felony Court, Earle's arraignment on the accessory charge was continued until December 11. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he needed more time to investigate the case and Defense Attorney Frank Tyrrell acquiesced to the delay.

Judge Joseph B. David, of Criminal Court, next denied admission of the young widower to bond, pending another hearing on December 11. Prosecutors thus were assured of his remaining in jail for 10 days.

ROMANCES TRACED

The new evidence of Wynekoop's romantic activities was taken from a notebook found in the Wynekoop home. Investigators said the book showed Earle catalogued his woman friends by numbers in a code book.

As an example, they said that the number 1 appearing opposite a young woman's name indicated she was a brunette; 3, a blonde; 4, wealthy; 5, socially attractive.

Attorney Tyrrell withdrew from Criminal Court a petition for the release of Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, charged with murdering Rheta. He said the request was made because Dr. Alice had been indicted and her health was failing.

NO INSANITY PLEA

Dispelling the belief held in some quarters that Dr. Wynekoop might have a plea of insanity made in her behalf if she is tried for Rheta's death, Tyrrell said that such a thing "is the farthest from her mind." He added:

"Dr. Wynekoop would not taint her family with the blemish of insanity. A woman with such a brilliant mind and with such an excellent family would have no such thought as that."

COURT TO NAME GUARDIAN FOR M'CREADY

Convinced Playboy's Habitual Drunkard, Judge Says

Judge Frank P. Patterson will appoint a guardian today to conserve the assets of Harrison R. McCready, Fox Chapel playboy, seeking to break a $150,000 trust established for his first wife and child, the jurist indicated after a hearing in Common Pleas Court.

At the conclusion of testimony by McCready and his cousin, Raymond L. Worley, who filed the petition for a guardian, Judge Patterson said:

"I am convinced that a guardian should be appointed, for I believe he is an habitual drunkard and, as such, likely to become a victim of designing persons. I would suggest that someone take this man who has some influence over him and will not give him any drink. I would not suggest an institution, for sometimes there the association is worse than the cure."

Allen H. Kerr, attorney for Worley, called McCready to the stand only at the insistence of Oliver K. Eaton, attorney for the first Mrs. McCready and the child. Kerr asked him:

Q.—Do you feel incompetent to take care of your business affairs?

A.—Yes. On account of my drinking, which has not been anything unusual.

Q.—Do you feel you would be the object of designing persons?

A.—Yes, when I am drinking.

Attorney Eaton, on cross-examination, asked:

Q.—Have you taken any medicine in the last week?

A.—Yes. Dr. Nelson has been giving me nerve tonics.

Q.—How often do you take it?

A.—When I think it is needed to settle my nerves.

Judge Patterson interrupted with several questions:

Q.—When did you have your last drink?

A.—At 4 p. m. yesterday.

Q.—Would your commitment to an institution straighten you up?

A.—No. I have seen the outcome of that. I can keep from drinking. My will power has proven itself. But I cannot trust myself and that is why I think a guardian, or conservator, should be appointed.

JOHNSON WARNS ALUMINUM CO.

industry is needed to propose a code, Johnson said he did not see how one was to be arrived at voluntarily containing the fair trade practices demanded by independent aluminum concerns, forming 2 per cent of the industry.

PREPARED TO ACT

He said, however, that he was prepared to impose, if necessary, a code prescribing wages, hours and other labor conditions for this industry and the telephone business as well.

The issue over inclusion of fair trade practices in the aluminum code has come to a question of whether a monopoly now exists in violation of law, and whether the code is to be used as an instrument for breaking up advantages held by the Aluminum Company of America.

This concern, long dominated by the Mellon family, has control of the entire domestic production of virgin aluminum and with its manufacturing subsidiaries amounts to 98 per cent of the entire industry.

NRA has not taken a stand publicly, but the independent aluminum manufacturers have been insisting that the code contain a clause requiring the Aluminum Company to establish an equal published price for sales of ingot metal to themselves and to its own manufacturing subsidiaries, so that the independents may compete on an equal basis.

An official of the Aluminum Company of America said here today that a permanent code was submitted to NRA several months ago by the Association of Manufacturers in the Aluminum Industry, of which his company is a member. Its terms for the most part, he said, were acceptable to NRA and to most members of the industry. This official, who would not permit his name to be used, said:

"It is anticipated that at a meeting of the industry with NRA, which has been called for an early date, the final details of the permanent code will be determined. Such delay as has occurred has related entirely to an integrated clause of the code.

"In the meantime, Aluminum Company of America and all other companies in the aluminum industry have been operating under a temporary code which has the entire approval of NRA."

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 1. — Samuel Goldwyn has postponed the filming of "Barbary Coast" until next spring and as a result Gary Cooper, who was scheduled to co-star with Anna Sten in this production has been released by Mr. Goldwyn to Cosmopolitan Productions to appear opposite Marion Davies in "Operator 13." Cooper will return to Goldwyn May 15 when "Barbary Coast" will get under way.

Another picture starring Anna Sten will be made prior to "Barbery Coast." In the meantime Goldwyn is completing an elaborate campaign to launch "Nana," Miss Sten's first American production. Advance reports indicate a sensational debut for the blonde star from Soviet Russia.

Rarely has any picture been awaited with such eager expectancy as this screen adaptation of Emile Zola's classic.

RITCHIE DROPS LYNCH PROBE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Somerset County today moved along its course to bring the persons, who participated in last month's lynching of a Negro at Princess Anne, to trial without the aid and suggestion of state officials.

The three judges of the First Judicial Circuit were to meet in Cambridge today or tomorrow to set the date for the recall of the grand jury to hear any evidence to be produced by State's Attorney John B. Robins.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Attorney General William Preston Lane, Jr., announced yesterday, after their efforts to hold four men for alleged participation in the lynching had failed, that they had withdrawn from the picture.

Saying he planned a wide and exhaustive investigation immediately, State's Attorney John B. Robins asserted he would summon before the grand jury all witnesses, including state policemen, who, in affidavits given the Attorney General, named some men they say participated in the lynching.

HOOVER, ROLPH CLASH OVER LYNCHING

Ex-President Replies To Governor's Charge In Bonus Riots

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Former President Hoover and Gov. James Rolph, Jr., appeared today as central figures in the aftermath of the lynching of Thomas Thurmond and John Holmes.

Following the issuance of a statement in which the former President and 25 other prominent citizens deplored the lynching and attacked the Governor's stand, Rolph countered with a declaration recalling the use of troops against bonus marchers during Hoover's administration.

Hoover retaliated with a prepared statement which was withheld for a short while and then released. It asserted that the Governor's reference to the bonus marchers was based on ignorance of the facts.

CITES BONUS RIOTS

Governor Rolph's reply to statement of Hoover and 25 signers came in Sacramento yesterday. The Governor declared:

"The criticism of the former President recalls the shooting which occurred near the White House at the time of the bonus march. I have never forgotten that tragedy, with its mowing down of marchers in the streets of Washington.

"That was the thought uppermost in my mind when I declined to order out the National Guard in San Jose.

"There was no shedding of innocent blood in San Jose. Compare that to the situation that developed near Mr. Hoover's White House. We fared much better in San Jose."

HOOVER'S REPLY

In direct reply to this, the former President said:

"The trouble with Gov. Rolph's statement is his gross ignorance of the facts. Not a single shot was fired, not a single person was injured by the troops called out in Washington in response to the appeal of local authorities. The troops entered the bloodshed, which was then in progress through conflict between rioters and police.

"The issue here is plain and not to be obscured by such misstatement. The Governor has been advocating lynch law. It is a subversion of the very spirit of organized society. It is un-American. It is a reflection on the state of California. It is not supported by its citizens."

"RESPECT FOR LAW"

"I do not think that the President's statement calls any response by me. His statements and mine speak themselves; the American people think for themselves. It unbecoming for me, as Governor of this state, to be carrying on a controversy with ex-President.

"I cannot allow to stand however, the ex-President statement that I advocate 'lynch law.' On the contrary, I have said and I repeat that I always will have profound respect for law and the sane and orderly conduct of justice through the courts.

"And I repeat what I said in my original statement—that while the law should have been permitted to take its course the people by their action have given notice to the entire world that in California kidnaping will not be tolerated."

Former moderator of the general assembly of his church, Dr. Macartney declared:

in the new East Liberty Presbyterian Church under construction at Highland and Penn avenues—an edifice which was his gift to the congregation, a gift estimated unofficially at $3,000,000. It was on this site that Mr. Mellon's mother, Sarah Jane Negley, was born, in the early days of East Liberty, and where in 1819 his grandmother, Mrs. Barbara Negley, had erected a little wooden church—the first East Liberty Presbyterian.

Mr. Mellon had eyes for more than fine church edifices. In 1931, motoring to his Downtown bank, he saw daily a city tool shed which he felt was an eyesore. At his own expense he caused it to be rebuilt into an attractive little cottage.

BORN IN PITTSBURGH

Mr. Mellon was born in Pittsburgh on March 19, 1858. He was educated in the schools of the city, and with his brother, Andrew, engaged in 1872 in the realty and lumber business in Mansfield, Pa. Later the brothers disposed of this enterprise, the elder to enter the bank of his father, the younger to attend to some of his father's outside affairs. In 1877, together with his brothers, Thomas A. and James R., he was active in the construction of the Ligonier Valley Railroad from Latrobe towards the Somerset County line, in Westmoreland County.

Soon after the completion of this enterprise, Richard Mellon became a member of the banking house of T. Mellon & Sons in Pittsburgh, one of the greatest of America's private financing houses. In 1902, the Mellon National Bank was incorporated. The directorate of this bank was composed of the foremost businessmen of Pittsburgh. The financial genius, power and foresight of the Mellon brothers gave the bank the initial impetus that has made it one of the great banks of America and the world.

MANY DIRECTORATES

Richard B. Mellon was, besides being president and director of the Mellon National Bank, president and director of the Burrell Improvement Company, president of the Pennsylvania Water Company, president of the Trafford Water Company, vice president of the Union Savings Bank, vice president of the Union Trust Company, and secretary of the Ligonier Valley Railroad Company.

He was a director of the following organizations: Aluminum Company of America, American Surety Company, Carborundum Company, Chicago By-Product Coke Company, Crucible Steel Company of America, Gulf Oil Corporation, Indian Creek Coal and Coke Company, Kensington Water Company, Koppers Company, McClintic-Marshall Company, McClintic-Marshall Corporation, McClintic-Marshall Steel Supply Company, Melcroft Coal Company, Minnesota By-Product Coke Company, Pennroad Corporation, Pennsylvania Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Pittsburgh By-Product Coke Company, Pittsburgh Coal Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Riter-Conley Company, Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company, St. Lawrence River Power Company, Seaboard By-Product Coke Company, Shaw-Perkins Company, Tallassee Power Company, Tri-Cities Water Company, Trafford Water Company, Union Shipbuilding Company, United Gas Improvement Company and United States Aluminum Company.

CIVIC ACTIVITIES

He was also a director of the Allegheny Country Club, a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, Mellon Institute, Carnegie Institute and Carnegie Institute of Technology, a director of the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, a member of the executive committee of the Citizens' Committee on City Planning of Pittsburgh, and a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, Guaranty Trust Company of New York, National Union Fire Insurance Company, St. Lawrence Securities Company, Tuberculosis League (also treasurer), Union Fidelity and Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, Union Improvement Company (also treasurer and secretary), Union Savings Bank, Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Wilkinsburg Bank, and Workingman's Savings Bank and Trust Company.

Andrew W. Mellon and Richard B. Mellon have been the prime leaders in making successful the development of the Aluminum Company of America, the Carborundum Company, the Gulf Oil Corporation, the Koppers Company, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the Union Shipbuilding Company.

Mr. Mellon's latest appearance in the public eye was just three weeks ago, when he asked the government to re-examine his income tax report for 1930. A payment of $18,951 was in dispute. Mr. Mellon's petition brought out that his 1930 income was $3,598,931.

PAUL MELLON YALE FELLOW

Paul Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, said today that he has accepted an associate fellowship offered him by Yale University.

He said:

"It is an honorary appointment and does not require permanent residence at Yale."

The fellowship is in Yale's Berkley College.

Young Mellon graduated from Yale in the class of 1929. He was secretary of the Yale Daily News board, and his literary work attracted much attention on the campus.

Following graduation, he studied at Clare College of Cambridge University, England, for two years. There also he evinced more than a passing interest in literature.

He now is connected with the Mellon Bank and is one of its directors.

Lad in Overalls Beats 'Dudes' to First Deer

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

LIGONIER, Dec. 1.—Espy Thomas, 19, of Boswell, Pa., in overalls and carrying a shotgun loaded with a pumpkin-ball, took first honors today as the Western Pennsylvania woods filled with hunters on the first day of the big game season.

Thomas parked his car and walked 20 feet off the road to shoot a 10-point 250-pound buck while a hundred other hunters, attired in expensive outfits and carrying costly high-powered rifles, went deep into the woods on what for many was a vain hunt.

At noon less than a dozen kills had been reported and four of these were by Ligonier's four meat market proprietors.

Hunters unanimously reported that either deer are scarce or accomplished in the art of staying hid this year. The season is open only for pronged bucks. At noon definite kills we... n, ...eas at the same ...r ago more than 50 had been reported.

Edward and Ezra Nicely, brothers, who run competing butcher shops, and Eugene Nicely, their cousin, all returned to town each bearing a buck, as did S. W. Schroder, the fourth Ligonier butcher.

Pennsylvania's deer hunting season opened today with four hunters dead, three of gunshot wounds and another the victim of a hit-run driver.

The first fatility attributed to the opening of the big game season was Clair Howell, 19, of near Sunbury. He tripped and fell, his rifle discharging a bullet into his abdomen, causing instant death.

Two others were killed while hunting rabbits, Glen McCoy, 15, a high school student, near Uniontown, and Edward Trump, 49, near Berwick.

The body of Robert Keller, 24, of Central City, was found on Lincoln Highway near Somerset. He was attired in hunting togs.

CWA Claims Jobs Found for 1,250,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Civil Works Administration announced today that "approximately 1,250,000" were put on the civil works payroll during the first week of operation.

Reports to Harry L. Hopkins from 44 states and the District of Columbia were that 1,183,267 were employed as of November 25.

CODE VIOLATOR FINED BY U. S.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The government won its first criminal prosecution for violation of an NRA code today when the proprietors of Hercules Gasoline Filling Stations, Inc., entered a guilty plea in Brooklyn Federal Court.

The corporation's heads, David Lind and Moe Levine, each were fined $100 by Federal Judge Clarence G. Galston, who also assessed a $200 fine against their corporation.

The indictment was the first returned by a grand jury anywhere in the country for NRA code violation.

Legion Opens War On Crime Menace

WELCH, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A national campaign by the American Legion against the "growing menace" of crime was announced today by Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the legion.

Addressing a meeting of McDowell County legionnaires, he said a national law and order committee will be appointed promptly to study crime and devise means of preventing its increase.

BIDDLE PLANS 25,000 JOBS IN COUNTY

Eric H. Biddle, state administrator under the Federal Civil Works program, today predicted 25,000 men would be put to work in Allegheny County, as the first group of jobless already had taken up picks and shovels in Avalon.

Biddle told 150 county, borough and township officials in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium that, while he was appointed only two weeks ago, everything is in readiness to begin work on the various projects to relieve unemployment.

NO RED TAPE

He added:

"There will be no red tape in putting these men to work. At Reading and York projects were started within 48 hours after they were suggested.

"We expect that between 3,000 and 4,000 men will be given work in Allegheny County soon on work that already has been approved. Our aim is to give employment to 25,000 in this county. If the Civil Works program goes through as President Roosevelt desires, 4,000,000 men will be given employment throughout the country between December 15 and February 15."

James L. Stuart, Allegheny County administrator, explained that the work would consist largely of street and park improvements.

LEADERS ATTEND

Among those attending were Mayor John S. Herron, County Commissioner C. C. MvGovern and civil works administrators of four counties besides Allegheny. These were Clyde Ohnsman, Beaver; J. S. Campbell, Butler; Louis B. Round, Lawrence, and Thomas F. Pickett, Washington.

The first operation of the works program started in Avalon with men beginning the grading and paving of streets under supervision of J. N. Arthur, borough manager.

Extension of the Ohio River boulevard and improvement of the Wayman-Baptist road from Overbrook to South Park were among the projects to be urged for approval by Biddle.

Eight projects in the county entailing an expenditure of $434,000 and creating 3,280 jobs already have been approved.

Ickes Sees Smith Holding Grudge Over Defeat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Al Smith, once the standard-bearer of the Democratic party, and now one of the administration's severest critics, was described today as a man "nourishing a grudge as a result of disappointed ambitions" by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the Interior and Administrator of the Public Works Administration.

Ickes, formerly an Illinois Progressive, joined other administration spokesmen in the fight upon Smith after the "Happy Warrior" had declared the PWA was broken down and the civil works program set up to hide its failure.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey also rebuked Smith, saying:

"If Smith doesn't want to join the procession, the procession will move on without him."

Socialists to Hear Attorney Cooper

Attorney Alexander Cooper will speak tonight at the Socialist and Workmen's Circle open forum in the Socialist Center, 1862 Center avenue. His subject will be "Three Cities," a triology by Sholem Ash.

PROBE CLEARS RFC HEAD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Senate Banking Subcommittee investigating Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans today exonerated Jesse H. Jones—RFC chairman—of charges that he was personally interested in loans by the government corporation of three Texas mortgage companies.

The committee, made up of the same Senators who are investigating stock market practices, concluded that the loans to the Bankers' Mortgage Company, the Midland Mortgage Company and the Southwestern Investment Company, all in Jones' home state of Texas, were justified, adequately secured and Jones "had no personal interest in any of them."

U. S. ASSIGNS $26,543,053

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Public Works Administration today allotted $26,543,053 for 71 non-federal projects in 25 states and Hawaii, which officials said would provide 161,249 man-months of employment.

The largest allocation was $11,900,000 to the Delaware River Joint Commission of Pennsylvania and New Jersey for construction and equipment of a rapid transit shuttle line across the Delaware River Bridge between Philadelphia and Camden.

BANKING LAW CHANGES SEEN

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Drastic changes in the federal banking law to curb speculation by banks and their officials are forecast by Chairman Fletcher, of the Senate Banking Committee, whose investigation of Wall street practices has entered the home stretch.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, president and chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, will be quizzed Tuesday on details of his sweeping recommendations for legislation "to correct abuses and reconstruct our financial machinery."

Though the Chase National, under Albert H. Wiggin's regime, has been savagely assailed by committee members, Aldrich's appeal for a "new deal" in Wall street was cordially received by the committee. That many of Aldrich's suggestions will be embodied in the committee's report was assured by committee members.

The committee intends to investigate the Chase National Bank's financing of the Lincoln Building in New York. Completion of the examination into affairs of the Rockefeller-dominated bank by Tuesday was the program outlined by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

On December 3, last year we sold 7,500 Wale Shirts and before Chr mas 10,000 more, or 17,. in all.

No sooner was that sale over than we began t think about this one, to be held a year later. W wanted to beat that 17,500 Then a trip to N. Y. to see the maker of Wale Shirts. Throughout the spring w took trip after trip N. Y. and Philadelphia, walked literally hundreds of miles, alone and with advisers, climbed step enough to give our knee a permanent bend—b we got the goods-bought the fabrics an had them made up to ou specifications.

Every fine shirt a gentle man could want was in-cluded, broadcloth, ma-dras, oxford, pique, silk, white on whites and col-ored fancies.

Prices rose in June, but we were not affected. We had bought at the very bottom.

STATE LIQUOR REVENUES DWINDLE

G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot's original estimated yield of $25,000,000 immediately from a $2 per gallon floor tax on pre-repeal liquor lay in ruins today.

Even the most optimistic figure for now is not more than $13,000,000 if the constitutionality of the act, now being tested in Pittsburgh Federal Court, is eventually upheld.

Success of Philadelphia distillers in removing liquor to adjacent states before the tax bill was passed by the General Assembly and signed by the Governor sharply reduced the anticipated revenue.

Leon D. Metzger, secretary of revenue, announced 40 per cent of those known to possess taxable alcohol have made reports on their stock. This list comprises all the major distillers in Pennsylvania.

Although the reports are not public, the major portion of liquor now on hand is possessed by Joseph S. Finch & Co., Schenley, Overholt & Co., Broad Ford, and Large Distilling Company, Large.

Small payments by druggists, physicians, and others using beverage alcohol in business will yield the remaining one-sixth.

This sharp decline in the revenue expected will not alter the Governor's recommendations for its distribution. He has requested the General Assembly to allocate ,000,000 to financially distressed hool districts; $8,000,000 to compensate for the loss to be suffered repeal of the four-mill tax on terest-bearing bank deposits, nd the remainder for repayment f federal loans for public works.

Attorney General William A. chnader is expected to go to ittsburgh next Wednesday to rgue against a permanent inunction preventing collection of e $2 tax. The Finch distillery eady holds a temporary injunction, which it wants made permant, restraining the Commonalth from collecting "between 000,000 and $8,000,000 in floor x" from that concern.

'Legger Ends Life Rather Than Face Repeal Ruin

WARREN, O., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Apparently fearing financial ruin with the advent of prohibition repeal, Ledill (Irish) O'Neill, 26, a Warren "bootlegger de luxe," died yesterday with a bullet in his brain. Officials said O'Neill left notes mentioning his financial difficulties, and said the circumstances indicated suicide.

LIQUOR BOARD MAILS FORMS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Functioning with but one member, the two-day-old Liquor Control Board today mailed out application blanks for liquor retailers to all holders of retail beer licenses.

Included with the application blanks was a slip explaining the state's new liquor control law, listing various fees to be charged for retailers, who until January 2 will will be permitted to sell by the drink as well as in original packages for non-consumption on the premises. When the state stores begin functioning after New Year's they will be the sole distributors of package liquor.

Fees for restaurants and hotels range from $150 to $600, depending upon the population of the community in which they are located. Clubs will be charged $50 unless they serve non-members, in which case the hotel schedule becomes effective. Each application returned must be accompanied by $10 which will be retained whether the license is issued or not. A $2,000 bond also must be enclosed.

REPEAL RUSH LOSS SEEN BY CAFES

be able to buy pints and quarts in the licensed restaurants and hotels.

A. Albert, of the William Penn Hotel, said today that the package goods may be sold from the main lobby.

If there was sadness among the restaurant proprietors today, there was naught but joy among the operators of the big speakeasies, for the state's new system of liquor control is expected to play a merry tune on their cash registers, which have been rusty these last few years.

SPEAKEASY MEN HAPPY

The speakeasy bosses believe the system is a break for them in that they are allowed to have bars, over which they may serve liquor 24 hours daily, Sunday excepted. Of course, in the state records they are listed as clubs, but almost all of the bigger spots have had charters around for years—charters which they have dusted off and hung proudly atop the cash register.

They accomplish the theoretical transformation from a speakeasy to a club simply by handing out membership cards to the regulars among their customers, holding a free chili night every now and then and maintaining a set of records which, of course, includes the minutes of the last meeting:

"The meeting was called to order by John Jones, and the first drink was on the house."

CLUB BOOM LIKELY

The new laws are expected to increase the number of clubs. There is talk that one downtown hotel will cater to those oldtimers who insist on drinking over a bar by forming a club on one of its upper floors.

Reports that many of the restaurants and hotels were going out of the state to buy their whisky to escape the $2 per gallon tax established by the Legislature seemed unfounded. One hotel spokesman told of putting in a $50,000 order with a Pennsylvania distillery and several restaurateurs said they were negotiating only for Pennsylvania whisky.

PARK REFUSES SWARTZ BAIL

Irvin (Iggy) Swartz, held for manslaughter by a Coroner's jury investigating the shooting of Andy Garavini, downtown hacker, in November, will have to remain in jail at least until Monday and then gain his freedom on bond only by a court order.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today refused to approve a bond of $5,000 which Max Friedman, Swartz's lawyer, took to the District Attorney's office. Park said:

"There is still a possibility that Swartz will be held on a first degree murder indictment. Under the circumstances I will oppose his release on bond."

Friedman said that he will apply for an order of the court on Monday.

Swartz is alleged to have shot Garavini, who died later, while the hacker was walking with his wife, previously divorced from Swartz, near the Grant street entrance to the William Penn Hotel.

BEAUTY PARLORS MUST GET LICENSES

More than 5,000 beauticians in Pittsburgh are preparing to file applications for licenses January 1, in compliance with the beauty culture act passed at the last regular session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg, according to Mike Curci, local president of the Pennsylvania Hairdressers' Association.

This legislation for "protection of pulchritude" represents victory after a 10-year fight by beauticians for sanitary and other restrictive measures in the beauty field.

STATE-WIDE EFFORT

When localized efforts to enact such a bill failed in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Scranton, the Pennsylvania Hairdressers' Association was formed to organize beauticians in 52 localities, according to William Bryant, business manager. He said:

"Beauticians, as a group, have been fighting for legislation for public protection as a sanitary measure for a decade. The state organization functions under the National Hairdressers' Association, with branches in every state, in Canada and Hawaii."

Application blanks are to be mailed during the last week of December to approximately 18,000 beauty culture operators, 5,000 to 6,000 beauty shops, 1,500 students and apprentices, 50 beauty culture schools, 200 teachers and 1,500 manicurists.

Within a reasonable time after January 1, every beauty culturist must have a certificate from the Department of Public Instruction, and every shop owner and school must show a certificate of registration. Certificates will be issued to all qualified applicants who have practiced in the state for six months or more. After the initial licensing new applicants must pass an examination.

MUST PASS EXAMS

All applicants must pass a physical examination by a physician and submit proof of freedom from all contagious or infectious diseases. Sanitation will be watched in every type of beauty shop. A fine of $100 or 90 days' imprisonment is provided by the law for those convicted on charges of accepting pay for beauty treatments or hairdressing without a license.

Beauticians is the terminology adopted by the Department of Public Instruction in the handling of this new licensing activity. It follows closely upon the enactment two years ago of the barbers' licensing act and operates similarly, with varying licensing fees.

ART VOTE ENDS SUNDAY

Voting by the general public for the selection of the popular prize in the Thirty-first International Art Exhibit in Carnegie Institute will end next Sunday at 6 p. m., John O'Connor, Jr., business manager of the fine arts department, announced today.

The popular prize award is $200.

The ballots will be counted immediately after the closing by Ralph E. Griswold, Edward B. Lee and Charles M. Stotz, members of the committee. The exhibition will remain open until December 10.

Suffer Broken Jaws In Resisting Arrest

Eduardo Malvido, 27, who gave his address as the Downtown Y. M. C. A., and Armande Robleda, 27, of 117 West Ohio street, were in Allegheny General Hospital today with broken jaws received, police said, when they resisted arrest yesterday.

When police attempted to arrest them after they were alleged to have broken the glass on a gasoline pump at the Diamond Gaze, 717 West Diamond street, they resisted, police said. After being subdued they were taken to the hospital.

Charge $2,000 Stolen Cable Sold for $6

William Neuin, 43, of River avenue, charged with dismantling hoists and cranes of the O'Neil and Company, McCandless avenue, was held for further investigation when arraigned in Central Police Court yesterday.

Neuin admitted working all night to chop cable and other equipment valued at $2,000, the detectives said. The cable was carried away in a skiff and sold for $6, the sleuths said.

Two Husbands See Wife, One Gets Annulment

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(AP.) — Speaking of coincidences—

Richard Stackelberg came into Superior Court seeking an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Ruth Cleo Stackelberg. This was his testimony:

"I was out riding one day with Glenn Martin when my wife passed us in another car. She waved. Martin waved back, so I asked him, 'Do you know that woman?' 'Sure,' he replied, 'that's my wife.' 'That's strange,' I said. 'She's mine, too.'"

Martin and Stackelberg talked things over. He said he learned Mrs. Stackelberg had married him before getting a divorce from Martin, who appeared as corroborating witness. Said the judge:

"Annulment granted."

CHURCH GLASS RETURN LAUDED

Universal Service.

PARIS, Nov. 29. — Thanking William Randolph Hearst for ordering the return to France of stained-glass windows allegedly stolen from the medieval church at Fecamp, Normandy, Des Debats, Nationalist newspaper, today states:

"M. William Randolph Hearst has made the beau geste which one could expect from him. He has returned to the American merchant who sold them to him the four windows, which in entire good faith, he bought in 1929.

"The loss sustained by the Fecamp Abbey can now be entirely repaired because the other four windows that were taken have been found in Paris and are now in the hands of authorities.

"All lovers of Norman art rejoice at this good news and render homage to the perfect conduct of the American collector."

FAVOR PAVING PRINCE STREET

The City Planning Commission, in a letter to City Council, has reaffirmed its stand in favor of the improvement of Burpee and Prince streets in East Liberty rather than Burpee street and Collins avenue as a connection with Washington boulevard.

The commission takes the stand that the Prince street route will cost $200,000 less than the Collins avenue project. It also holds that better distribution and control of traffic is possible out of Prince street, and that further heavy traffic should not be thrust into crowded Penn avenue.

CLEAN COUNTY BUILDINGS

The courthouse and jail, covered with years of dirt and dust, is to be given a thorough cleaning, the County Commissioners having awarded a contract to M. G. Moshithes at a cost of $17,783. In addition to cleaning the buildings with steam, the contractor also will repair the broken masonry.

The contract at first was given to J. J. LaValley at a cost of $14,927, but on recommendation of Director Ray Sprigle, of the Property and Supplies Department, the Commissioners rescinded their former action and later gave the job to Moshithes. The change was made after Sprigle had reported that LaValley had never done any large similar cleaning jobs.

ranch just west of his home town, Uvalde.

On that well-kept ranch are horses, cattle, sheep and many goats. This is a goat country, exporting quantities of mohair. Back in Uvalde, the Vice President's son is president of the bank, so you may learn out here how well Mr. Garner understands business, and how thoroughly he attends to it.

To the south are mountains of asphalt, with which the roads are coated. Texas has everything, including quicksilver mines and energetic young ladies—one of them telegraphs:

"Will you give a Texas newspaper girl a break, and give her an interview as your train goes through?"

You say "yes, delighted," and at the bustling town of Del Rio, Tex., a young girl comes aboard representing Mr. Edward J. Travelstead's excellently edited Del Rio Evening News.

Too thin by 15 pounds, and energetic, her name is Ima Jo Fleetwood. Many Texas girls are named Ima and Jo.

When you suggest with heavy middle-aged gallantry that her mother made a mistake leaving off the "y" which would have made her name Ima Joy Fleetwood, the young lady brushes that aside with:

"That's old; I'm grateful she didn't add on 'ke,' which would have made me 'Ima Joke Fleetwood,'"

She is told that girls make the best newspaper "men."

The two best American reporters in one hundred years were Nelly Bly, who went around the world beating all records, and is with Jules Verne above, and Dorothy Dix, known to New Orleans as Mrs. Gilmer, young and doing her best work.

Miss Ima Jo Fleetwood, who has been married "once," and passes that over rapidly, wants to know what you think about everything, especially the things about which you know nothing, such as money, gold, national recovery.

She should go to New York, call on Curley, editor of the Evening Journal, or J. V. Connolly, of the Hearst syndicates, and be the new Nelly Bly.

IT WOULD be a pleasure to tell you at length about the frog farmer a little way back at Rayne, La., who ships six to eight barrels of frogs' legs every week. He raises them in a big pond with cement edges and every thirty minutes walks around the pond pushing the frogs back into the water with a wooden rake.

They climb up, gather in piles and would smother each other. Many citizens catch wild frogs for him in the swamps, luring them with flashlights, then "gigging" them. A "gig" is a small harpoon.

A citizen from Portland, Ore., has taken home with him two crates of bull frogs packed in wet moss, one crate of females, one of males, and hopes they will do as well there as in Louisiana. You should know about Crowley in Arcadia Parish, La., "the rice center of the United States."

As in New Orleans, so in Crowley, warehouses were filled with second-grade and "broken rice" that could not be sold, because Porto Rico and Cuba had no money. Then came 3.2 beer, brewers came and took every pound of rice. It makes beer better and clearer.

ALSO THE two colored ladies, at Berwick, chatting with each other from their cottage doors, three hundred feet apart, and the wild excitement when the Pullman car porter in all his silver-buttoned grandeur walked down from the train to say "howdy" and a still younger colored woman, all dressed up, came out to take command of the situation that should be related at length.

Such laughter the whites do not know, but you cannot tell everything.

MOVIE JULIET SPEEDS ACTION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The first audience to see Katharine Cornell in a Shakespearean part went home talking as much at the pace at which her "Romeo and Juliet" was played here last night as at her portrayal of the role of Juliet.

Leaving the crowded theater one heard comments on every side about the way the play was kept "moving." Intended to satisfy audiences used to the speed and action of the "movies," it is cut from five acts to two, with 10 scenes in each. The play is never allowed to slow down.

Persons who drew on memories of Julia Marlowe's Juliet for comparison said they were delighted with Miss Cornell's acting. The general opinion of the handling of the entire story was summed up by one veteran who remarked:

"That should help keep Shakespeare alive."

Miss Cornell will carry Shakespeare to the Pacific Coast and back to New York City. Basil Rathbone plays Romeo.

DOPE CIGARETS TAKING PLACE OF MORPHINE

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Enactment of the uniform state narcotic law to prevent the spreading use of marihuana was urged yesterday at the annual meeting of the World Narcotic Defense Association in the Waldorf-Astoria.

Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, president of the association, reported that the use of this drug as a substitute for morphine and heroin was becoming more common. He said:

"Chairman Mulrooney of the Liquor Control Board recently told us that marihuana cigarets were being sold in large quantities in Harlem. He said anyone who knew how to give the peddlers the proper wink could produce these reefers, as they are called, for 25 cents apiece.

"Marihuana, closely related to hemp, has been grown openly outside of Syracuse and Buffalo, but since the state uniform narcotic law has gone into effect in New York we have put a stop to that.

"The need for the adoption of this law in the 40 states that have not yet included it in their statutes cannot be too strongly emphasized. Combatting the traffic in marihuana, as well as in other narcotics, largely depends upon the adoption and enforcement of this law drafted by the American Bar Association."

Capt. Hobson asserted that Japanese manufacturers in Manchukuo and adjoining leased territory were building more factories and were making Manchuria the new source of world supply in opium, morphine and other drugs.

The Geneva pact limiting the manufacture of narcotics was proving effective in the 39 countries that had signed it, he said. Morphine was selling for from $9 to $10 an ounce for legitimate medical use, he reported, whereas it commanded $150 an ounce in illicit traffic.

Hobson expressed the opinion that Holmes and Thurmond, the lynched California kidnapers, were drug addicts. He added:

"If racketeers could not get weaker men to carry out their wishes their power would be broken. It is the heroin addict, touched up with cocaine, who is your typical gunman and killer."

Hobson and the other officers of the Association were re-elected at the meeting.

BALM SEEKER'S PLAINT DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—An answer to a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Betty McMahan, film actress, had been filed today by Franklin C. Stevens, prominent amateur golfer, who said he was "ready and willing to marry Betty at any time."

Stevens and the actress eloped to Yuma, Ariz., September 20. At that time his divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Dorothy Stevens, was not final and the second marriage was void. Stevens said he did not know that at the time of the elopement.

On October 26, the day after the final divorce decree was entered, he said, he proposed remarriage to Miss McMahan, but she asked him to postpone the ceremony. Since then, Stevens said, Miss McMahan has avoided him and he charged it has been done with the intention of filing the suit. He added:

"I have been trying to reach her ever since the first part of the month to again ask her to marry me, but I have been unable to talk with her."

DEATH CHEATED BY MISS BOOTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The New York American quotes Evangeline Booth, 68-year-old commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, as disclosing she had been "practically drowned" while swimming at Lake George last August. She was quoted as saying:

"I became entangled in a maze of wire at the bottom. In winter, you know, they drive piles and stretch wire to keep the ice from smashing the pier. This wire had been left there.

"I was under water for the better part of two minutes. If I had not kept my head, if I were not an expert swimmer and if I did not know how to breathe properly, I would have drowned.

"I was practically drowned. But I kept from getting panicky and worked myself free."

She said she was in bed three weeks suffering from cuts, bruises and exhaustion.

Many Die in Storm On Black Sea Coast

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Seventeen persons were drowned, 150 were missing, and damage estimated at $225,000 was done at Samsun today by a storm which raged violently along the whole Black Sea coast.

Huge waves destroyed 57 fishing motorboats, according to reports reaching here from the stricken area.

Pulls Fire Alarm To Escape Beating

Doc Febeorey, 28, Negro, of 11 Shomin street, pulled a fire alarm box at Colwell and Clark streets for protection from a gang of hoodlums he said were going to beat him, according to police. Fined $25, Febeorey explained he "knows that when firemen come the law comes too."

Locked in Store, Nearly Misses Turkey Dinner

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The name, as Policeman Earl Jensen caught it over the telephone in suburban Oak Park, was J. A. McNiff. The voice on the wire said:

"This is J. A. McNiff. I'm locked up in a drug store. The proprietor went out and locked the door while I was telephoning. I was on my way to have a turkey dinner with friends in Berwyn."

Patrolman Jensen traced the telephone number to the address of the drug store. There he observed McNiff in the darkened interior. The policeman hurried to the rear door of the store. He lifted a latch and released McNiff, who hurried away to a belated Thanksgiving dinner.

TOKIO DEMANDS U. S. QUIT BASES

Universal Service.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 1.—Abandonment of the American naval bases in the Philippines and Hawaiian Islands, or the start of a naval armaments race for supremacy in the Pacific. These are the alternatives Japan will make clear to the United States when signatories of the London naval treaty meet again in 1935, experts in close touch with Japanese plans in the Far East predict.

By a process of elimination the Japanese feel that the United States is the power against which they must strengthen the navy, the experts say.

The east with which Japanese generals sliced four fat provinces off China leaves Tokio no fear from that quarter. The Soviets, the experts say, will fight only a defensive war, and Japan has nothing to fear from Moscow so long as she abides by the peaceful intentions so repeatedly affirmed.

BONDS RETIRED BY HEARST NEWSPAPER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The New York Evening Journal, one of the 12 nationally known and successful publishing enterprises owned by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., retired today $1,000,000 negotiable first mortgage and collateral trust 6¼ per cent serial coupon gold bonds of 1933 maturity.

Distribution of $192,000 semi-annual interest will also be made at the same time for the bonds outstanding. Funds to meet these two obligations are on deposit with the trustee under the indenture.

This is the second redemption within the past 30 days of a million block of Hearst securities. On November 1, last, Hearst Publications, Inc., retired $1,000,000 of its 6¼ per cent first mortgage and collateral trust serial gold bonds and made payment of $500,000 semi-annual interest.

The New York Evening Journal is one of the foremost publishing properties in America and for years has held the distinction for having the largest evening daily circulation of any newspaper in the United States.

Likewise, it has been long recognized as a leading advertising medium and an influential editorial force. Many of those included in the galaxy of Hearst feature stars have been members of the Journal.

Estonia Defaults Debt Payment

TALLINN, Estonia, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Estonian government yesterday notified Washington it was unable to pay the debt installment due the United States on December 15.

The Estonian government defaulted on the American debt payment both in December, 1932, and on last summer's installment. The amount due on December 15, 1932, totaled $356,370, including $245,370 interest and $111,000 principal.

'TRIANGLE' FEUD SHOOTER HELD

Joseph Pagley, 37, of 36 Freeport street, Etna, who fired a revolver at William Gauson, 31, of the same address, when he found Gauson with his wife yesterday, according to police, is in the County Jail today.

Pagley said he found the two together when he returned home yesterday. After a struggle, in which Gauson struck at Pagley with a club, Pagley got a gun from another room and fired at Gauson, missing him. Charges of assault and battery and pointing firearms were placed against Pagley.

Fairy Tale

A lovely lady, silken clad—
The type to grace most any ad
Was living in a penthouse high,
But livin'!

One day there came a bachelor bold,
Her sinful past she to him told;
He raved and ranted: "Who's the guy
"That's givin'?"

They talked things over, did these three;
And finally they did agree
'Twas right to let her find, I trust,
New glories.

She left the former—married him

How Wewy In'twesting

J. B. Priestly in the Strand (London) Magazine for November describes his heroine as one "who couldn't pronounce her r's properly, and said typewiter and Market Stweet."

"All wight," Mr. Priestly said his heroine said, "you go stwaight home to bed and no Electric Palaces tonight!"

Pwobably the pwoofweader was wong. Shouldn't that have been "electwic"—Mr. Pwiestly?

Haw!

George Peck was pedaling west on 48th St. with Bugs Baer recently, just after the Friars Club lost the decision to the creditors, who dispossessed the famous fraternity. In front of the desolate-looking actors' club were four large ash-cans.

"The club is certainly shot," ftied Baer, as he pointed to e cans. "There's the 4 Marx 'others' trunks!"

nother Version

Ballard MacDonald, now en route to Tahiti, left this for the clowns who needed a new version of a familiar quip. It deals with Herr Dolfuss, the Austrian P[illegible]mier, who is almost this high. Dollfuss, it seems, being a much tried man, has difficulty sleeping.

To overcome this he gets up in the middle of the night and paces up and down under his bed.

Bravo!

A mess of orchids, by all means, to Mr. George S. Kaufman, the former dramatic critic, who reformed and turned playwright. The new play, "The Dark Tower," on which he collabbed with A. Woollcott at the Morosco, served as the scene for this precedent—and it's about time, too.

A group of swanky dressed snobs came to the show at 10 p. m., over an hour after the asbestos lifted. Mr. Kaufman, who was in the lobby, stopped them from entering—because, he explained, they had been invited as his guests, and that it was an insult to his cast to arrive that late.

Penalty of Fame

Among other Eugene O'Neilliana is this one. There was the time when Mr. O'Neill had three plays running in the Broadway area—and his name flickered in the marquee lights more prominently than any other author's. As he sauntered along the Artery one sundown an old buddy stopped him. They sailed the Seven Seas on the same ships for many years.

"It is good to see you again," said the eminent writer, "tell me, where are you going?"

"Still on the sea," was the reply, "and tell me, Gene, what do you do?"

Boomerang for Critics

Then there is the delightful report of John Anderson, the drama defender, who reveals how sensitive are most of the playwrights. Many of them, it appears, get gray waiting for the next morning's verdicts.

The world's record for nonchalance is conceded to Eugene O'Neill, who, according to Mr. Anderson and the legends, strolled casually into the Theater Guild's office a week after the earth-shaking premiere of "Strange Interlude" and indifferently inquired:

"What did the boys on the papers have to say?"

Miss Parker's Latest

Dorothy Parker's current flippancy was born in this manner. At a cocktail orgy the other sundown, she was asked what she thought of a new nationally circulated weekly.

She replied:

"It has triumphantly stimulated, among 80,000,000 people, an overwhelming lack of interest."

"Yvelette

Spencer Hare delivers this tricky tale which revolves about Suzie, of the Broadway canvas, who is quite a practical girl, it appears. She was living one of the boys in her third-second floor apartment. There were drinks and the usual hop-dee-doodle, when suddenly there came a knock at the door.

Maizie told her pash that it was her husband, and suggested that he step out on the fire escape until she could get rid of him. He did as she instructed, and that's all there is to the story except that Maizie didn't have a husband, and there wasn't any fire escape, either.

Observation

Len Golos says that the reason the unemployed let their hair grow longer is because they have more time to comb it.

The Gag Lovely

We heard this one at least a month ago or when we started holidaying, and it is all over town. But so long as none of the paragraph hunters have encountered it, let's make it public.

You preface it with the comment that it was sent as a telegram:

"Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, White House, Washington, D. C. Some fun, eh kid?—H. Hoover."

Joan Blondell Ill; Sister May Sub

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—With Joan Blondell in the hospital unable to go on with her picture, Warner Brothers may dramatically substitute her kid sister, Gloria. This 17-year-old girl, whose hair is dark brown like Joan's was before they made her turn blonde, has taken a screen test and studio officials are frankly pleased with it.

Miss Blondell

If, on further consideration, they decide she is too inexperienced to play opposite James Cagney in "The Heir Chaser," Gloria is almost sure of a part in "Harold Teen."

Besides being a promising screen bet, Joan's little sister is a clever artist, having placed pictures in several California exhibitions.

Best story of the month is told by Leo McCarey. The other day on location, he was going to direct a comedy scene in which a woman shoots her husband in an alley between two apartment houses and 25 men jump out of windows.

"And everybody be sure to run away from the camera," he shouted final instructions.

The scene began. The men jumped and started dashing away—all but one who made directly for the crew.

"Didn't I tell you to run away from the camera?" Leo bellowed.

The offender pulled up to a halt.

"Mister," he panted, "I'm not in your picture."

The gossips are predicting a December marriage for Pat Wing, sister of Toby Wing, and Bill Perry, young Kentuckian who runs a 200,000-acre ranch near Bakersfield. The pair have been going together for some time, and Perry motors to Los Angeles every weekend to stay at the Wing home. Friends of the couple say they plot a Yuma elopement.

If you can believe her friends, it may be a real romance between Sally Blane and Robin McAlpine, young Englishman whom she met in Europe and who is now in Hollywood. The friendship between Loretta Young and Spencer Tracy is continuing apace, too. When the actress recently went to San Francisco with Mrs. John Wayne (Josephine Saenz) Tracy hotfooted it north to see her.

They'll tell you that Stephen Raphael, rich young Londoner, is quite smitten with Marion Nixon, and he certainly is giving her a rush. Cocktail parties in her honor, and all of that . . . Though it's commonly accepted that Madge Evans and Tom Gallery will marry some day, Russell Hardie is making plenty of trips to the M-G-M studio to lunch with the blonde star . . . The Robert Youngs are expecting their baby between December 10 and 15 . . . And the Harry Greens will be parents in January . . . Music Film In Warner

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Hearty laughs that helped along the digestion of the after-dinner Thanksgiving crowd were supplied by a comedy cast in "Take a Chance," musical screen revue in the Warner.

Musical comedies have become as common as carnations on Mother's Day, but in this particular song and dance film, the patter of Cliff Edwards and James Dunn in the roles of take-as-take-can fakirs, and such tuneful melodies as "I'm a Night Owl," "If You Believe in Me," and "Eadie Was a Lady" compensate somewhat for the wearily overworked musical revue theme.

The plot, itself, is painfully weak. The story in brief (it really is brief—music taking up most of the time) deals with four carnival workers, Wanda, a hip-hip girl (Lillian Roth); a lovely ticket seller, Toni (June Knight), and Duke and Lou, the Dunn-Edwards combination, who get whatever is loose.

First Wanda of the swaying hips, and then the other three leave the carnival for New York where, as easily as the snap of a finger, Wanda and the ticket-selling Toni crash big time in featured roles of "Humpty-Dumpty," a musical extravaganza produced by Buddy Rogers, as the wealthy young Kenneth Raleigh.

Trouble flits about the heads of the cast, but nothing serious befalls them, and finally, through no wisdom on their part, not only good, but dumb, luck brings them to a happy ending.

"Take a Chance" is amusing; it has voices you'll enjoy in Buddy Rogers and June Knight, and it's quite well done.

Pleasing Film In Fulton

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

Irish romance, sweet and delightful, is Janet Gaynor's latest offering to your enjoyment in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," now in the Fulton, the charming story of a smiling-eyed little colleen. This time Warner Baxter, masculine and teasing, is her hero.

"Paddy, the Next Best Thing" tells of the repeated efforts of a little Irish lass to prevent her sister marrying for money. It isn't that she dislikes Larry Blair (Warner Baxter), the possessor of the money, but that she is bound her sister Eileen, portrayed by Margaret Lindsay, shall marry the boy she loves, poor young Jack Breen, played by Harvey Stephens.

Complicating her efforts is Walter Connolly, as the ever-in-debt Major, the father of Paddy and Eileen. Determined Paddy, to prevent the marriage, tells Larry that Eileen is selling herself to him, and confusion results.

Nothing, though, phases the ever agreeable Larry, and he, by plotting and planning, and maybe even lying a bit here and there, fixes everything up and produces the happy little ending expected of a Janet Gaynor picture.

In line with the main picture are the comedy shorts, a cartoon of a dancing, singing, Little Boy Blue and a simpering, scampering Mary-Had-a-Little-Lamb, as well as an Our Gang circus laugh that out-Wests Mae West.

For the nuews of the day, you get glimpses of the world's activities through the Hearst Metrotone and are taken to the earth's high spots with the Globe Trotter.

Natural

Jean Harlow has a natural role, that of a movie actress, in "Bombshell," film in the Enright Saturday.

Slim and Andy At Davis

By MARGARET RUSSELL

"Horseplay" with movieland's newest comedy team, Slim Summerville and Andy Devine, proved a hilarious antidote for too much turkey to Thanksgiving crowds yesterday, starting a new week's amusement bill of fare at the Davis.

The long, lanky Slim and the bulky, "half-witted" Andy are two cow punchers from Montana. Their mutual love is "Cynthia Ann," a beautiful white horse, although Slim's affections extend to Leila Hyams, a girl from a neighboring ranch.

The two cowboys strike it rich, buy a carload of junk from a mail order catalogue, and follow the girl to England to give her the horse. Moments of riotous horseplay follow when the Montana boys get "high" with two noble English ladies; when Slim has an aggravating session with half a grapefruit, and when he and Andy trace the inevitable villain to his doom at a costume party in a medieval castle.

Slim in a 10-gallon hat and later in a be-plumed suit of armor to which an army of ants gains entry, are sights not to be missed.

Although Andy, his man Friday, is as dull as a Sunday night in Pittsburgh, he is Johnny on the spot when it comes to shooting trouble, and a perfect partner in bigger and better "horseplay." Some of the comic sequences are a bit too prolonged to sustain interest, but if you're in no hurry to catch a train or anything, you probably won't mind.

In addition to the feature picture there is one of those awful musical novelties, "Umpa," with a chorus of girls who are nurses one moment and policemen the next; a musical cartoon featuring Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit, in "The Merry Old Soul" and a Minute Mystery, "Fast Fingers," which you probably won't be able to solve in the 10 seconds' time alotted. But don't feel badly. The police department couldn't solve it either.

Hepburn Does Grand Role In Stanley

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

You may add our rave to those that have been made about Katharine Hepburn in "Little Women," just as you will add your own if you have not done so already. "Little Women" is now on view in the Stanley. It IS a picture. The rare achievement that comes but once in the proverbial blue moon, the making of a photoplay that is really fine in all respects, has been accomplished. The Alcott characters are alive; the charm of the book is recreated with a touch as soft as a summer breeze, and infinite depth of feeling.

Although it is a triumph for Miss Hepburn, thorough, painstaking teamwork has made possible a delightful product, viewed in its entirety. It is one that catches all the enchantment, all the human elements that made Louisa May Alcott's simple little book something to clutch to your heart and cherish forever.

Indeed, it is the book all over again, and that means that all of the Little Women, and all of their friends, and all of their hopes and joys and heartaches are there on the screen—Jo and Meg and Beth and Amy and Laurie and Marmee and Aunt March. The quality of the picture they present is sadly sweet—or sweetly sad—without being either saccharine or gloomy—just soul-searching.

Take a typical scene. It is Christmas morning. The girls in a home where the fare is simple are all excited about the meal that has been prepared as a surprise for them. They are awaiting Marmee, as they call their mother. It will be such a grand breakfast! But Marmee asks them if they do not want to give to a poor family that has nothing to eat. They continue to be just as happy as they pack it up and carry it away, but, just the same, a tear will crowd in with your smile at their sacrifice.

Miss Hepburn is a masterful Jo, breezy, hoydenish, impetuous, but honestly trying to be herself, to know herself, to give the best that is in her, a quality that is to involve her in many disappointments, but eventual happiness. It is a portrayal calling for moods from comedy to tragedy, and she measures up to the requirement of every changing incident affecting herself and sisters.

You'll love Amy and her hoity-toity loftiness, and give Joan Bennett a credit mark for the characterization. Meg is nicely portrayed by Frances Dee, while Jean Parker makes Beth seem just the kind of girl that Heaven would crave, so the call is not unexpected when it comes. Edna May Oliver as Aunt March, Spring Byington as Marmee, Douglas Montgomery as Laurie, Paul Lukas as the professor and Henry Stephenson as Mr. Laurence help to make perfect the background in which Miss Hepburn develops a lovable girl into a fine woman.

Two Theaters Change Programs Today

There is a new bill in the Penn, where the screen feature is Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone in "Dancing Lady."

Bob Hall, extemporaneous rhymer, who makes up his songs on the spur of the moment, is a stage feature in the Pitt. The screen attraction is Mary Brian in "Manhattan Tower."

'Grizzlies, Geysers' Topics for Lecture

"Grizzlies and Geysers," an illustrated lecture by Philip Martindale, will be given in Carnegie Lecture Hall before the Academy of Science and Art next Thursday evening. The lecture will be sponsored by Dr. Walter B. Scaife, founder of the academy's nature lectureship.

Comedy

Slim Summerville is co-featured with Andy Devine in "Horse Play," comedy in the Davis and Sheridan Square.

Garbo Double Dislikes It

A light long held under the bushel of seclusion, Kathryn Sergava at last is making her official debut in the Hollywood family.

During the year that this blonde Russian actress was under contract to M-G-M, nothing was heard of her.

The story behind this seeming neglect of a new and unusual personality can only be surmised. But the fact that Kathryn Sergava, wearing a long bob covered by a little blue beret, looks like Greta Garbo's double must have had something to do with it.

Miss Sergava, who had been a dancer, was signed by M-G-M last year, about the time when Garbo was talking about going home. Garbo went, but Garbo came back—and shortly thereafter Kathrwn Sergava was released to Warner Bros.

Miss Sergava is not the "Garbo type," however, and she insists that the resemblance has been a "curse" rather than a blessing. That is why her make-up in her first film, "Bedside," is designed to minimize the likeness.

Twenty-three now, Kathryn has been in America about 10 years. She was born in Leningrad (then St. Petersburg) and she was just a child when the Russian revolution sent her family fleeing.

Things I'd Like to Do Again

I GO BACK to the days of the Texas Tommy Club, the wildest sawdust joint that speakeasy New York ever knew. It was nothing for a society drunk to be presented with the same check 10 or 12 times. (The bosses very seldom went near their own emplace. They admitted openly that it was a little too tough for them.)

To engage in a literary conversation with the female owner of the Sphinx Club in Paris. In the Sphinx, a club run exclusively to shock the tourists, the girls wear nothing but tiny aprons. (They will not serve hard liquor in this spot, and I asked the owner why. She seemed a trifle shocked—and told me it was against the law!)

Ask my much younger brother about a certain young lady whom he formerly escorted to a school dance every now and then. ("Aw," was his disgusted reply, "she ran off and got married to some old guy about 28 years of age!")

Call the handsome Argentinian, Barney Gallant, at 5 in the morning, impersonate a police lieutenant on the wire, tell him that a certain friend was being held in the station house, and did he want to do anything about it? (Although there never was any such case, Barney called me the next afternoon, swore me to secrecy, told me the whole story—and wound up by saying that he had had the case removed from the records!)

Request the American consul at Jerusalem to recommend a doctor so that I could be examined for accidental life insurance. (I was very seriously informed that they could not possibly recommend a doctor—but that, if I wished, they would recommend two of them. You figure it out!)

Stage a dress rehearsal of my vaudeville act in the Lyric Theater after a regular performance of "Fifty Million Frenchmen" so that Billy Gaxton could suggest a few changes. (After he had seen it, Gaxton said loudly, "That's great, Mark. Positively swell. Congratulations." And then, softly, to me: "You're not actually opening in a thing like that, are you?")

Bet a young gentleman named Alan David thirty cents on a Yale-Princeton football game and wonder how I was going to pay off if I lost. (I'm betting more these days—but I'm still wondering.)

Drive all night from New York to Saratoga Springs in order to see a heavily advertised horse race that was to be run that afternoon. (Before going to the track, I decided to rest in my hotel for an hour. And when I awakened, it was eight o'clock at night!)

* * *

Buy my first radio set—with earphones—in order to hear the Democrati Convention at Madison Square Garden in 1924. (The set cost me one hundred bucks, and the tubes blew out on the first ballot!)

* * *

Agree to help in the staging of a benefit for a worthy cause, and secure—as my first act—an actress who was doing slapstick sketches in the Winter Garden. The actress didn't know me, but she agreed to take part without hesitation. (Her name was Marie Dressler, bless her, and she was always just as sweet as she is today).

Have an unknown man approach my table in a night club and direct a torrent of abuse at me. (As they were throwing him out of the joint I heard him cry: "Please don't hit me, boys. I didn't mean any harm. But I simply had to tell that Winchell what I thought of him!")

* * *

Stand against the bar in the Black Bottom Club with Lee Tracy in December, 1928, and bet him $50 that he'd be looking for a job of any sort within five years. (By a remarkable coincidence, Lee, I win that bet. But I won't take the money because, to practically everyone, you're just as great a star as you ever were.)

Sit at a table in the Colony restaurant and hear Flo Ziegfeld offered a job as head theatrical man in a proposed dream known as Radio City. Although the project was two years from completion, Flo turned the proposition down with the assertion that he'd be dead before it opened. (As in so many things, Flo was terribly right.)

* * *

Wear my garters the wrong way around for fully three months after I received my first pair of long trousers. (I could have asked about it before, but I was ashamed to let people know I was wearing my first pair of "longies.")

* * *

Judge my first beauty contest. The contest was staged as part of a dance that was given by a "social organization" at Palm Garden. (The president, whom the other boys referred to as "Killer" Malloy, pointed out his girl and whispered that, if she didn't win, anything might happen. She won. If she had been Polly Moran, she still would have won.) . . .

PENNSYLVANIA TRUST STARTS LIQUIDATION

Deposits made in the closed Pennsylvania Trust Company since March 1, when the bank was placed on a restricted basis, will be paid in full within about a week, it became known today.

Money on deposit previous to that time will be subject to the usual procedure of bank liquidation and no estimate can be made at this time of the percentage to be realized. Restricted deposits amount to about $2,804,000.

START LIQUIDATION

The Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh today assumed jurisdiction of the trust department accounts of the closed Pennsylvania Trust Company while Frank W. Jackson, receiver, started the task of liquidating the commercial banking business of the defunct institution.

The Pennsylvania Trust was one of four banks in this state taken over by the Pennsylvania Banking Department after the close of business on Wednesday. These banks, which had been operating on a restricted basis under the Sordoni Act, were unable to complete, or to show progress toward, reorganizations. Reorganization plans of 23 banks were approved and eight banks were given further extensions.

The Orphan's Court and the Common Pleas Court on Wednesday issued an order transferring the various trusts administered by the Pennsylvania Trust to The Colonial Trust. The Colonial, however, is not taking over any other activities of the closed bank.

BRADFORD ELECTED

James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial, announced that Avery J. Bradford, who has been president of the Pennsylvania, has been elected a vice president of the Colonial to take charge of the trust accounts transferred from the Pennsylvania Trust. Mr Chaplin declared:

"Mr. Bradford was elected a vice president of the Colonial Trust Company, without portfolio, in order that he may have freedom of action in dealing not only with trusts of the Pennsylvania Trust Company, but as well with other activities of the Colonial Trust Company."

BRADDOCK BANK TO OPEN SOON

Directors and officers of the new First National Bank at Braddock have been approved by the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve Bank officials, according to word received here.

Opening of the new bank is expected soon. The new bank includes 1,100 stockholders, and for that reason an unusually large directorate has been named. Approximately $1,000,000 will be released to depositors in the old First National Bank of Braddock when the new bank is opened.

New officers are: President, Henry J. Wagner; vice president, Fred H. Meyer; executive vice president, E. C. Striebich; cashier, Thomas M. Watt. Directors: Wagner, Meyer, Dr. Chris Gardner, F. A. Bishoff, F. DeWitt Zurner, Malcolm Goldsmith, Dr. L. Q. Calihan, C. B. Guttridge, John J. Schwerha, William B. Roderus and D. H. DeMardo.

BANK CLOSED IN JOHNSTOWN

International News Service.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 1.—The State Department of Banking has taken charge of the affairs of the Title, Trust and Guarantee Company of Johnstown, and will begin early liquidation of its assets, it was learned today.

William D. Gordon, coincident with publication of the liquidation information, announced extensions have been granted to four other local banks in which to consummate their plans for reorganization.

Closing of Title, Trust and Guarantee marks the first bank failure in this city for many years. The move follows closely on the heels of arrest of two of its officials for alleged misapplication of bank funds.

Reporter 'Convinced' By Ripley Exibition

She Couldn't Have Believed Wonders Without Seeing

By MARGARET RUSSELL

Oh my, oh my, oh my! I'm all out of breath.

I've just been to Ripley's Odditorium at 333 Fifth avenue and, Believe It or Not, I'm convinced! Of what? Well, of a number of incredible things I wouldn't have believed existed this side of the Never-Never Land, if I hadn't seen them with my very own eyes. In broad daylight. And I was wide-awake. I know, because I pinched myself to see.

Now, I have never considered myself any more or less skeptical than the average person, but if anyone had ever told me that there was in existence a man who could talk without vocal chords or a windpipe, a baby with four arms and three legs, a human pincushion who fastens his socks to his legs with safetypins, a comely girl who swallows swords and even electric light bulbs and a man who plays a glowing blow-torch over his bare chest, I think I would have smiled as good-naturedly as I could, and edged my way quickly to the nearest exit.

But seeing is believing, and there they were; the crocodile or elephant-skinned man; the leopard-skinned man; the rubber-skinned girl; the girl with the baby's body; the man who blows smoke through a hole in his back; the mule-faced lady; the man who plays music on leaves; the man who can make his feet and his head face in opposite directions; the armless wonder who shaves himself, brushes his hair, lights his cigar and throws knives at a woman we hope is not his wife, with his toes; the ossified man; the artist who can draw two pictures simultaneously and other human oddities that startle the imagination and tax the credulity.

I'm convinced there never was such a show in Pittsburgh as Ripley sent here this week, direct from Chicago's World Fair.

Besides the some 25 human oddities, there are more than 300 inanimate curiosities, such as violins made from matches, chairs made from bottle caps, cannibal's chop sticks, a Chinese compass, a carrot which grew in the shape of a human hand and a rice grain on which has been written 2,871 letters by an Ardara (Pa.) man, E. L. Blystone, who received second prize in Ripley's national Believe It Or Not Contest in 1932.

Because other critics in the East are clamoring for a glimpse of the strange, unbelievable sights in Ripley's Odditorium, the show closes tomorrow in Pittsburgh after continuous performances from 10 a. m. until midnight.

A special children's matinee price of 10 cents will be available from 10 a. m. until noon tomorrow. Regular admission prices are: 40 cents for adults at all times and 15 cents for children, 12 years and under.

The exhibition is sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph, in which Ripley's Believe It Or Not column is a daily feature. The Sun-Telegraph's entire share of the proceeds will go to swell a fund to distribute Christmas charity.

Drama Teachers To Meet Tomorrow

Drama teachers of the Pittsburgh district will meet at a luncheon, arranged by the Pittsburgh Drama League, at Kaufmann's dining room tomorrow. A round-table discussion on the means of exchanging tickets for school plays will precede the meeting. Miss Matilda Bachmann, of Carrick High School, will be chairman.

HELD IN 2 CAFE BRICK ATTACKS

Charles Kennedy, 40, of 801 Washington street, Braddock, was to appear in Central Police Court today to tell why he hurled a brick through a window of the White Tower Restaurant, 1037 Liberty avenue, and a short time later hurled another into the window of Caruso's Restaurant, 941 Liberty avenue, according to police.

At the latter place, police said, Kennedy scooped up a bunch of figs and two cans of preserves, also taking a robe from the automobile of Michael Potti, proprietor of the restaurant.

Police Guard Ship, Clash With Strikers

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A force of 350 police including a tear gas squad, today repulsed an effort of more than 500 striking longshoremen to break through lines drawn around a vessel being unloaded at its pier by non union men.

MOTHER SAVES CHILD IN FIRE

A 28-year-old mother returning into her smoke-filled home in Mt. Washington early today after having carried her 6-year-old son to safety collapsed, as her husband rescued a second son.

The two children, John, 9, and Frederick, 6, both burned, were taken to South Side Hospital. The mother, Mrs. Anna Feathers, of 653 Curtis street, slightly burned and affected by the smoke, was also a patient.

Mrs. Feathers told police that she was awakened by smoke filling her bedroom. In her excitement she ran to a window, jumped to a porch roof and to the ground, where she called for help. Running back into the building, she awakened her husband, Dailey, and had succeeded in getting one of her two boys to safety when overcome.

The two children were not seriously burned.

The fire, starting in the basement, caused loss estimated by firemen at $1,000.

Pattern 1657

If counting calories is your lot, we want to give you this tip. Any woman can feel smart, be "up-to-the-minute" and look inches slimmer when she wears this charming afternoon frock! The surplice bodice accented by a refreshing note of contrast, the flattering revers, sleeves once again straight, and slender skirt panels with pleats for animation were designed to create that desired look. Pattern 1657 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 3¾ yards 39-inch fabric and ¼ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

COURT PERMITS FATHER'S KISS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A court order permits a father to kiss his 3-year-old daughter one day a week—the only time he sees her.

The father, David Cohen, is divorced from his wife and has the custody of their daughter, Janet, one afternoon each week.

A nurse always accompanies the child on this visit, and yesterday Cohen complained to Judge Theodore Rosen in Domestic Relations Court, the nurse continually interrupted with advice to the child.

Cohen said:

"She even objected when I kissed the child."

Judge Rosen turned to Dr. William Drayton, Jr., court psychiatrist, for advice. The physician upheld the father's right to kiss his daughter, but sided with Mrs. Cohen, who insisted the nurse be on hand to care for the child.

Smith Real Patronage Approver Here

By MARK SHIELDS

The Pennsylvania Boxing Commission received a new member Wednesday in the appointment of Dr. W. D. McClelland by Gov. Pinchot.

But more than that happened.

At the same time the fight official was named Allegheny County learned who is the real and undisputed approver of state patronage for this section.

It is Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Mr. Shields

For some time it has been understood that Judge Smith exercised the principal function along this line, with County Commissioner C. McGovern, old-time Pinchot associate, in the background, but still effective. It was assumed that at least Col. McGovern would be effective when he asked on his own account for an appointment, though it was known he had shelved the general question of patronage as an annoyance with which he did not care to bother.

Wishes of Smith Are Respected

But now it develops that when an appointment is on the fire, and Judge Smith wants one man and Col. McGovern wants another, the wishes of Judge Smith are respected.

No other conclusion can be drawn from the occurrence of Wednesday, for Col. McGovern was insistent upon the reappointment of Havey J. Boyle. He made the matter something of a real issue, and both he and Judge Smith saw the Governor on the subject.

Gov. Pinchot evidently has determined that in future political campaigns—and he is contemplating at least one more—there is a greater anticipated political value from assisting Judge Smith than in aiding Col. McGovern. Otherwise he would not have so signally indicated his predilection for doing those things which are desired by Judge Smith though they be opposed by Col. McGovern.

Dr. McClelland is expected to fit as an integral cog into the tight little political organization Judge Smith and his close friends have been constructing, and expanding. In addition to his own collegiate following Dr. McClelland has some practical politicians in his corner, and they assisted Judge Smith in the recent primary and general election. Reasonably they now will be expected to assist Mr. Pinchot in anything he or one of his designates runs for in 1934.

McClelland's Friend Gets Smith Indorsement

One of the friends of Dr. McClelland is Dave Roberts of the Fifth Ward, one-time candidate for ward chairman and lately a sort of adjutant to Harry Feldman, recognized by the city administration as ward leader. Roberts handles four districts in the ward, and these four had a Republican majority greater than the aggregate for the ward.

In the primary Roberts was responsible for securing for Judge Smith the indorsement of the regular organization in his ward, worth some recompense in face of the fact that Senator James J. Coyne, Republican leader, was opposed to Judge Smith. Roberts earned no warm regard from Coyne for what he did.

It would be a mistake to conclude that the boxing commission episode means a break between the Governor and Col. McGovern to the extent that McGovern would fight the Governor in a campaign. But it does indicate that he will not support him with extreme warmth, and that there is something approximating a break between the County Commission chairman and the Judge.

The private conferences which led up to the sidetracking of Boyle and seating of McClelland were predicated on that assumption.

Judge Smith became attached to the Pinchot bandwagon in 1930 through the agency of James F. Malone, who left the regular organization to support Mr. Pinchot in the primary. He at that time was teamed with McGovern, but broke with him later.

Break Over Boyle and McClelland

Strangely enough, the break was over Boyle and McClelland, Malone succeeding in 1931 in having the latter named to replace Boyle, but the substitution lasted only a few weeks, when McClelland was removed and Boyle restored.

Smith stuck with Pinchot and became a Deputy Attorney General and then a Judge, his friendship with Malone not remaining quite as close as it had.

Meanwhile, through the period when he was Deputy Attorney General and known to be close to the Governor, Judge Smith began the creation of a group for political action. It was expanded as he grew in authority with the state administration, and the growth was accelerated when Judge Smith stepped to the bench.

The value of this organization to the Judge was exemplified in the recent elections. Its value next must be to Mr. Pinchot, and it is along this line that the Judge is working. The appointment of Dr. McClelland is part of the plan, Boyle having had no political strength. He was backed by Senator Frank J. Harris, but that aid together with the friendship of McGovern was unavailing.

RETURN VISITS NOW HOPE IN FUND DRIVE

Ask Original Givers To Help Make Up Shortage

A return visit to subscribers to the Welfare Fund will begin next Monday, in hopes that many of them can make additional contributions to overcome the $1,000,000 shortage, it was announced by John W. Lawrence, chairman of the drive.

Inability to reach the goal set will leave community service in Allegheny County in a desperate condition, it was announced.

REPORT MONDAY

Subscriptions of $1,806,148 had been brought in on the budget of $2,837,980 at the closing of the campaign last Tuesday. A large volume of smaller contributions from city and county neighborhoods, employ groups and unit campaigns in the larger communities of the county was inticipated for the first additional report meeting this coming Monday.

Word was received at campaign headquarters last Wednesday that McKeesport, shooting at a quota of $76,000, had gone over the top. This means an additional $40,000 to add to the total at the next report meeting.

WAIT NEW TRIAL PLEA OF FAHEY

Attorneys for Charles F. E. Fahey, chief clerk in the local office of the Auditor General, found guilty of embracery in the alleged plot to fix the "Three Toms" jury, today were expected to file a motion for a new trial.

Fahey following his conviction late Wednesday evening was released pending the next move of his attorneys. Tom Coyne, brother of Senator James J. Coyne faces trial on a similar charge. They were charged with conspiracy to fix the jury that was to try Tom Coyne, Tom (Goose) Goslin and Tom Dolan on liquor and gambling charges that grew out of the raid on the Monaca Club.

Bugs Learns He Owes 2 Cents to Self, or Someone

Recent squabbles among the great prove that a country is without honor in its own prophets.

Nevertheless, it's time for the pecan to stop calling the almond nutty.

Nobody cares whether they make a dollar out of silver, gold or zinc. We will take a picnic plate if it has the U. S. government seal on it.

We ain't going to worry about that paper bill until they cancel George Washington's picture and use Mona Lisa's.

In the meantime all this political abuse and economic condemnation returns to its source like the boomerang to the Australian bushman.

If you really want to harvest a diversified crop of gray hairs and wrinkles listen to this:

Once the dollar was $1.65. Today it is 63 cents. It has lost $1.02 or two cents more than a dollar.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 1.

Didn't want to get too enthusiastic about Thanksgiving till I saw how it turned out. My old friend, W. S. (Bill) Hart, showed up at my igloo with a "gobbler" that he had shot with two guns.

Will Rogers

Now if you will bring everything, I defy anybody to give you a nicer party than I will. Homer Croy, the writer of "They Had to See Paris," as hungry as an author can be; Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, looking exactly 25 years old, and not reducing, and then an outlaw dropped in.

He was only the crown prince's son, the ex-Kraiser's grandson, Prince Ferdinand. While he got no white meat as in his early childhood, he seemed mighty cheerful, and a fine young chap, and was satisfied with the wings.

None of us had any gold, so we were in a receptive mood.

PARKS FOR 'HILL' PROPOSED BY M'NAIR

Mayor-Elect Suggests City Acquire Slum Property for Taxes

By HOWARD L. BROWNING
Staff Correspondent.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Pittsburgh's slum dwellers are going to acquire some parks in an unexpected way if present plans of Mayor-elect William N. McNair materialize.

The Democratic next Mayor would sell for taxes many Hill district and North Side properties on which are buildings unfit for habitation.

He'd demolish the buildings and make parks of the land.

He explains himself:

"The owners of the properties have been letting taxes pile up for years.

"Many of the big estates haven't paid their taxes—because the properties haven't been earning them.

"So do you know what I'll do? I'll sell these properties for taxes.

"But nobody'll buy them because the taxes are more than the properties are worth.

"So the city'll own the properties and make parks out of them.

"We ought to have some parks and playgrounds up in the Hill district anyhow."

SEEKS SPONSOR

McNair is working out the mechanics of the problem and is thinking of asking some organization like the Pittsburgh Housing Association to check up on undesirable buildings the city could acquire in that manner.

McNair said:

"That's why I'm sorry to see John Ihlder going to Washington, as I understand he is. He has all that information at his fingertips."

McNair points out that it is hard for a workman of modest means to find a modern home in Pittsburgh. He says:

"Getting new homes for them is even more important than getting rid of the old.

"I want to see this plan of George Evans' go through. That's a good thing."

George E. Evans, Democratic nominee for City Council who withdrew in favor of William A. Magee, has applied for a federal loan to a limited dividend housing corporation to build 220 modern homes on 15 acres of land in the Brighton road district.

Evans who, with his daughter, Mrs. William C. Ridge, and Mrs. McNair, is accompanying McNar, stopped in Washington to apply for the loan. He says:

"We already own 10 acres and we have the other five under option.

"We could start work at once, giving employment to a whole lot of men.

"The houses would be in groups of four on a sort of garden city plan. Only about 18

BLESS CHURCH CORNERSTONE

The cornerstone of St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church was laid yesterday, with Bishop P. V. Pakac officiating. More than a score of priests participated in the blessing service.

The church, to cost $30,000, is being built on Greenfield avenue.

1,200 MEN WILL BE PROVIDED WORK

Pollution Costing District Huge Sum Annually

Western Pennsylvania housewives and industrialists can look forward to a new water era—one that might be called the "soft water" era.

And sportsmen may again after many years, see fish swimming in the rivers and streams of the district.

For the Civil Works Administration in Washington has announced that 1,200 men will be given work in sealing up abandoned coal mines in Western Pennsylvania.

R. D. Leitch, chemical engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines here, said today that plans had been made by a local group to place a number of the men to work before December 10. Others must wait, due to the weather and inaccessibility of the abandoned mines. The local group, through the Bureau of Mines here, urged the government to spend $350,000 in the work.

50-YEAR FIGHT WON

With the project approved, the end of a 50-year fight against stream pollution appeared in sight.

According to Leitch, hundreds of thousands of dollars will be saved users of water every year.

The relation between abandoned unsealed coal mines is this:

The water of coal mines, exposed to air, assumes a heavy sulphuric acid content, which, flowing into the streams, pollutes it.

The acid turns the water "hard," kills the fish and other river life, injures cotton and linen fabric, boilers of steamers and locomotives and industrial equipment and corodes plumbing.

A survey made by the Flood Commission, headed by the late H. J. Heinz, in 1916, reported that Pittsburghers used more soap to soften water than any other community in the nation, and that the bill every years was $280,000 in excess of what should be used.

ASPINWALL HARD HIT

Last September, the city water works at Aspinwall reported the use of $1,000 worth of soda ash each day to soften the city's water. The city spends $27,000 a year to check acidity.

And a United States Engineer's survey in 1912 showed the acid caused $50,000 a year damage to the dams in the Western Pennsylvania streams.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials, at the same time, estimated the damage to locomotive boilers at $7,000 a year.

No estimate could be made, Mr. Leitch said, of the damage caused in industrial plants, or private homes, but it was understood to be tremendous.

Kenneth A. Reid, of Connellsville, a member of the State Fish Commission, was the prime mover in getting the program before the Civil Works Administration. The Izaak Walton League, Thomas Liggett, chairman of its stream pollution committee, and Ralph L. Smith, chairman of the legislative committee, were also active.

OPERATOR 13 -:- -:- by Robert W. Chambers

Gail Victorious In Game With Enemy Spy

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.

It was Miss Ford's shot. She steadied her mallet, took aim and hit the red-striped ball a solid crack.

"Oh, dear!" said Gail Loveless as her blue-striped ball bounded wide of the wicket, where it had lain in perfect position.

"Now," remarked Miss Ford, with satisfaction, "I shall send you away where you'll do no more mischief in the world." She placed the balls side by side, set her foot upon her own ball and hit it. The impact sent her opponent's ball halfway across the lawn.

Another girl, leaning from an upper window, called down: "How cruel you are to Miss Loveless, Antonio! You treat her like she was a Yankee!"

"War is war," remarked Miss Ford. "Ask John Pelham."

The girl at the upper window blushed. She was very lovely. And that yellow-haired, smooth-cheeked boy, Jonn Pelham, the idol of the Confederacy, had looked rather deeply into her young eyes. And was impatient to look again.

She was a Miss Shackleford of Culpeper; her intimates called her Bessie.

Now, from the lower floor, a new and defiant song came through Blythedale's open windows:

"Up with the crimson battle-flag—
Let the blue pennon fly;
Our steeds are stamping fiercely—
They hear our battle-cry.
The bursting bomb, the bugles' scream
Proclaim the Yank is near;
Strike! Strike for God and Dixie
And all we hold most dear!"

More Patriotism

Shy applause from little Miss Shackleford, who had stolen noiselessly down into the music parlor.

"Now you sing, Bessie!" cried Rosalie, jumping up from the piano stool.

And Miss Shakleford seated herself shyly and sang in excellent taste Anne Chambers' "Nec Temere."

"Gentlemen of the South
Gird on your shining swords!
Like locusts in a drouth
Gather the northern hordes.
Ruthless and fierce they ride;
Gentlemen of the South.
Smite their barbaric pride at your thunderous cannon's mouth!
Cor unum via una!
"Gentlemen of the South!"

On the croquet ground it was Gail Loveless' shot. A very long and almost holpless shot. She swung her mallet with deadly intent; her ball flew straight. Crack! She had hit Miss Ford's red ball at the final wicket and stake, and victory was within her grasp.

"Oh, Gail," exclaimed Antonia Ford, "what are you going to do to me?"

Romantic Pelham

"Make an end of you, my dear," said Miss Loveless gently. And she did, without remorse, and ended the game with a slapping shot through the last two wickets, hitting the stake with a crack.

They strolled back to the veranda trailing their mallets behind them.

"Did you see Elizabeth blush when I mentioned John Pelham?" said Antonia. "Isn't she the sweetest! And I do believe John Pelham is courting her."

"Does she care for him?" inquired Gail.

"Of course. Any girl would. John Pelham is the gunner. The 'Gallant Pelham.' Just a major of artillery, and all the world is in love with him. I'd rather die than marry a Yankee. Any Southern girl would. But if I could marry John Pelham at the price of my life, I'd die very joyfully to be his wife."

They mounted the veranda and laid aside their gaily painted mallets.

Rosalie Blythe had wearied of her war songs and now she and Elizabeth Shackleford came out to the veranda, where Antonia and Gail Loveless already were seated at a table picking lint.

Conversation concerning the review of the cavalry brigade stationed near Culpeper and scheduled for the same day.

Rosalie said: "My father had a telegram last night. There is going to be a court-martial held at Culpeper."

"When?" asked Operator 13 carelessly.

"On Thursday, the fourteenth. Gen. Jeb Stuart is coming up by train to be a witness."

There was much excitement at that news.

"Perhaps he'll bring John Pelham with him," suggested Antonia to Elizabeth; and the child blushed again.

"Is he bringing any more troops?" asked Operator 13.

"We don't need more troops," replied Antonia proudly.

Martial Music

As she spoke the distant strains of a cavalry band came to their ears.

"Here comes Fitzhugh Lee and his review," said Rosalie. "I do hope they've sent up new uniforms from Richmond. Or at least I hope that they've captured a brand new supply from the Yankees."

Nearer and nearer came the gay music of the cavalry band. Very soon the girls could see horses' heads tossing and brass instruments shining through the trees.

"There's Gen. Fitz Lee himself," said Elizabeth. "He looks like a Norse god!"

Lawn and veranda were shaking, now, under the trend of 2,000 horsemen. Through the trees their beautiful red battle flags came into view; the brigade band rode out into the open sunshine with a dazzling flash of instruments and a gay roll of kettledrums.

"Oh, goodness," said Antonia, "they certainly are a ragged lot, poor dears!"

Cavalry and Guns

They were. Their gray cavalry jackets had turned to all colors and to no particular color; their headgear resembled last year's dead leaves in tint. But they rode jauntily, gayly, impudently alert.

Fitzhugh Lee—he of the Jove-like classic profile—rode in new gray and gold with his freshly uniformed staff under the scarlet flash of battle flags.

There followed a colonel in faded tunic leading the First Virginia cavalry, who wore blue uniforms taken in Chambersburg last October, and now ragged and dingy.

Then came the Second Virginia horse, very ragged, followed by the Third, Fourth and Fifth. Then guns clanked and chains and harness rattled; and the horse artillery appeared with its burning guidons bobbing.

And Operator 13 was mentally counting every trooper, every horse and every polished gun that jolted by, and planning to send the information to Col. Sharpe by midnight.

After the review, Maj. Blythe brought back some officers for midday dinner. There was good Madeira and good Bourbon at Blythedale. Dinners always went gayly in the beautiful old dining room with its ancient silver and glass and mahogany.

Maj. Blythe, who had given his arm to Gail Loveless, seated her, and then took the table's head. His motherless daughter, Rosalie, took the other end.

Captain Gailliard

There was a vast and happy confusion of voices as the ladies were seated by their cavaliers. In the gay tumult Gail Loveless noticed an empty chair on her left and turned to see who had been allotted to her at table. An officer in gray and gold was just coming in, had already approached the empty chair; was bowing low to her.

And she looked up into the scarred, sun-burnt face of Capt. Jack Gailliard.

The frozen smile remained stamped on her features; her chilled heart seemed to stop, and every vein grew icy.

"Miss Loveless," said Maj. Blythe ceremoniously, "allow me, ma'am, to present my young friend, Capt. Jack Gailliard, who is fortunate to be your cavalier . . . Capt. Gailliard, suh, Miss Loveless of Washington, who is an honored guest at Blythedale."

For one terrible, smiling moment their eyes met. Then he bowed.

Her first breath, drawn painfully, was almost a sob. And yet it was instantly evident that he had not recognized her. Her white skin, fashionably dressed hair, pretty, modish clothes, seemed utterly to disguise her.

Nor did he even seem to hear in her charming fresh and modulated voice any faintest echo of the saucy drawl of "lil Lucille," the headquarters' mulatto laundress, at Bower House. Apparently, there was nothing in this young girl that recalled to him the harsh, frightened tones of the ragged fugitive, who had so recently stopped him at the pistol's point, and who, with Vespasion Chancellor and himself, had watched a Confederate spy being done to death at sunset on a hayrick gallows.

Through the merry clatter of

What Has Gone Before

The Union cavalry generals complained bitterly that they could not surprise their brave and alert enemies, Jeb Stuart and Fitzhugh Lee. Col. Sharpe, head of the Federal Secret Service, told them it was because of the activities of a girl Confederate spy, Antonia Ford, whose ancestral home was at Culpeper.

Clever, bold and resourceful, Miss Ford was a vital link in Gen. Stuart's chain of spies. So, Col. Sharpe sent beautiful Gail Loveless, Operator 13 in the Federal Secret Service, to Culpeper, Operator 13, an accomplished actress and a daring and successful spy, went to Culpeper and actually became the house guest of Antonia Ford. Her instructions were to checkmate the other girl's efforts and, if opportunity presented, to surrender her to the Union Army for punishment.

Gail Loveless, for her part, was certain to be hanged if the Confederates discovered her identity. Yet she played croquet with Antonia Ford under the trees of the beautiful estate as coolly and as if no danger impended.

Now Go On With the Story

Girl Is Shocked When Introduced to Gailliard

silver and china and chorusing voices this young girl's voice came to him with limpid clarity. "We witnessed the splendid review of the cavalry this morning, Capt. Gailliard. Which your own regiment?"

"I have no regiment, ma'am," he explained politely. "I am special duty under Mr. Gast in Richmond."

"How romantic," she murmured. "I'm very sure could, if you chose, tell me wonderful stories than Othello told to little Desdemona."

"No," he said modestly, could not."

"Haven't you had any adventures, sir?" Her velvet eyes very wide.

"None worth mentioning, ma'am." Suddenly he blushing. And the reason his mounting color was something in her eyes, love dark orchids, had reminded him of an infatuation of which no white man could be proud.

Devilish Question

The girl knew it, intuition made her certain; and instantly, in spite of her peril, all the delicate devilry in her was aroused. "Capt. Gailliard," she said innocently, "I have often wondered how a black man like Othello could interest such a proud girl as Desdemona."

Gailliard's face became hard. "Of course," she said, "you and I couldn't understand such a thing." She laughed innocently. "As though for instance a southern gentleman like yourself ever could notice even

THANKSGIVING FEASTS CHEER NEEDY HERE

Turkey dinners and special programs of entertainment yesterday featured Pittsburgh's observance of Thanksgiving.

More than 3,000 school children were guests of the Salvation Army at its headquarters on the Boulevard of the Allies. They were served in relays of 500, under direction of Col. C. B. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, who acted as hosts.

Many families, among them Gold Star Mothers, entertained more than 300 veterans in their homes, arrangements for the feasts having been made by the United American Veterans' Association.

Vaudeville acts were a feature of the entertainment at a dinner given more than 400 needy by the Volunteers of America, East Diamond street, North Side.

BASKETS DISTRIBUTED

In addition to institutional dinners, school children, Girl and Boy Scouts, club women and members of many organizations distributed baskets to homes of the destitute. More than 200 former prisoners were entertained at the Parting of the Ways Home, 216 East Stockton avenue, North Side. The dinner has been an annual feature at the home more than 20 years.

Special dinners and musical programs were provided at the Western Penitentiary and the County Jail, and Harry Kramer was host to a large number of newsboys at a restaurant in Sixth avenue.

More than 150 men and women attended a dinner last night in the Christ Rescue Mission, East Park avenue, North Side, being guests of Mrs. Asia Negley, president and organizer of the Mission.

HOMELESS BOYS DINE

More than 1,500 men were entertained at a dinner and took part in a musical program led by movie stars in the Improvement of the Poor Home, Duquesne way. Forty-five homeless boys were entertained at the branch at Fifth avenue and Washington avenue.

Throughout the district special services were held in churches.

A Thanksgiving service was held in the United Presbyterian Church, Ninth avenue, Homestead. The Rev. John R. Jose, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Homestead, delivered the sermon.

The Rev. James Howard Doud, pastor of the church, and the Rev. W. J. Seiberling, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Homestead, also took part in the service. The collection was donated to the Homestead Hospital.

MAN, FIXING CAR, SHOT IN CHEST

Two women and a man were to be questioned by county detectives today in connect with the shooting of Boyd W. Hamilton, 23, of 932 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, early yesterday in Patton Township.

They are Laura Hamilton, sister of the victim; Ruth Boyle, 22, of 817 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, and Wilburt James, who lived with Hamilton, according to the detectives.

After dining at a barbecue on the William Penn highway, the quartet started for the city in an automobile. Engine trouble developed and Hamilton got out to investigate. A few minutes later a shot was fired and he fell.

After receiving first aid from a Universal physician, Hamilton was taken to Columbia Hospital by his companions. The bullet struck him in the chest.

VOTE MACHINES TO EMPLOY 80

The Allegheny County Commissioners today had on file at the local Civil Works Administration headquarters a request for machinists and laborers who will be employed in the repairing of the county's 1,100 voting machines. The application requests 40 machinists and 40 laborers with shop experience. The machinists will get $6 a day and the laborers $4 a day.

Director William T. Rees, of the Elections Department, informed the Commissioners he would need the men for about 55 days. He said it would take about two weeks to make dies for the new interlocking link and installation of the links could be started immediately after.

The Commissioners and members of the Harris Voting Machine Committee will inspect one of the voting machines, on which the faulty intermittent link has been repaired, sometime today.

per cent of the land would be occupied by buildings."

LOW RENTALS

With that 82 per cent of land given to lawns and playgrounds, the cost of renting, Evans says, would run around $7 a month a room for four, five and six-room homes. And, chimes in McNair:

"It could even be lower than that if Council would pass a five-year tax exemption on all new homes costing less than $6,000 started in the next few months and completed in a reasonable time."

For that tax exemption McNair is going to work hard when he becomes Mayor, he says.

Another idea he has been turning over in his mind is utilization of waste or vacant land in Pittsburgh for gardens for the unemployed next spring and summer.

That would take more foreclosure work, but McNair says he might interest the League of Women Voters or a similar group to get deeds from property owners whose taxes, piled up over years, made their land unsaleable.

By giving the owners a nominal sum, McNair thinks the league could persuade them to deed their property to the city. And that, McNair thinks, would be even cheaper than selling the properties at tax sales. Then, the Mayor-elect says:

"Why not make arrangements for the unemployed to use the land for gardens. Tell them to build little shacks on their strips of land and live their. Of course, in the winter we'd have to find them new homes."

GETTING RESTLESS

Meanwhile, McNair's getting restless and wants to turn back. He is not interested in much of the general activity down here.

Mrs. McNair and Evans had almost to drag him off for a ride yesterday afternoon, capped with a Thanksgiving dinner in the country. He said he'd "much rather sit on the front porch and talk."

Another victory for Mrs. McNair and Mrs. Ridge came Wednesday evening when they persuaded the mayor-elect to see a movie.

McNair's principal amusements come in early morning strolls along wharves, trying the heft of this and that fisherman's rod, admiring Miami's beauty and making plans to bring Pennsylvania's National Guard to Miami for a winter sojourn. He says:

"I want the folks up home to know about this place."

NAB PIG AFTER 2-HOUR CHASE

This is the modern version of the wild pig—the pig that Earl Moore, the rabbit hunter, bought.

Moore, of Youngstown, O., sent the animal, a 30-pounder, to his father-in-law, Michael Tesla, of 802 Semple street, North Avalon, for Thanksgiving dinner. He had promised to send rabbits, but his hunt for them failed. Tesla and friends were trying to hold the pig to kill it yesterday morning, so that it would be ready for the oven. With a squeal and a tug and a snap, the pig got away.

Friends and neighbors and children—between 30 and 40—were organized for the chase. They raced after the animal over the hills of North Avalon, and after two hours, one of the youths in a flying tackle pinned the animal's legs down.

Gambler Bucks World, Mathematics, 'Prof' Says

Numbers Racket Held Pitiful for Only 1 Out of 999 Wins

A gambler doesn't have a chance, because he's putting his little lump of money against the world's. And for the "numbers racket" the situation is actually pitiful, Dr. J. S. Taylor, professor of mathematics at the University of Pittsburgh, declared today.

Invited to speak on "The Principles of Gambling" tomorrow before the Association of Mathematics Teachers in Atlantic City, Dr. Taylor today gave out a few facts about gambling, reached through the "law of probability." Dr. Taylor explains:

"When the gambling proprietor has an edge, it proves to be immensely profitable for him.

"When it comes to such things as the 'numbers racket,' the situation is actually pitiful.

"In effect, 999 people contribute $1 each, the winner receiving $450 and the operator of the lottery $549 for his share. It would seem that even a little education in the principles of the laws of chance might do much to reduce such evils as this.

"Most people are confused concerning what the mathematical theory of probability really is. They have heard that the probability that a tossed coin will fall heads is one-half and jump to the conclusion that this means that for a large number of tosses the number of heads and the number of tails will be approximately equal. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Probability values state facts concerning ratios, not differences. As the number of tosses increases the number of heads divided by the number of tosses approaches one-half, but the difference between the number of heads and the number of tails does not approach zero.

"In gambling to any extent an individual is pitting his finite resources against the resources of the rest of the world. When he wins he finds the world still has money to bet against him and wait for the pendulum to swing the other way, but when he gets behind to the extent of his comparatively small resources he is forced to stop."

SCORNS WORK, GETS 30 DAYS

John Damboski, 42, city, one of 22 men arrested for loitering at the downtown postoffice, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today:

"I don't work and furthermore I don't want to work."

He was sent to the workhouse for 30 days.

Five others were fined $10 each or 10 days in jail. The remainder were discharged when they explained they went into the federal building to keep warm. All were charged with vagrancy.

WIDOW-SLAYER TO GET ESTATE

International News Service.

PAULSBORO, N. J., Dec. 1.—All that Sheldon A. Clark, Jr., possessed will go to the woman who killed him, his wife, it was learned today.

When his will is filed for probate it will leave his estate, amounting to about $70,000, to the former Audrey Smith, whom the grand jury refused to indict in connection with the shooting of the oil heir.

Mrs. Clark, free once more, will receive the house here in which the tragedy occurred. There also is a $30,000 trust fund which will revert to her children when she dies.

SCRIBES AT PITT IN GRID CLASH

Students on both the Pitt Panther and Pitt News staffs, student publications at Pitt, are still nursing bumps and bruises that they gave each other during their publications championship football game Thanksgiving Eve.

The Panthers won, 13-6 thanks to a smashing running game which bowled the motley crew of reporters and copyreaders led by Editor John D. Paulus off their feet.

The game wasn't five minutes old before the joke writers were knocking at the touchdown door. A gallant stand by the News' headline writers halted the attack on the one yard line.

The second half was all Panther meat. Once "Mike" Milligan, star Pitt runner, got real football shoes on his feet, he pounded the News line for big yardage at every crack.

FANS AND GRID PLAYERS FIGHT

Fist fights among spectators and players ended the Shadyside Locklins and Peabody Alumni football game at the Peabody High School field yesterday afternoon.

Spectators swarmed to the field when an argument started between the players in the third quarter. After considerable fighting the field was cleared and play resumed.

With only a minute to play, one of the players left the game and became involved in an argument in the street, it was said. Another fight ensued. Witnesses said no one was seriously injured.

GOLLMAR LEAD CUT; HEINZ HOPEFUL

With the first of a long-heralded series of gains for John Heinz, sheriff candidate, chalked up, Democrats today anticipated further reductions in the lead of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar.

Gollmar's advantage of 525 was reduced by 40 in a recount in Kennedy Township Wednesday, and Attorney F. G. Weir, for the Democrats, predicted a 50-vote gain for Heinz in a Tarentum district today.

DEMOCRATS HOPEFUL

In more than 30 boxes to be recounted, Democrats were relying chiefly on four districts of Rankin and eight of Homestead to produce favorable results.

Democrats also hope for a substantial gain in the Eighth District of the Seventeenth Ward, where almost a third of the ballots were stolen. It will be considered after the recount.

In Braddock, four recounted districts gave Fred Seim, Democratic candidate for Burgess, a 25-vote lead over Burgess James H. Rose, Republican. Rose previously led by 16.

A petition for a recount in a fifth Braddock district, the Second of the Fourth, was filed by Rose backers, among whom is M. J. Verosky, Republican leader. An election contest is being considered should Rose lose by recount results.

RETURNS CERTIFIED

Final totals for jury commissioner and judge of Orphans Court, the latter uncontested, were certiled today by the Return Board.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, incumbent, candidate on all tickets, received 340,778 votes, the top total of any nominee at the November election.

The complete count on jury commissioner, two to elect, follows:

John A. Schrader (Rep. and Cit.)	139,840
Thomas A. Dougherty (Dem.)	164,072
William Adams (Soc.)	4,802
Anna M. Winner (Prog.)	6,256
William H. Kennedy, Jr. (Ind.)	3,829
Thomas Dougherty (Liberal)	1,213
Donald D. Mangone (Square Deal)	1,574

SEEK NEW TRIAL IN VOTE FRAUD CONVICTIONS

A motion for a new trial for Joseph S. Gagliardino, judge; Dominick Mastrianni and Ralph Scanga, inspectors, of the election board of the First District, Third Ward, convicted Wednesday in Federal Court of conspiring to violate the election law at the general election in November, 1932, was to be made today or tomorrow.

Ralph Gentile, clerk of the board, was acquitted.

Immediately after the verdict was read Attorneys Sebastian C. Pugliese and R. M. McWade, defense counsel, informed Judge F. P. Schoonmaker that the motion would be made within the four days allowed for filing it. In the meantime the three convicted election officials are under bonds of $2,500.

It was the first conviction in three election cases tried, the first two resulting in disagreements by the juries. The First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who, with Attorney Earl F. Reed, special government prosecutor, representing the government in the prosecution of the cases, was greatly pleased with the first victory.

The next case is scheduled to go to trial Monday. Members of the election board of the Tenth District, Fourth Ward, are defendants. They are Albert Diulius, judge; Albert Levine and William Kennedy, inspectors; Charles F. Morrison, clerk, and Joseph Ridge, election constable.

'RUNNER' PLEA BRANDED AS 'NO EXCUSE'

Frank admissions that Attorney John Wirtzman had used "runners" does not deserve to be regarded as mitigating the offense, Attorney J. Garfield Houston told Judges James R. Macfarlane and Harry H. Rowand during argument on the Bar Association's motion to disbar Wirtzman for unethical practices.

Attorney W. H. Coleman who represented Wirtzman, emphasized that Wirtzman had discontinued the practice when the Bar Association committee began to inquire into the reported questionable practices of lawyers to obtain business. Many lawyers, Coleman said, had employed solicitors.

CITES YOUNG LAWYERS

Houston pointed out that many young attorneys are being admitted to the bar and the practice of employing "runners" should be stopped. He claimed that if it is, legal business would be distributed among various lawyers, in these days of hard competition.

However, Coleman told the court he knew of no case in this state in which a lawyer had been punished for soliciting business alone. He contended that no punishment other than reprimand should be imposed.

WADDELL ACCUSED

Disbarment proceedings have also been filed against Joseph B. Waddell, in Common Pleas Court, by the Allegheny County Bar Association.

He is accused of retaining $951 belonging to the Lemington Building and Loan Association. A rule was obtained upon him last April to show cause why payment should not be made. He appealed to the Superior Court.

Waddell also is accused of having sent intimidating letters to persons he is alleged to owe money. Numerous other accusations also were made against him. The court on motion of Attorneys Alexander P. Lindsay, Harold Obernauer and Wells Fay, made an order requiring Waddell to show cause why he should not be disbarred. The rule is made returnable December 11.

Rankin Worker Killed by Auto

George Hargos, 40, of 134 Fourth street, Rankin, a mill worker, died enroute to the Braddock General Hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile in the Mill Road, near the Edgar Thomson Steel Company, in North Braddock, early today, according to a Coroner's report.

Ernest Kocher, of 1183 Ridge avenue, alleged driver of the machine, was ordered to post a Coroner's bond.

prettiest Negro girl in the South."

This was dangerous and cruel. The boy's features were surging with shame. She became scared at the mischief she had wrought, and kept her eyes on her plate until his guilty self-consciousness cooled to something like self-possession.

But she simply couldn't let him alone. "Aren't you going to entertain me?" she inquired smilingly.

"How, ma'am?"

"By telling me stories, Capt. Gailliard. Did you ever encounter a really beautiful black Desdemona in your exciting and perilous career?"

"You are teasing me, ma'am."

"No. Why shouldn't a Negro girl be beautiful? Everybody has heard about Gen. Jeb Stuart's pretty Negro laundress who turned everybody's head and proved to be a common Yankee girl with a dyed skin. Did you ever see her?"

Rescuing Voice

Antonia Ford leaned over toward her. "You little wretch," she called across the table, "what are you tormenting Jack Gailliard about?"

"I want him to tell me a story and he won't," said Gail, pouting.

"I'll tell you one," said the badgered young man in sudden desperation. "I once met a girl in Culpeper and fell in love with her the moment I looked into her eyes! Do you like that story, ma'am?"

"G-goodness," faltered Miss Loveless, "was she as beautiful as that? And what happened then, sir?"

"The longer I looked at her the more madly I loved her."

"And—?"

"That's the story, ma'am."

"But—how did it end?"

"It hasn't ended."

"You mean that you are still in love with her?"

"I am."

"Wh-what are you going to do about it?"

"Continue to love her, ma'am."

"Does she know?" cried Miss Loveless.

"Not yet."

"Are you going to tell her?"

"Yes, I am."

"Wh-when?"

He deliberately pulled out his watch, consulted it. "In about three minutes."

"You can't! You wouldn't be rude enough to abandon me and go and propose to that girl . . . Anyway, it is rude of you, who are my cavalier, to tell me how you fell in love with some other girl."

"It isn't some other girl."

AIR LINE PILOTS BEAT RECORDS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Bob Dawson, United Air Lines pilot, had a claim to fame for exactly eight hours yesterday before Pilot Sidney Nelson, of the same line, bobbed along and took it away from him.

Dawson flew to New York from Cleveland in one hour 42 minutes, lowering by four minutes the mark set by Maj. James H. Doolittle on September 4, 1931, when Doolittle was completing the final lap of the transcontinental derby in the National Air Races.

With a brisk tail wind, Nelson made the trip of 418 miles in one hour, 41 minutes with a load of three passengers and crew at an average speed of 248.3 miles an hour. Pilot Walter Briggs of United Air Lines, lowered the Cleveland-Chicago mark yesterday to one hour, 25 minutes, the previous record being 1:30.

Radio Studio Highlights, Shadows

By AIRCASTER

The spectacle of a police commissioner filling out a radio contract with weekly dramas will materialize after New York Mayor-elect LaGuardia's induction, because his new commissioner will be Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing prison, who has about a year to run on the kilocycles.

George Beatty, comic on the Sunday evening oil show via WJAS, isn't on it any more, and at the moment there's no orchestra booked for next week. Dorsey's orchestra has been playing on the program.

* * *

Pigboat

To an old submarine sailor, the NBC Sunday afternoon submarine dramas sound silly.

Submarine skippers don't grow hysterical over the sight of smoke on the horizon, nor even depth bombs.

To a radio critic, the entire production is grotesque. The sound effects drown out the British crew's voices, difficult enough to understand without distracting noises.

After auditioning various radio artists and bands for an additional three-a-week show, the sponsors of Amos 'n' Andy have decided to use only an orchestra and have signed up the band of Eddie Duchin.

Schnozzle

Jimmy Durante has in his lap an as yet unsigned contract, by the terms of which he will agree to substitute for Eddie Cantor on the Rubinoff show whenever Cantor takes time out for films. Cantor will leave the air temporarily in March.

Alarm Bell

Following the announcement by O. E. Caldwell of a gadget which constitutes an alarm bell on radio receivers, to call listeners' attention to special events—such as an emergency speech by the President, Irving Kaufman has listed a number of possibilities that would justify the alarm.

It should ring, for instance, (1) When a sponsor decides to remain anonymous; (2) When anyone sings "Trees," so you can pull the plugs.

The Four Aces and Lyn Morrow, all Ohio State alumni, stage a program of Ohio State songs over KDKA Saturday afternoon at 12:15.

To graduates all over the country, Saturday is Ohio State Day.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

I'm still wishing you a happy Thanksgiving.

I mean that I'm hoping there are none of you moaning "Oh-h, oh-h, I don't feel so good today." But, after all, a nice Thanksgiving is worth moaning a little for, and if we threw the diet overboard, remember turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce create a compelling temptation.

I know how I could make one Friendship avenue Globe Trotter supremely thankful. Maybe you can help me. Her 3-year-old son was struck and killed by an automobile this summer. A week prior to the accident his photograph was taken. About a month after the tragedy a representative of a firm that makes oil painting enlargements from photographs called and the mother gave him her only photograph so that a portrait could be made from it.

When the painting was done and the man called back she didn't have the money ready. He never returned. He had told her that he represented the "St. Laurence" studio, but she cannot locate it.

If, perchance, you could help, a great consolation would be afforded a heart-broken mother.

When the holiday season approaches many letters come in from people who want children, not only to fete over the feast days, but to adopt as their own. May I suggest to those of you that have written for youngsters to get in touch with one of the many good institutions that we have in and about Pittsburgh.

There are many children who would be glad to share your holidays and in return gladden lonely hearts.

'A Doctor's Love' Drama Theme

The startling story of a physician who tried to murder his sweetheart by means of typhoid germs—the efforts of a hospital to thwart the strange malady—and another doctor's accidental discovery of the real cause of the girl's illness—is dramatized over eight radio stations in the tri-state area this afternoon and evening.

Based on a real-life revelation in next Sunday's American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, "A Doctor's Love," is heard on the following schedule: WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, 7:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m., and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

"The great thing Radio can do is to bring Inspired Music into the home"

"It is not necessary to know about music—one can simply feel it, and love it.

"Listening to a cathedral organ or to any great orchestra—who of us has not felt uplifted and refreshed, as by the cool clean air of the mountains?

"To my mind, the great thing radio can do is to bring Inspired Music into the home. My comrades of the Philadelphia Orchestra and I welcome this wonderful opportunity."

Married Lady Gives Advice About Spunkless Men

Are you dreaming of being a "saving influence?"

Are you getting a big, secret thrill out of hearing someone you how he'd "snap out of it, baby, and do something worth while," if you'd just marry him?

And suppose you do—what then?

Peggy wondered. She'd listened to a lovely line like that, and she was Plenty Peeved when Mother told her she was a sap—and we agreed with Mother!

Now comes Del, telling it to all the Peggies.

Dear Peggy:

I am taking a little of my time to write this note. Maybe it is only a 100 to 1 chance that it will save you from the sort of mess I've got myself into; but I am taking that chance.

I was just like you nine months ago, only I was "old enough to know better"—or should have been. I was 26 to your 19. Everything that this column told you about that kind of a weakling is the horrible truth, whether you want to recognize that fact or not. And more, "that ain't the worst of it."

That Tommy of yours must learned to stand on his own two feet at his age, he'll never learn. May I repeat, in the words of the writer of this column—Don't marry anyone who is looking for a leaning post. Being a leaning post is mighty lonely, and I can tell you, from experience, that after the novelty of being a Noble Martyr wears off, it's darned monotonous.

SAVED MAN

The very fact that you wrote that letter proves that there is a man even in your own mind; for nothing a woman, you've really got to do listen to someone who knows—and wishes she hadn't. I know all about the way you feel. I was just like that with Jack. Now I'm too proud to speak to anyone I know. I almost believed in divorce. I believed, too, just as you say you do, that a woman could help a man help himself, and when he told me all those pretty things about my "inspiring him," and his "needing me," I believed him.

Listen to your mother, Peggy. That's my advice to you, though I suppose that, no matter what anyone tells you, you'll probably marry him anyway, because human nature is like that.

NOT WORTH WHILE

But your mother does know best this time. Of course your answer to that is that she "is of another generation, and has forgotten how she felt when she was a girl." But don't kid yourself! These "need to be inspired" bozos have existed since the world began.

Take stock of yourself. Don't cripple your future. Such a man isn't worth it. If he were worth your time, he wouldn't be asking you to prop him up. He would be standing on his own feet and offering you security, asking if he could take care of you. He'd be offering you a partnership in his life—not just the "privilege of "inspiring" him.

Take it from one who's tried it, Peggy—if a man hasn't spunk enough to get busy for the stake of his own self-respect, he won't do it because some girl is sap enough to think she can rib him up to do it. DEL.

Right you are, Del!

Any man who has to be "inspired," before he can dig into living is a swell lad—to leave alone!

An Old Chair Brings Reflective Mood to Fay King

By FAY KING

The other day I passed a small second-hand furniture store in a side street.

Just outside the door stood a venerable discarded easy chair. Its tapestry was threadbare, and every sunken line of its dilapitated frame bespoke comfort.

Alas, here now, alone, was the silent partner of a long association.

How many times in joy or in sorrow had its former owner found comfort or consolation in its ample friendly arms?

How many rosy plans had faded into bitter disappointments, just as the chair's once bright covering had faded, also?

How many secret sighs and tears, regrettings and rememberings had it alone shared?

Meditation. Dreams. Ambition. Failure.

Ah, me, that old chair seemed more fascinating than any new and beautiful one could be?

A Sequel Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Seeks to Pacify Husband's Business Partner

Lillian threw up her hands with a melodramatic gesture as I said that I had to telephone Edith Fairfax.

"In the name of the three-toed sloth, why?" she demanded. "Don't tell me she also has a yen to be a bridesmaid!"

My taughtened nerves relaxed into a giggle at her absurdity—an effect which I well knew she had intended.

"No, her ambition doesn't run in that direction," I said. "In fact, she has decided that she isn't going to attend the wedding at all because I don't want her here."

"Who dished out that tripe?" Lillian demanded. "The Dickybird, I suppose. Oh, boy! I'll bet he's sore at little Edith!"

"He isn't particularly pleased, certainly," I admitted. "But he agrees with me that something must be done to remove that erroneous impression from her mind."

Lillian gave a low, derisive laugh.

"Erroneous!" she said. "That's a hot one! If ever an obnoxious dame was laboring under a conviction of the truth; it's our poisonous Edith. So she thinks you don't want her around here, does she? I'll say the girl's getting perspicacity with the years. If she has also deduced that nobody else wants her, either, the chief objector being her business partner—no other than the Dickybird himself—she will have made a real discovery."

TAKES TO EDE

"But, Lillian!" I expostulated—not bothering even to pretend any denial of her conclusion, so perfectly I knew, did she understand the whole situation—"we can't let her stay away on that account. The Durkees are our oldest friends. They can't come because of the children being sick, but if Edith doesn't attend the wedding they will suspect something is wrong. I think it's because of Alf that Dicky is worrying."

"Of course it is," Lillian assented comfortably. "He feels responsible for the darned idiot, but, you mark my word, he'll get so fed up some time, if Ede keeps up this temperamental nonsense, that she will land right out of that fifth story window with her shell-like ear plastered to the pavement."

"Nevertheless, and notwithstanding," I said, "I shall have to telephone her now."

"Gramercy, old darling," she returned, and curled up on a corner of the couch, while I went to the telephone and put in the call for the Marvin home of Leila and Alfred Durkee, sister and brother-in-law of Edith Fairfax, with whom she lived.

To my gratification Edith herself answered the telephone.

"Lo, Ede; how's the girl?" I began, as soon as I heard her voice, purposely adopting a manner which I rarely use.

"That you, Madge?" Her voice was sullen and listless. "Has Dicky told you?"

I ignored the last part of her question, but answered the first effusively.

"Yes, the one and only Madge Graham," I hold her. "Please don't murder me for calling you this early."

MAKES REQUEST

"Early!" she ejaculated, with a touch of scorn. "I'm all ready for my train—breakfast eaten and everything. I'm reading the paper while I wait for Leila to get out the car and run Alf and me down to the station. You must have the same ideas of arising time as that husband of yours. I'd like to know when any of the magazine business would be done if I kept the same hours as the Dicky-bird."

It was the old whining complaint, so familiar to me—this comparison of Dicky's laziness and her own industry in the art magazine venture in which they were partners.

"I'll have to talk fast, then," I said, "for I certainly do not wish you to miss your train. I hate to ask you when you're so busy, but I wonder if you'd stop in and get me five yards of white ribbon at Hellman's before you come out day after tomorrow. Here is the number and the width"—I read them off to her—"and the number of the saleswoman is 127, Miss Murphy. She'll know exactly what I want. Tell her it's for Mrs. Graham. It was so stupid of me to run short, and I'll bless you forever, if you bring 'em along.

"Of course, you're coming on the earliest train possible day after tomorrow? I'm quite counting on you to help me through the numberless last things."

Hints for the Household

Don't forget wool dresses worn in the kitchen soon absorb cooking odors.

In cutting meringue pastry use a knife that has been dipped into cold water.

Ice that is to be kept should be covered with a piece of flannel directly it is delivered.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

An Interesting Vienna Coup

The Vienna Coup, which was first executed by an unidentified Vienna Whist player in the golden days of Whist, is one of the standard squeeze plays and one of the most spectacular of all card stratagems. In its execution an apparently high card is established in the hand of an opponent who, later, in order to protect other places in the line of defense, is required to discard the established card or entirely give up defense at some other point in the play. Since it is made very infrequently even where master players pit their minds against each other, it is always noteworthy when a player finds an opportunity to use it and executes it with faultless precision, as did Mr. Stephen H. Eller in New York.

South, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ 5 4 3 2 ♡ 4 3 ◇ A Q 10 8 7 ♣ A 6
♠ 10 ♡ 7 ◇ 6 4 3 2 ♣ J 10 9 8 5 3 2	West / North / East / South	♠ — ♡ K Q J 10 9 6 5 2 ◇ K J 9 ♣ K 7
	♠ A K Q J 9 8 7 6 ♡ A 8 ◇ 5 ♣ Q 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
♠	Pass	3 ◇	3 ♡
♠	Pass	6 ♠	7 ♡
♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was perhaps overbold on the part of North. The forcing Takeout, it will be noted, was made with only 2½ honor-tricks, the justification being the assured fit with partner's suit. The Jump to six spades over four spades was made because North could not utilize the Four-Five Notrump Convention and perhaps feared that Mr. Eller might pass a bid of less than a Slam. Mr. Eller's bid of seven spades was undoubtedly justified on the bidding as, while of course the opposing contract of seven hearts was doomed to defeat, the marriage did not appear sufficient to justify giving up a probable Grand Slam.

However, it required scintillating card play as well as brilliant placing of the club King and the diamond King in the East hand, together with the reading of the heart 7 as a singleton, to make the contract.

West opened the heart 7, and Mr. Eller won the trick with the Ace. He now played one round of spades and followed with the club lead to Dummy's Ace. Six rounds of spades were then taken, creating the following situation:

	♠ — ♡ — ◇ A Q 10 8 ♣ —
♠ — ♡ — ◇ 6 4 ♣ J 10	West / North / East / South	♠ — ♡ K ◇ K J ♣ K
	♠ 6 ♡ 8 ◇ 5 ♣ Q

Mr. Eller now played the spade 6, and East felt the first effects of the squeeze. If his discard was not the diamond Knave, another squeeze would follow on the next trick. The discard of the diamond Knave would be equally fatal, as Mr. Eller had kept careful count of the cards and knew that the King in that event must fall under the Ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North-South vulnerable. The bidding:

North	South
1 NT	2 ◇
2 NT	?

You, South, hold:

♠ 9 5 4 ♡ 10 3 ◇ A Q J 6 5 4 ♣ 7 5

What do you bid?

Answer—Three notrump. Three diamonds, of course, would be an absolute Sign-off. Your partner, vulnerable, bid notrump and then rebid. You are practically certain of six diamond tricks, and three other tricks must be available in the side suits. As a matter of fact, with this holding three notrump would be the correct bid even if you and your partner were not vulnerable.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'Halitosis' Is a Warning Symptom

Contrary to a common belief, "halitosis," or bad breath, is not always due to a disturbance of the mouth. It may be traced to inflammation of the nose, tonsils, teeth, gums or some constitutional disease.

Dr. Copeland

Most persons believe that halitosis is a new disease. It is really not a disease at all, but a symptom of some disorder within the body which should have your immediate attention.

Infected and neglected teeth and gums are the most common cause of bad breath. I venture to say that most cases of this disturbance may be traced to an infection or inflammation of the tonsils. But in many instances it is the result of some gastro-intestinal disturbance.

Sufferers from halitosis are often mistaken as to the cause and have their teeth removed, believing this to be responsible for the bad breath. I am confident if these unfortunates had continued the search for the cause a little longer, they would have found it unnecessary to remove the teeth. In some cases, to be sure, the trouble does lie in decayed teeth or badly diseased gums.

Faulty eating habits, improper diet, indigestion and constipation, are other possible causes that must not be overlooked. No one will deny that with our present mode of living we are apt to be in too great a hurry and so give little thought to the importance of slowly and carefully chewing the food.

This is a common cause of halitosis and one quickly remedied when food is properly masticated and the meals taken at a definite time each day. Avoiding excitement, worry, anger or other emotional distress, will add much to your physical well being. Cure the underlying indigestion and you will cure the bad breath that accompanies it.

When the tonsils are infected or inflamed, they secrete a mucous substance, which hardens within the numerous small crypts of the gland. Particles of food easily become imbedded in these crypts and further aggravate the inflamed condition. The food decays and this gives rise to the putrefactive odors commonly called halitosis. In such cases the cure is simple. Permanent relief can be obtained by immediate removal of the enlarged and diseased tonsils.

Halitosis may result from an inflammation of the nose. This is especially so in "atrophic rhinitis," a degeneration of the mucous membrane of the nose. This condition often leads to bad breath.

I cannot stress too strongly the fact that halitosis should never be neglected. No matter what the cause, it is a sign or warning of some disturbance within the body. Do not depend too much on the use of a patent medicine and gargles as a cure of the disgreeable condition.

If you are a sufferer from this unpleasant disorder make every effort to determine the underlying cause and take the necessary steps to correct it. In all instances I strongly advise you to report to your physician for a complete physical examination. Halitosis is a danger signal. Do not fail to heed nature's warning

3 WOMEN HURT IN 5-CAR CRASH

Three women were in West Penn Hospital today with injuries suffered in a five-car collision in Bigelow boulevard near Herron avenue, late yesterday.

They are Mrs. Rebecca Goodman, 37, of 825 Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, and Laura Weiss, 16, of 304 Fall avenue, East Pittsburgh, who were riding in a car driven by the former's husband, B. Goodman, 40, and Mrs. Nina Markley, 26, of R. D. 2, Sharpsburg, a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Charles Markley, 27.

Three other automobiles were damaged after the Goodman and Markley cars collided while going in opposite directions, according to Motorcycle Patrolman Jerome Hock. The drivers of the other machines were the Rev. Andrew J. King, of 340 Forty-sixth street; John Stockley, 30, of 5168 Butler street, and Joseph Tamaino, 28, of 148 State street, Wilmerding, police said. They escaped injury.

HIT-RUN DRIVER

A victim of a hit-and-run driver, Peter O'Malley, of 16 McClain street, was in Mercy Hospital today with possible skull fracture. He was struck at the entrance of the Liberty Tubes early yesterday.

Francis J. Boyle, 28, of 7236 Idlewild street, suffered a probable skull fracture when his automobile struck a pole in Franks-town avenue, near Bennett street, early yesterday, according to police. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Robert Dunn, 6, of 707 North Dallas avenue, was cut on the head when struck by an automobile near his home yesterday. He was treated by a physician.

William Fox, 24, of 1368 Paulson avenue, suffered lacerations on the head when his automobile turned over in Shady avenue, near Fifth avenue, yesterday, police reported. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

WOMAN BADLY HURT

Mrs. Evelyn Holmes, 25, of 2836 Charles street, received a probable skull fracture when an automobile driven by her husband, William Holmes, collided with another car in the Boulevard of the Allies at Van Braam street, last night, according to police. Mrs. Holmes was hurled against the windshield.

John Barkovci, 23, of Aliquippa, Pa., was treated in Mercy Hospital early today for lacerations suffered when an automobile he was driving crashed into a Castle Shannon street car at Second avenue and Grant street. None of the passengers in the street car was injured.

MACHINES OVERTURNED

Two men were injured seriously and four others escaped with slight bruises early today in an automobile collision at Western and Galveston avenues. The machines were overturned.

John Volk, 25, of 453 Melrose street, Ambridge, was in Presbyterian Hospital, suffering from a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Andrew Kozak, 21, of 521 Walnut street, Ambridge, suffered probable internal injuries. Three other men in the machine escaped injury.

Arthur Richardson, 33, of 821 East Sixth avenue, Breckenridge, driver of the other machine, was arrested on a reckless driving charge after his injuries had been treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

AGED COUPLE HURT

Four persons, including an aged man and woman, were in the Citizen's General Hospital at New Kensington today with injuries suffered in an automobile collision in the Leechburg-Braeburn road yesterday, according to a hospital report.

Mrs. Mary Ada Slonaker, 61, and Homer Slonaker, 60, both of Avonmore, suffered head injuries and shock; Anna Dumbrosky, 19, of near New Kensington, suffered a fractured right arm, and her companion, Charles Listwak, 24, of near New Kensington, a fractured knee cap.

Two Glassport youths were injured when their automobile was sideswiped and overturned in the Lovedale Hollow road last night, police reported.

Announcing Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly let me know if an engagement is announced to the public through the newspapers when the bride-to-be has not received an engagement ring? M.

The fact that the bride-to-be hasn't received an engagement ring doesn't make any difference. If she and her fiance have decided that they will announce their engagement, this decision is all that is necessary. There are many girls, and especially these days, who do not have engagement rings. There are many girls now, too, who prefer not to have engagement rings and later to have the jeweled wedding rings instead of the jeweled engagement ring and the plain wedding band ring. And the point is that whatever they decide is quite all right. They make the engagement announcement regardless of the ring.

The Bride's Flowers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is going to be married at an afternoon wedding, and she would like to know which is proper for a bride to wear with an afternoon dress, a corsage or a bridal bouquet? SISTER.

She may do either, carry a bouquet, which will, with this attire, be small rather than the usual large shower bouquet, or she may wear a corsage. Usually brides prefer to wear a corsage with the afternoon dress at an informal wedding. Then the corsage may become such a charming and appropriate part of the costume . . . some gardenias, for instance, for the shoulder or at the waist, or gardenias combined with lilies-of-the-valley, or white orchids and one or two gardenias, or sweetheart roses, or roses not so small, combined with lilies-of-the-valley.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—
Patricia Pitt

Today the fashionables are resting up after a Thanksgiving whirl of gaiety duplicated only in the good old days.

The Thanksgiving season began Wednesday, included a debut luncheon, a debutante tea (not a coming-out party), the Cinderella ball, Coq d'Or at Syria Mosque last night and Analana Beeson's coming-out party last evening in Fox Chapel Golf Club.

Just a word about the Cinderella ball Thanksgiving eve before I start talking about the two events last night — there were more folks there than there've been for three or four years. New gowns galore distinguished the feminine dancers. And the debs, who gave feature dances and a style show, are being showered with compliments.

Holiday Whirl

A resplendently costumed company was greeted last night at Syria Mosque by a resplendent audience—and an enormous one. Some of the concert goers hurried from the Mosque to Fox Chapel for the debut dance.

Among these was debutante Peggy Mitchell, who wore a striking period gown of ice-green taffeta, having a bustle. Giving this quaint effect were ruffles of the taffeta extending in back from the waist line to the train of the skirt. And pleated ruffles of the taffeta marked the hem-line and the waist and outlined the decolletage.

Debs at Coq d'Or

Deb Margaret Rowe carried an orchid-decked little ermine muff with her long black velvet wrap. Still another deb in the audience was Margaret Phillips, who chose gown having a skirt of black crepe and a high-waisted bodice blue satin.

Margaret's mother, Mrs. T. W. Phillips, Jr., was there; the H. Loughan Blaxters, Mrs. J. Hartwell Hillman, Jr., the George H. Hanns, Alice and Mary Rust.

Madeline McClintock's black satin gown had capes of the material, distinguished by white satin bands over the shoulders. Mrs. James Verner Scaife chose rose crepe, Mrs. Gordon King, black crepe with white organdie flowers as decoration, and Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, white satin.

Brilliant Audience

Sitting in her usual box was Mrs. John W. Lawrence in soft green crepe with kolinsky for decoration. With her was her niece, Isabel Patterson. Betty Kennedy chose a becoming gown of sea-green bagheera shirred over the shoulder line.

Others there were Mrs. W. Eugene Gary, Annette Chesterman, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Rosamound Fitch, Mrs. D. M. Clemson, Mrs. George Pearson, the William J. Powells, Mrs. A. S. F. Keister and her little daughter, Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, Emily Stuart, Mrs. William P. Witherow, Elizabeth Jenkins, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, Mrs. Jacob S. Payton, Mrs. A. Leo Weil, Betsy Wallace, Carol Clark, Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas and Miss Helen Rauh.

Popular Analana Beeson was presented at one of the most notable debut parties of the year last night when her father, Charles E. Beeson, gave a dance for her in the Fox Chapel Golf Club. Horns of plenty decorated the clubhouse in keeping with the Thanksgiving season. The receiving line stood in the beautiful patio of the clubhouse.

Beeson Debut

The pretty deb chose a charming gown of white lace in which were woven silver threads, and she carried her father's bouquet—mauve heather.

Mrs. A. Verner Wasson, sister of the deb, was in blue satin crepe with a girdle of purple velvet. She had a corsage of orchids.

Sharing honors with the deb was her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Kennedy Beeson (Dorinda Kennerly, of St. Louis). Mrs. Beeson's parents, the Claude S. Kennerlys and their daughter, Noel, were here for the party, too, and Thanksgiving. Young Mrs. Beeson was in white crepe with rhinestones and turquoise clips as the only decoration.

The Twentieth Century Club is proving popular for coming-out parties this season, and a bud of December 29 will be presented at a tea-dance from 4 to 7 o'clock there. She is Helen Ruth Deike, daughter of the George H. Deikes. And the members of Princeton Triangle Club will be guests.

Katherine Dangerfield will be presented at a tea December 7, which Mrs. George L. Hays will give in her home. Katherine's the Benjamin Dangerfields' daughter.

To Curtsy On Dec. 7

Assisting Mrs. Hays will be Mrs. Robert W. Downing, of Haverford, Pa., aunt of the deb; Mrs. Lee Holmes Marshall, Mrs. Harry Dangerfield and Mrs. J. W. Dickson.

Isabel Winburn Marries Dr. G. G. Burkley in Erie

At noon yesterday in the Cathedral in Erie, Pa., Miss Isabel Winburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winburn, of Erie, became the bride of Dr. George Gregory Burkley, of Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burkley. The Rt. Rev. John Mark Gannon, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Erie, presiding at his throne, pronounced the vows, and the Rev. Timothy B. Sullivan read the mass.

The bride wore a gown of lustrous ivory satin made with a long circular train, and a veil of tulle cascading from a cap of rose point lace, which was encircled by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of cala lilies tied with a large silver bow.

Mrs. Henry Myers Bogert II, of Hackensack, N. J., was the matron of honor, and wore fuschia velvet with a hat featuring sweeping ostrich plumes. Her bouquet was of Johanna Hill and Talisman roses. Francis Burkley, of Pittsburgh, was the best man.

Breakfast was served in the Winburn home to the families and out-of-town guests. Pittsburgh guests included the bridegroom's parents, Mrs. James Farrel, Mrs. Watson Harmeler, Miss Catherine O'Donnell and the Rev. J. Carnahan.

After a short motor trip, Dr. and Mrs. Burkley will make their home in Webster Hall, where Dr. Burkley is house physician. The bride attended the Baldwin School and Vassar as well as studying abroad, and is a member of the Junior League of Erie.

Julia A. Brand Has Church Wedding

Very few of yesterday's brides wore the traditional bridal garb of white satin and tulle veil. One who did was Miss Julia Anna Brand, who became the bride of George A. Rauscher, Jr., at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Henry's Church, with the Rev. Joseph Mayer officiating.

The bride's dress was made simply and had sleeves of tulle, and she carried calla lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Brand, as maid of honor, and she wore peach and green taffeta with a matching velvet hat and carried tea roses. Miss Dorothy Grab, as bridesmaid, wore blue and pink taffeta with a pink velvet hat and carried pink roses. The bride's mother chose black satin.

Ernest Brand served his brother as best man.

There was a breakfast in the Brand home after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Rauscher, Jr. will make their home in Mt. Oliver.

PUT ON YOUR DANCING SHOES!

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THERE is nothing retiring about feet these nights, come however long evening skirts will. They creep in and out of them, not like little mice, as the poem has it, but like little be-jewelled show-offs that look more like stage props than the real, useful article.

Nothing can glitter too much to be in good style when it comes to formal dancing slippers. Sober fabrics like satin, faille, and velvet are dipped into the busiest colors, and then worked with metallic threads, set off by rhinestone, pearl, or mirror trimmings, and frequently provided with heels of some contrasting color and fabric. It all makes for giddy foot notes, as if slippers could remember the day when some gallant blade around town borrowed one of them to use as a champagne beaker.

There are more and more "dressmakery" details used to ornament evening slippers. Beautifully studded embroidery, for instance, in which paillettes or beads are used, have taken precedence over an all-jewelled heel, or an ornate buckle of many flashing stones.

Appliques of gold or silver kidskin, even both tones used in a single design, brighten shoe vamps. There is a great revival of brocaded fabrics in lame effects and in grosgrain taffeta weaves. Some of the former have metal kidskin heels; some of the latter have contrasting satin heels, such as cerise with mauve and lilac.

The slipper at the top is Dresden in effect, as its gold and silver brocade is shot with many pastel silk threads. Below it is a velvet slipper which has a T-strap, and which is trimmed with alternating appliques of gold and silver leaves. The slipper at lower left is a plain satin slipper which may be dyed to match any beloved frock. Lower right, a ribbed satin slipper with a corded velvet vamp which is stitched with metal.

Mme. Balsan Quits Restaurant in Angry Mood

By BARONESS ELIZABETH WRANGEL

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Who disappointed Mme. Jacques Balsan, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, during luncheon hour at the fashionable Cremailler restaurant?

A sympathetic roomful of socially elite diners observed Consuelo, dressed in a simple black, fur-trimmed suit, drumming on her table. A half hour later, still hungry, she arose with the famous Vanderbilt dignity and swept, glaring, out of the restaurant.

Statnding up people seems to be a vogue these days. Even British ambassadors do it.

The principal "lion" at a soiree at the villa of the Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes was to have been Lord Tyrrell. Two hours before the guests were seated at the dinner table, Lord Tyrrell backed out pleading "a bad cold."

The fact that diplomatic reasons detained Britain's popular Ambassador was no consolation to the gathering including his distinguished countrywoman, Mrs. Ronald Greville, the Count and Countess Etienne de Beaumont, and the Baroness of Monaco.

A daring first novel from the pen of the new Mme. Bertrand de Jouvenel, nee Martha Gellhorn, of St. Louis, is appearing shortly. It is titled "Nothing Ever Happens," but plenty has happened to the new daughter-in-law of the French ambassador to Rome.

Paris is wild about Bertrand and his youthful blonde wife. She is sailing for America with her husband soon to prepare another novel. While Bertrand lecture tours, Martha will study the "new deal." Her husband is the author of a study of the American depression, "The Price of American Capitalism."

Through the Spyglass Viewing the New

Christmas suggestions . . . that's the picture you'll see in the Spyglass today (and from now on until that time!) And so . . . take out your gift list to compare with what we have here—it will save your time! For information on where to find these items, call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We knew someone who always referred to her husband's favorite ashtray as "the rose" . . . for obvious reasons! But it would have been unnecessary had we known then what we know now—THAT . . . one store has a new kind of ashtray which wears a scented cardboard container on its insides . . . and comes with 12 refills (making this business of change an easy matter indeed!) Brown, red and green . . . decorated or plain . . . and costing, oh eagle-eyed Elmer's, but 55c!

Who'd ever have thought that we'd come to the point of having a portable victrola WITH movies! We, least of all. But here it is . . . a colored one to lug along wherever you go . . . with a little ladder-like effect up one side through which the films for your movie run. In other words . . . you're the "whole show." And it's an ideal way to keep children safe and warm in their nursery instead of carting them off to a movie to be sneezed on by every passerby! $25 . . . and an institution to every household with youngsters!

Just like catching a fistful of Christmas stars to hold one of these new marcasite flapjack compacts in your hand! They're of a composition . . . in various shades . . . with their whole top of marcasite in sundry patterns and effects . . . $3.95 . . . and a very lovely gift!

But then there are some others, too! Much humbler as to price (75c) . . . but equally good looking in their simple way. Of thin, flat, colored enamel on metal and for loose powder. Nice for that "extra" little gift!

Whether Santa heaves your tree down the chimney or you do it yourself . . . it ought to wear some of the brand new ornaments we've found. It's been years and years since anyone thought up anything new about Christmas tree ornaments . . . and now, lo! whole pecks and oodles of them! Such as blown glass peacocks with feather tails trembling in the breeze! Such as little colored glass teapots . . . or horns (which really blow) . . . and miniature table lamps! Even zeppelins of perforated metal twinkling in the light! And little birds inside fragile glass cages . . . or milky white glass reindeer about to bound off into space.

Woe is us that we aren't still at the grass-stained-knees . . . bows-in-your-hair age when Christmas morning was a seventh heaven . . . not a mere day! But these new ornaments can do a lot toward giving us that sparkly Christmas feeling in our toes! Prices from next-to-nothing on up!

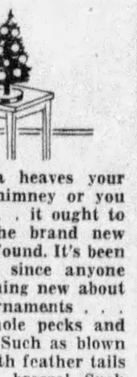
What's to be done about the trousered population in the way of gifts! We know! That is . . . we know a couple of marvelous gifty items that even the six-foot-two - eyes - of-blue will like.



Beautiful new lounging pajamas (no Walter, you don't HAVE TO lounge if you don't want to . . . but they ARE nice to wear in the comfort of your living room, or den, or dormitory!) Of a new kind of velveteen which is guaranteed to WASH . . . and IRON . . . and WEAR. Yes . . . we snorted at the thought too, at first, until we got their buyer backed into a corner and vowing by all things holy (and many otherwise). So you really can feel assured about this phenomenum!

AND . . . they're in green, blue or rust . . . piped in contrasting shades . . . with fringed belts. ALSO . . . in that fatally stunning Russian style (prepare to be stunned!) And well . . . we're all for them, especially since all this gorgeousness costs no WORSE than $15!

Valuable Food Substances Contained in Carrots

Bright yellow vegetable is rich in important minerals, notably lime, and is an excellent combatant of colds and infections; fair sex finds its continued use promotes beautiful complexion.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

Lillian Russell, known as an accomplished actress and as a beautiful woman, was asked many questions about her good looks. She gave advice on beauty to innumerable women.

She used to say that carrots, if eaten regularly, would help one acquire a clear and lovely skin. The scientific belief of today bears out this statement.

A valuable substance called "carotin" is responsible for the coloring of carrots, squash and sweet potatoes. It is found in butter, cream, milk and the yolk of eggs.

Carotin is odorless and tasteless. It is almost insoluble in water. The yellow color of the carrot does not fade when soaking in water or when boiled in water. This substance is of great importance in protecting the body against cold and infections.

The carrot is a rich source of important minerals. Lime is found in the vegetable. Food experts tell us that this mineral is shockingly lacking in the average American diet. Milk and vegetables are rich in lime, yet few avail themselves of foods carrying this precious material.

LIME ESSENTIAL

A recent report states that the lime found in carrots is well utilized by man. It is necessary for the proper development of the bones and the teeth. If you want strong, healthy teeth, eat carrots.

Lime is essential to the growing child and pregnant woman. At birth and in the very young child, the lime content of the body is low. On this account it is necessary that foods containing it shall be included in the diet.

The vitamins found in carrots are those lettered as A, B and C. Vitamin A helps the body in overcoming disease. It protects against cold and infections. It is especially valuable in the diet of one who is susceptible to infections of the eye.

PREVENTS DISEASE

Vitamin B, when eaten in sufficient quantity, prevents "beriberi" and other constitutional diseases. Raw carrots are a rich source of vitamin C. Heat destroys this vitamin. But if in cooking carrots you use only a small amount of water, a few minutes of heat will make them tender and thus less vitamin C will be lost. Prolonged cooking damages this substance.

Carrots can be used in a variety of ways. They lend distinction to a "company" dinner or to the family dinner. They may be served as the main luncheon dish, with milk, bread and butter and fruit.

They are considered so valuable a vegetable that they are given to a baby as early as the sixth month. They should of course be strained or mashed when given to an infant.

I can think of few other vegetables which contain such important food substances as the carrot. It is available all year round. It is inexpensive, and simple to prepare. It may be eaten with beneficial results by all members of the family.

Sunday School Plans For Meet After Fire

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—The Ushers' Club of the First Methodist Episcopal Church here is doing its part to place the Sunday School rooms in condition for church next Sunday following fire which destroyed the auditorium last Saturday.

Armed with washing powder and scrub buckets 46 members of the club have been giving the smoked woodwork a thorough cleaning.

Down-River Traffic Boulevard Sought

A four-lane traffic boulevard from the Allegheny County line at Ambridge through Freedom, Rochester, New Brighton and Beaver Falls to connect with the Ohio River boulevard is sponsored by the Associated Automobile Merchants of the Beaver Valley. Dr. W. S. Cook and R. S. Blackwood, former head of the State Township Supervisors' Association, have been named to head a group to work for the improvement.

CONFUSION ENDED ON BRAN

New Ruling Corrects All Labels

To protect the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains.

Before this ruling, even part-bran products were sometimes mistakenly referred to as "Bran." It was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has won millions of friends because it corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes generous "bulk"—needed to promote normal elimination.

However, ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, for relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by asking for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It furnishes "bulk" in concentrated form for satisfactory results.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

AUTO MEN HAIL 'GAS' TAX END

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Removal of the one-half cent a gallon emergency tax on gasoline next January 1 was hailed today by the American Automobile Association as the possible forerunner of "relief from other of the series of special motor levies collected by the federal government."

Thomas P. Henry, of Detroit, president of the association, said in a statement an "aggressive effort" will be made during the next session of Congress to have the remaining taxes removed.

He explained that he referred to the taxes on new vehicles, parts and accessories, tires and tubes, lubricating oil and the one-cent gasoline tax.

Henry said lifting of the one-half cent gasoline tax imposed last June to help finance the $3,300,000,000 public works program will save motorists $70,000,000 a year.

SPRINKLING BAD FOR LAWNS

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Here is a little cheer for the down-trodden commuters, bad news for pampered lawns, and a nice break for the weather man all rolled into one—lawns that are sprinkled every day suffer more from a little neglect than those that depend on the rains and let it go at that.

Grass gets into bad habits and learns to take life easy if pampered too much by fond bosses. Sprinkled grass develops its roots near the surface, where it finds adequate moisture. When the surface dries out its roots are too undeveloped to tap the moisture of the subsoil. Death follows.

Grass not too well fed by kindly caretakers has to look for its own moisture, develops long roots and survives in spite of temprorary droughts.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

THE DAYS following Thanksgiving mean a let down of effort to the housewife. Simple fare after feasting is best for digestions and for purses. Friday's fish is a welcome change and the variety is great, considering that fishing weather has been bad. Oysters are especially attractive just now.

Many people like to have cold sliced turkey for their Sunday dinner. Since it is wise to buy a large turkey, as it carries more meat in proportion to bone than a smaller one, there should be plenty left. Some people, however, prefer turkey sandwiches or a salad of diced turkey, celery, chopped olives and salad dressing for the Sunday night supper.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING and you may as well face it. The gift-buying and menu-planning seem like a lot of work when contemplated from the safe distance of November. But once you pitch in and actually begin buying holly wreaths and mistletoe, cranberries and fruitcake, you get that prickly Christmas thrill right down to your toes. And you realize that Christmas is fun no matter how often it happens to you.

So let's take the good old Christmas spirit out of moth-balls and spread it all over the place.

While there is still time to catch your breath, you ought to get your Christmas candy made. Christmas just naturally seems to call for home-made candy; so you may as well make it now, ahead of the last-minute rush. (We warn you, though . . . you'd better put it in some private hide-away of your own, where it's safe from youthful marauders. Else it will disappear and you'll be asked to believe that Santa Claus ate it.)

DOLL LADY

Is in Pittsburgh Again! This Year She Brings Gorgeous

"HONEY-SUCKLE"

"Honeysuckle" is 18 inches tall, just the right size the average little girl would like to cuddle up to. The word beautiful doesn't really describe her. She's more than beautiful—she's GORGEOUS.

"Honeysuckle" has flexible rubber arms and hands and rubber legs that can be washed just the same as you would wash your baby brother's or sister's. And WHAT A SMILE! And behind that smile are the most lovable, most roguish eyes you ever looked into. They open and close and she rolls them from side to side like a real flirt. By pressing her legs or by moving her body forward or back, she says "Ma-ma" in the sweetest voice you ever heard. She's dressed like a little queen in dainty organdy and lace, with bonnet and shoes to match.

Oh, we forget to mention her cute dimples, and just as this was written "Honeysuckle" looked up and seemed to say, "Yes; you forgot to tell them about my rubber panties."

"Honeysuckle" is really the DOLL OF ALL DOLLS, and she is going to be so easy to get for Christmas. Shall I save a "Honeysuckle" for you?"

Easy to Get!

Every little girl in Pittsburgh and vicinity can easily secure one of these wonderful dolls for Christmas. All they have to do is to take the subscription blanks out among their neighbors, relatives and friends and get them signed. There is no money to pay and no money to collect. Just get the blanks properly filled in, send them to The Doll Lady Department, Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh, Pa., and you'll have "Honeysuckle" for your Christmas playmate.

MEN WIN AWARDS FOR RECIPES

'Mere Male' Submits Dish Long Favorite In Family

For several months we've had prize recipes submitted by women. Today, two men come in for their share of glory with prize recipes for ambrosia and baked sweet potatoes with dressing.

These aren't, Prudence Penny wants you to know, the first recipes submitted by male cooks; rather they're the first to be awarded prizes.

In sending in his ambrosia recipe, W. C. Whitner wrote:

"If it be permitted for a mere male to enter your recipe contest, I submit the following which are tried and true and great favorites with this family."

Prudence Penny makes no specifications as to the sex or age of those who may take part in her contest. Her requirements concern the recipes only. They are what she's solely interested in.

If you have some "best" recipes, send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and in return you may receive either the $5 prize or one of the 10 $1 prizes awarded daily to the best recipes received.

No recipes will be returned.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Every Junior Patrol member ought to feel pretty good today, fellows:

With that big dinner we had yesterday under our belts, we ought to be all ready for anything. We surely hope that a lot of our Junior Patrol members found ways to help others during Thanksgiving. Now we have to think about Christmas, which isn't very far away.

The first letter today is from Dolores Gauslin, of 5134 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, and she says:

"I am a girl 13 years old and have studied parliamentary practice in school. I would like very much to be made a captain in my district. I read your column every day and one day you said you must have 10 members to be a captain. I am sending in 10 names."

We're sure you will make a good captain, too, Dolores. But to be one, you must be elected a captain by 10 Junior Patrol members. Each member must have his badge and membership card, and to get his badge, each fellow has to sign the pledge, or a copy of it, and send it in to headquarters. And the captain, too. The pledge slip is printed right alongside the Junior Patrol comic strip every day. You can have your members cut it out, or they can make copies of it. Then send in the 10 pledges and we will send their badges.

Edwin Lewin, of 430 Third avenue, New Brighton, Pa., writes this note:

"Please send me a membership card and an official emblem. I have enclosed a Junior Patrol pledge. We have started a Junior Patrol at school and I am a member of it. I am very proud to be one."

We are glad to have you as a member, Edwin. Does your Patrol at school have a captain? If your patrol has 10 members, it should elect a captain and we will send him an official black and orange armband.

Jean Bates, of 530 Center street, East Pittsburgh, sends a letter too, but she wants it read over the radio and so we won't print it here. She reads the comic strip and listens to every Junior Patrol program, and she likes them both very much. Do you belong to a patrol, Jean? Most patrols are planning dandy Christmas parties.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages toward the lungs, which is equally dangerous. The following formula, which is used extensively, is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

RIVAL WARNED BY WIFE SLAIN

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—John C. Kinser, 41, last night killed Mrs. Gussie Broadway, 32-year-old divorcee, then sent a bullet through his own heart, police said, a moment after his wife had shouted an agonized warning to the "other woman."

The tragedy occurred in the street between the two homes of the victims.

Relatives of Mrs. Broadway told police an affair between the two developed soon after Mrs. Broadway obtained a divorce about three months ago. Mrs. C. H. Jaenecke, sister of Mrs. Broadway, told police the shooting started when Mrs. Broadway replied "No" when Kinser asked her if she was going out with him.

Mrs. Kinser shouted from her porch across the street:

"Don't go near him."

Four shots in all were fired.

Magistrate W. M. McKay sentenced George Crowley, alias Smith, and George Lalonde to seven years in prison and 10 lashes, and Kenneth F. J. Feakins to five years and 10 lashes.

During October the combined dollar sales in 503 retail stores in the Pittsburgh district showed a 6.6 per cent increase over September and those in October last year of 7.2 per cent.

Daily average sales were 7.1 per cent larger in October than in September.

IMPEACHED U. S. JURIST DEAD

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Federal Judge James A. Lowell, 64, died at his home yesterday after an illness of 10 days.

His death brought to a close impeachment proceedings brought against him in the national House of Representatives because of his decision on the extradition of George Crawford, a Negro, to Virginia.

Crawford had been arrested in Boston, charged with slaying two women at Middleburg, Va. Gov. Joseph B. Ely granted a Virginia request for Crawford's return.

Judge Lowell, however, issued a writ of habeas corpus which freed Crawford, on the ground it was useless to return him to Virginia, for, he said, a conviction would be nullified by the Supreme Court because Negroes were not permitted to serve on juries in Virginia.

The Circuit Court of Appeal overruled the Boston judge, and Crawford eventually was returned to Virginia to stand trial.

ROCKEFELLER EATS TURKEY

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., sufficiently recovered from an attack of the grip to eat a turkey dinner, told the country yesterday that "better days are coming."

The 94-year-old capitalist said:

"As I stated on my birthday, I have just begun to live. Let's not forget that America has always been the land of plenty and opportunity and that better days are coming. I have always been optimistic. If I have to stay here all winter I will enjoy myself as if I were in Florida."

Rockefeller's 30-year practice of journeying South for the winter has been deferred thus far owing to his illness.

As directed by his physicians, he passed the day quietly, but he remarked to his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that "this is the happiest Thanksgiving I have ever had."

HUNT FOR GIRLS' KILLERS PUSHED

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Search for two Philadelphians, wanted in connection with the slaying of two women and a man, victims of gangsters' "rides," was pressed on a wide front today, but police reported little progress.

Identification of one of the women, whose bodies were found in a shallow grave in a cornfield near Brandywine Manor, threw little light on the case.

Julius Sell, of Philadelphia, said one of the women was his stepdaughter, Ethel Greentree, also known as Ethel Marshall. Her body was found Wednesday beneath that of her companion, Florence Miller.

The two women disappeared the night of November 1, a few hours after Edward (Cowboy) Wallace was slain and John Zukovsky seriously wounded by gangsters who had taken them for a "ride" near Camden, N. J. The women had been registered at a hotel with Wallace and Zukovsky and police expressed the belief they were killed because they knew Wallace's slayers.

STOP THAT COLD

THE FIRST DAY!

A cold once rooted is a cold of danger! Trust to no makeshift methods. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for internal treatment. A cold also calls for a COLD remedy and not a preparation good for a number of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and accept no substitute on any pretext.

CHICAGO KILLER GIVEN LIFE

International News Service.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Dec. 1.—James (Fur) Sammons, veteran Chicago gang killer and public enemy, was taken under heavy guard to the State Penitentiary at Michigan City today to serve a life sentence as an habitual criminal.

A Circuit Court grand jury brought Sammons' lurid 34-year criminal record to a close here last night with a verdict of guilty on two counts—being a habitual criminal and attempting to bribe a deputy sheriff who had arrested him.

The mandatory sentence of life imprisonment was pronounced by Judge William Murray while a score or more of deputy sheriffs armed with shotguns, pistols and sub-machine guns guarded the courthouse to prevent gangster friends from rescuing the Illinois gunman.

MUSIC

Syria Mosque

May Beegle presented the Russian Opera Company in Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Coq D'or" at Syria Mosque last night before a gay Thanksgiving audience. It took us back to the days of Diaghileff and his ballet, where barbaric color both in music and decor was the rule.

Mr. Lissfelt

We must accept this opera, its music and its story, in the best folk spirit or we lose its meaning at once. The grotesqueries in the score and pantomine otherwise have no reason for being, and these are the amusement which the composer intended. Moussorgsky is a strong influence throughout the orchestra, but Rimsky-Korsakoff has written an exotic and difficult vocal line to tax the singers to their utmost.

That the company fell in with the best Russian spirit goes without saying, for the Russian stage can boast of its fine pantomine. The scenery was lavish in color and broad in design and the costumes were notable.

The singers as a group were mediocre with the exception of the queen who went Rimsky-Korsakoff one better by singing quarter tones or something when the composer wanted merely our own chromatics.

Pantelieieff as "King Dodon" was a genuine comedian and led the company by his simple approach to this role which might easily be overacted. His two sons were well characterized by Dimitri Criona and Alexis Tcherkassky, and his "General Polkan," played by Michael Schvetz, had the best of the male voices. Mamanoff's "Astrologer" might have been stronger.

The voice of the cockerel, with its strident tones, was safe with Vera Resnikoff, and the "Amelfa," "King Dodon's" housekeeper, a part so sympathetic in Russian opera, was finely sung and played by Nadine Fedora. The "Queen" of Janice Davenport was rather passably played, but the singing was another matter.

Eugene Plotnikoff led a good orchestra, and the entire performance showed what might be accomplished with sincere stage management.

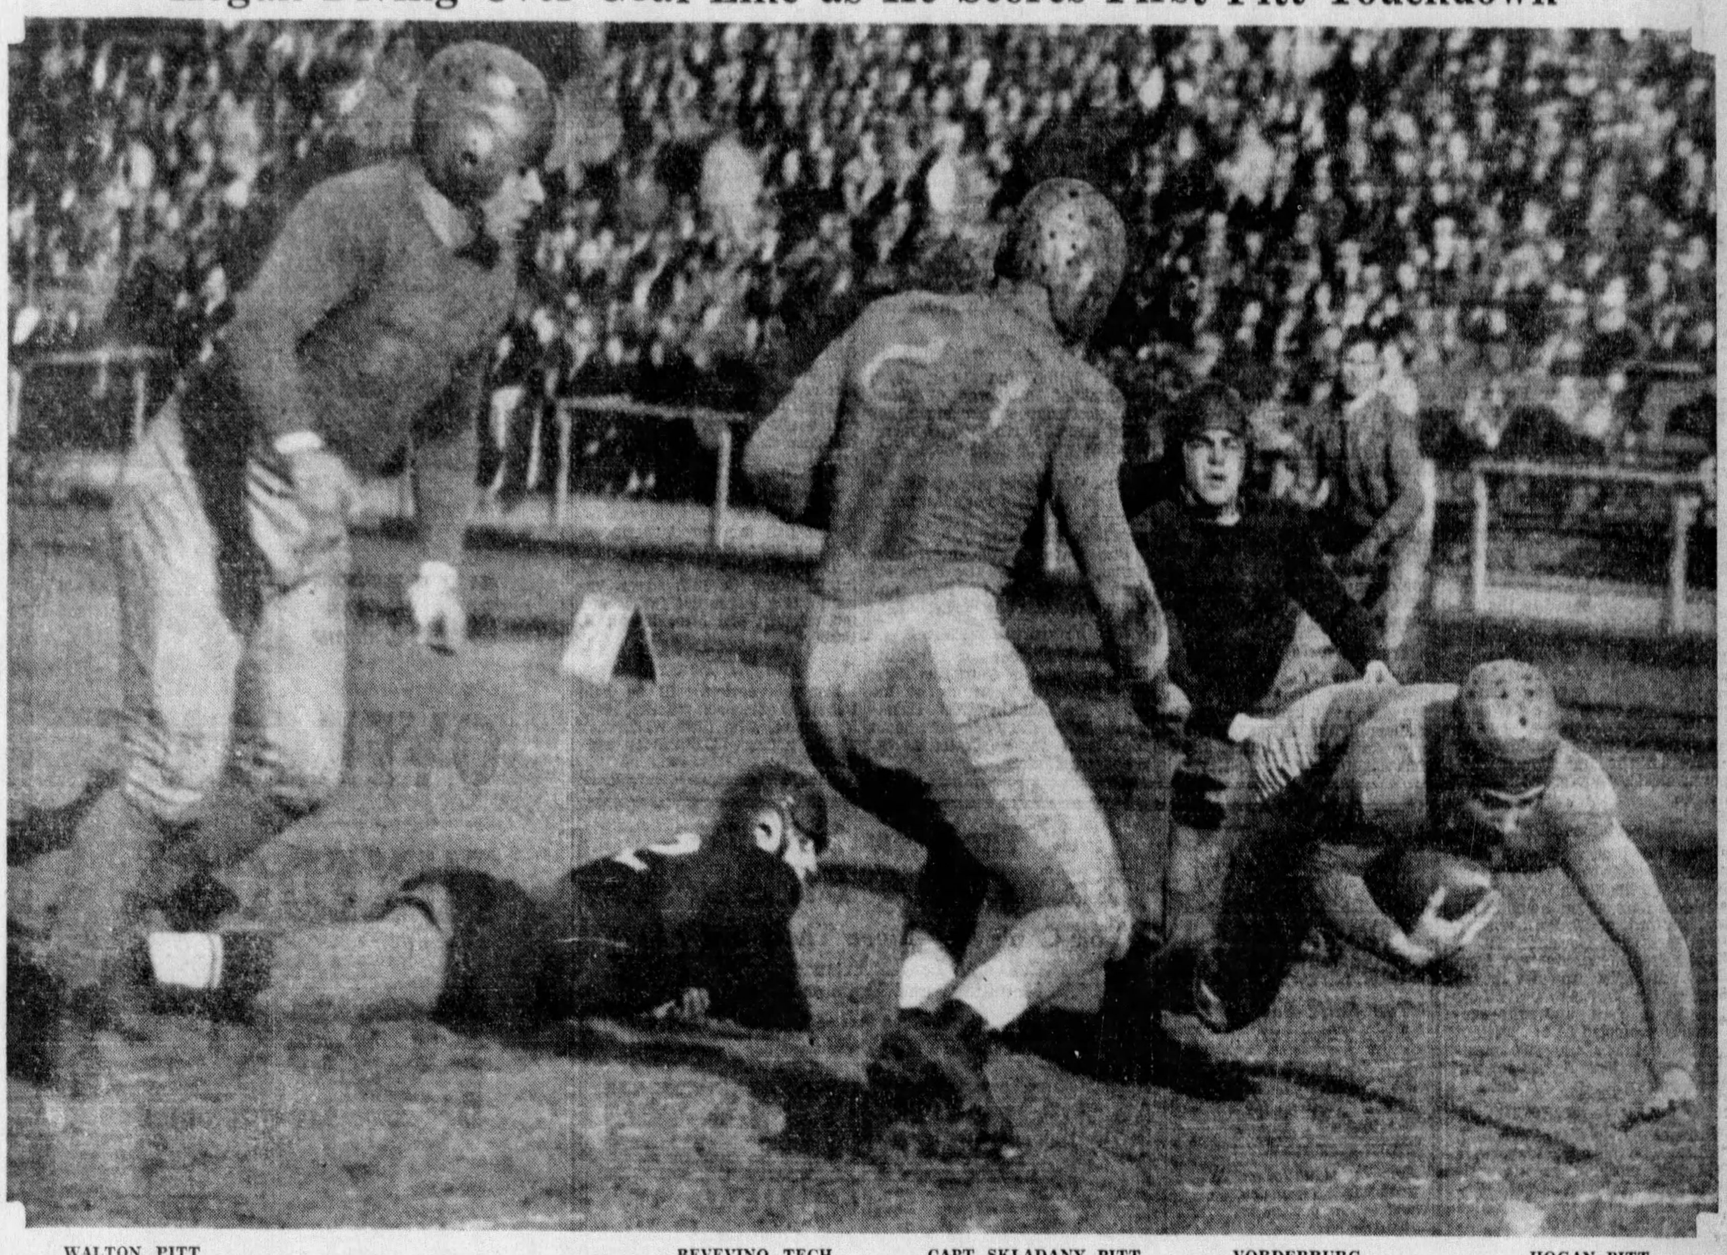
Hogan Diving Over Goal Line as He Scores First Pitt Touchdown



WALTON, PITT — Pitt quarterback goes over on a short pass from Halfback O'Dell with the play starting on 14-yard line late in the first quarter against Carnegie Tech at the Stadium yesterday. A crowd of 42,000 witnessed the battle, won by Pitt, 16 to 0. A safety and another touchdown in the final quarter ran up the point total for the Panthers. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

Skibos Go Down Fighting Great Pitt Eleven Passes. Line Values Shown Again.

Schedules Reduce Scores. Tricks of Grid Figures. Wagner's Record Broken.

PANTHERS SEEN AS BEST TEAM IN EAST

None too strong offensively at best, and below par in a physical sense on this occasion as a result of having gone through a hard game only five days before, Carnegie Tech could not have been expected to do anything more against the powerful Panthers yesterday than to hold down the score. A good defense and a wealth of Tartan spirit were about all the Skibos had with which to wage the annual battle against Pitt, and in holding Jock Sutherland's strong machine to 16 points the Harpsters must be said to have acquitted themselves creditably. They didn't have the stuff to win, but with characteristic Carnegie spirit they went down fighting.

Jock Sutherland.

And where is there another eleven that could have done any better against the same foe? It was a great team that played its final game for Pitt yesterday and went out with a record of eight games won against a single defeat, unscored on its last five games and in seven out of nine contests, and permitting only two touchdowns to be made against it all season. That Minnesota defeat in October does not dim the November glory of the Panthers. The true worth of the Pitt eleven of 1933 has never been fully appreciated by some of the outside critics. The team now broken up by the passing of Skladany, Sebastian, Walton, O'Dell, Hogan and Onder, together with eight reserves, was one of the best that Dr. Sutherland ever coached. Regardless of what unbeaten Army or Princeton may do in tomorrow's final game, and regardless of records or the ratings of the experts, local fans are convinced that the greatest team of the year in the East was right here in Pittsburgh.

TIGERS, CADETS PROVE LINE MAKES BACKS

If any new evidence had been needed that it's the line that makes a football team, this season surely would have supplied it. Princeton and Army are notable exhibits. Eastern views are that while both teams have some fast, hard-running backs, those same backs would not look nearly so fast but for the fact that they are playing behind an exceptionally fast and powerful line charge.

No back can look good behind a slow charging line. Behind a forward wall that is sluggish, he can't run fast, can't get that quick start which sends him racing into the secondary. And almost any average back can look good behind a set of forwards having a fast offensive lift. A line that moves forward with speed, power and lift can make any simple play gain.

It is contended that behind the Army's fast and fierce lift up front, the Yale backs would run just as fast and as hard as do Buckler and Johnson, and that behind the Princeton frontier the Harvard ball carriers would equal the work of LeVan and Kaufman.

Some of the backs on less successful teams have more natural speed than those on the leading elevens, but they don't get the same start from scrimmage, when a split-second means everything. So it isn't always the best backs that get the all-America awards. It's the line that makes them.

LOW SCORES ATTRIBUTED TO SCHEDULES

Many coaches have found fault with the football rules in an effort to explain the failure of their teams to run up sizable scores from week to week. They complain that the regulations throttle the offense and give undue advantage to the defense. Harry Kipke, Michigan mentor, does not concur. He contends that the main factor which has slowed down the offense and reduced scoring is not the rules, but the schedules.

Harry Kipke.

Kipke points out that, under present conditions, major football teams are compelled to meet major football teams. They can no longer book three or four setups to fill out their schedules, but are required to meet elevens of their own class, and of equal strength, or nearly so, practically every week. The result in most instances is a low score, and, quite often, no score at all. Compelled to explain their inability to score, the coaches blame their failure on the rules, though in Kipke's opinion the rules have nothing to do with it.

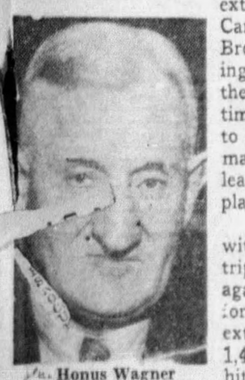
FIGURES PUT DUKES FAR ABOVE STANFORD

Why waste time looking for a football team capable of giving Stanford a real fight in the Rose Bowl game, when there is an eleven right here in Pittsburgh capable of running the Cardinals right out through the gates? That is, if the experts would go by the season's figures. According to the latter, Duquesne University is so far superior to Stanford that the Dukes would walk all over Tiny Thornhill's Coast champions.

Here's one of the tricks you can do with comparative scores: Stanford beat Southern California, 13 to 7; Northwestern tied Stanford, 0 to 0; Notre Dame beat Northwestern, 7 to 0; Navy beat Notre Dame, 7 to 0; Pitt beat Navy, 34 to 6; Minnesota beat Pitt, 7 to 3; Indiana tied Minnesota, 6 to 6; Xavier beat Indiana, 6 to 0; W. & J. beat Xavier, 8 to 0; and Duquesne beat W. & J. 21 to 6. That makes Duquesne 81 points better than Stanford. Just a breeze.

HORNSBY TOPS WAGNER'S EXTRA-BASE MARK

It develops that Rogers Hornsby lingered in the National League last season just long enough to take away from Honus Wagner by a solitary clout the league's all-time record for extra-base hits. Before leaving the Cardinals to become manager of the Browns, Hornsby made 27 hits, including six doubles and two home runs, and the doubles and homers boosted his all-time extra-base hits in the senior league to a total of 999, just topping Wagner's mark of 998, which had stood as the league record since Honus retired as a player 16 years ago.



Honus Wagner

Wagner retains a big lead in doubles, with 648 to Hornsby's 532, and also in triples, with 250 to Hornsby's 168, but against a total of exactly 100 home runs for Honus the Rajah piled up 299. Total extra-bases show 1,765 for Hornsby and 1,448 for Wagner. In total bases on hits of all varieties, however, old Honus far ahead of the National League parade, as he made 5,130 to Hornsby's 4,660. The Dutchman still remains out in front also in number of hits of all kinds, with 3,430 against 2,930 for Hornsby. And it's only in the matter of surface NOW that Hornsby has beaten Wagner's record for extra-base hits. When changed conditions are considered, the crown time said still to adorn the Dutchman's brow, for Honus TIP walloping against a dead ball and when all sorts of ... pitching in addition to the spitball were permitted, while Hornsby for 13 years had the advantage of the rabbit ball, shorter fences and the ban on freak deliveries.

Another Pitt-Tech game, the twentieth of a long and glorious series, has become history; another collegiate football campaign for this city is over and done and more heroes have stepped forward for their laurels.

The spot light's circle today must be enlarged to great proportions in order to take in all those deserving of it's glare. Every single solitary one of the 47 lads who took part in yesterday's classic battle in the Pitt Stadium, as Pitt took the measure of its rivals from across Panther Hollow, 16 to 0, deserve the homage of the crowd. Individual brilliance was sacrificed, on the part of almost every man, in favor of great team play and spirit. A surprisingly large turnout of 42,000 was on hand to witness this display, too, which made the day a perfect one all around, the weather being what it was, perfect.

FINE STARS THROUGH

Pittsburgh has seen the last of such sterling performers as All-America Muggsy Skladany, of Pitt, and Bunny Burzio, of Tech, of the slashing, hard-hitting mite, Howdy O'Dell, of Pitt, and the sensational Mike Sebastian; of John Meredith and Frank Walton, of Tar Onder husky Bob Hogan, John Love, Bob Timmons and Dick Matesic, all Panthers, and of Red Stewart, brilliant Carnegie end, Lib Lewis, Henry Dreshar, Joe Mihm (and what a game he played), Forsman, Butch Vorderburg and Johnny Sayles.

Maybe your correspondent is just a weepy-eyed old sentimentalist, but when such fine football players as listed above trot from the gridiron for the last time, something sort of catches where the Adam's Apple should be bobbing about and the lenses of the field glasses become misty.

A touchdown in the first and last period and a safety in the third provided Pitt's margin of victory, scored only after a hard fight. Tech ever has been and probably ever will be "up" for the Jerry Lanoue, a sophomore, raced across the goal line for the first touchdown in the second quarter. George Sauer, triple-threat fullback, scored a touchdown in the last quarter and a few minutes later Robert Benson, a substitute, added the third. A safety accounted for two points.

JOE SAVOLDI IN BOUT HERE TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

And now we see Jumpin' Joe Savoldi, the erstwhile Notre Dame fullback star, as a wrestler.

In the Arena, on the North Side tonight, the young man whose last appearance here was in a football game at the Stadium, makes his local rassling debut pitted against a rugged veteran of the mat, an Indian named Jim Clinstock, who has performed here before, in both the Moose Temple and Motor Square Garden.

Savoldi, who was kicked out of Notre Dame at the height of his football career for breaking the rule against marriage for undergraduates, and since has made a fortune with his flying tackles on the mat, arrived here this afternoon beaming and anxious to give the folks a good show. He is the forerunner of Jack Curley's troupe of grunters and groaners who will be seen in the Arena ring this season.

Joe even holds one of the many claims to the heavyweight championship as a result of a surprising victory over Jim Londos in Chicago last spring.

The show, which promises to draw a jammed house, marks the reopening of the Arena as a sports center after having been closed down for months. Jules Beck, the promoter, and Lew Raymond, the matchmaker, plan to alternate boxing and wrestling shows. In a wrestling way, they will be opposing the Olympic A. C., which recently revived grappling at Motor Square Garden and will run weekly beginning next Wednesday.

A 45-minute semi-final tonight presents Bert Rubi, the Hungarian, against Bruno Sorrasini, the Italian, and there will be three 30-minute mat preliminaries, as follows:

Joe Bronowiecz vs. Sid Nabors, Southern contender.
Eli Fischer, Jewish, vs. Bill Middlekauff, of Florida.
Emil Dusek, of Omaha, vs. Tony Felice.

Bronowiecz takes the place of Joe Malciewicz, who has been summoned for a court case, and Felice subs for Sam Cordovano, New York University assistant coach, whose wife is ill in New York.

The first bout goes on at 8:30.

The Welfare Fund holds a benefit amateur boxing show in Turner Hall, Homestead, tonight.

What looms as the most attractive main bout offered so far this season in the Moose Temple is that Anson Green vs. Billy Holt return shindy next Monday night. They boxed a terrific 10-rounder in the same ring last week, with Holt getting a disputed decision. It was a hammer-and-tongs affair all of the way and if the Negro middleweight rivals repeat this time the fans will get a big run for their money.

Harpster Lauds Skibos On Their Gameness

By Howard Harpster
Carnegie Tech Football Coach. All-America Quarterback, 1928.

A tired, hard-fighting Carnegie Tech team was unequal to the task of stopping the powerful, smooth-running Pitt attack and went down to a 16-to-0 defeat yesterday at the Stadium. Although the Tech team seemed to lack the snap which marked its play in some of the earlier games, and showed clearly through its many injuries and times out that it was not in the best of physical condition, I believe the boys put up one of their best fights of the season.

Howard Harpster

The players gave all they had, and, in the last part of the game, when they were hopelessly beaten, they were playing harder than ever. No one can give more than his best, and I hold nothing but the highest admiration for every boy on our team for a remarkable display of courage and spirit.

PITT IMPRESSIVE

The Pitt team looked very good and her offense functioned excellently behind hard-running interference.

I would say that Weisenbaugh easily was the outstanding back on the field. He gave us the most trouble and is one of the shiftiest and fastest fullbacks we have met this season.

Walton was the best lineman for Pitt, in my estimation; he was a tower of strength on the defense. Although Skladany was taken out of several plays, and sizeable gains were made around his end a few times, he is a splendid football player and is deserving of his great reputation.

The Panthers scored their first touchdown on a short forward pass, soon after recovering a blocked "quick kick" on our 40-yard line. The pass was to the weak side of Hogan and, although we had drilled all week in defending in this territory, in the excitement of the game our halfback was drawn clear out of his position, and Hogan caught the ball unmolested.

In the third period, Pitt scored two points on a safety when Walton threw Spisak for a 12-yard loss behind the goal line on a play which was both called and executed very poorly.

The final score came with a little more than four minutes to be played in the final quarter when Weinstock intercepted a pass which had been thrown from deep in the Tech territory and ran it back to the 20-yard line. The Pitt fullback smashed through for 12 yards to the eight, and then an offside penalty took the ball to the three, from where Weinstock carried it over the goal in two plays.

I am not going to attempt to pick any outstanding players on our team, for I am convinced that each of our boys played as hard as he knew how. However, I cannot help but comment on one of our players who has been outstanding for us all year. I refer to Bunny Burzio, who was forced to spend most of his final game on the bench. Weighing only 170 pounds, Burzio had played practically every minute of every game during the season, and in most of the games he was playing with a severely injured back.

SUFFERED INJURY

Last Saturday, in New York, Bunny received a bad leg injury and it was doubtful if he would even get in the game yesterday. We refrained from broadcasting his injury, for fear it would be taken as a "bear" story and a setting for an alibi. He said he felt all right just before the game and insisted upon playing, so we started him in his regular place. Early in the first quarter Pitt steamrollered through him for eight yards, and incidentally, one of the few gains made over him all season. He came out a minute later, barely able to walk.

Afterward, I heard some remarks by some unthinkable people, such as "Who said Burzio was an all-American?" I don't care to discuss the all-America point, but I do dislike to see anyone hit a player when he is down. Bunny may not make the first or second or any all-America team, for there isn't such a thing, but he is one of the greatest guards I have seen play football, and I have watched a good many of the best.

In closing this, my last article of the season, I want to say to Red Stewart:

"You made a wonderful captain and a great player for Tech, Red, and you were the leader of a mighty fine bunch of fellows."

W.-J. Denies Plan To Join Conference

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—George Gauthier, secretary of the Buckeye Athletic Association, said today the membership in the Conference may be increased to eight after a meeting on December 9.

He said only one membership application—that of Center College, of Danville, Ky.—has been received, but that he has heard Washington and Jefferson, among others, may apply.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Wilbur Henry, graduate manager of athletics, said today that "there is absolutely nothing" to reports Washington and Jefferson College may apply for membership in the Buckeye Athletic Association.

TITLE CONTEST DECLINED BY GREENSBURG

By JULIUS LEVIN

New Castle High School, co-champion in the class AA division of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League in 1932 along with Jeannette and McKeesport, today was crowned undisputed titleholder in the double A group as a result of Greensburg's refusal to go through with a post-season game.

This decision was announced today by Elmer E. Carroll, coach at Wilkinsburg and chairman of the W. P. I. A. L. football committee after being informed of the ruling made by the Greensburg school board at a meeting this morning turning down the post-season game with New Castle.

NEW CASTLE CHAMP

The football committee of the W. P. I. A. L. at a meeting held last Monday in the Fort Pitt Hotel decided that New Castle, having completed its class AA schedule with four successive victories, would meet the winner of the Greensburg-Jeannette game for the title. At that time, Jeannette expressed its willingness, provided it won, to play New Castle, but Greensburg announced that it did not favor a post-season contest.

The W. P. I. A. L. football committee is composed of Carroll, O. P. Ballentine, Har-Brack; J. C. Dunn, McDonald; J. C. Nicklas, Stowe Township; John G. Hulton, Latrobe; W. S. Bazard, Midland, and L. A. Aber, Springdale.

The Greensburg High School board, composed of Robert V. Herbert, Richard D. Laird and Leonard B. Keck, met with Coach A. A. (Buzz) Wesbecher, Principal Walter A. Gensbigler and three members of the football team this morning to thresh out the matter and it was decided that inasmuch as Greensburg already had gone through a strenuous season in which six class AA teams were defeated, it was satisfied to stand on its laurels.

JEANNETTE VANQUISHED

Greensburg wound up its regular season yesterday by furnishing one of the major upsets of the season by handing Jeannette its first setback in two years, 13-0. The Greensburg victory marked the first time this season Jeannette had been scored upon.

New Castle, also undefeated in class AA, scored four successive victories, defeating Charleroi, Washington, Turtle Creek Union and New Kensington. Greensburg chalked up six class AA triumphs, defeating Norwin, Clairton, McKeesport, Monessen, Wilkinsburg and Jeannette. McKeesport and Jeannette shared the double A crown with New Castle in 1932.

Greensburg's victory over Jeannette yesterday before a crowd of more than 12,000 fans was a convincing one, the Brown and White holding the upper hand from start to finish. Greensburg scored in the second and fourth quarters. A pass from Kopcsac to Waugaman in the second quarter

TIGERS, CADETS FAVORED OVER YALE, IRISH

EASTERN FRAYS TOP NATION'S GRID CARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The East, with two major classics in the Army-Notre Dame and Yale-Princeton duels, dominates the program for football's virtual finale tomorrow.

The South, where Duke's undefeated and untied record will be at stake in a clash with Georgia Tech, and the Far West where Southern California's Trojans take their stand against Georgia, offer some competition, but nevertheless the accent will be on activities in the Yankee Stadium and the Yale Bowl.

Both Army and Princeton, sharing with Duke the honor of being the sole remaining major elevens with perfect records, will start in the favorite's role, but neither Cadet nor Tiger will do any celebrating until after the game.

TIGERS LOOK BEST

Of the two, Princeton's chances look slightly the better, particularly now that Capt. Bob Lassiter, Yale's most consistent groundgainer, has been declared definitely out of the game with a leg injury. Princeton, with a great line and a wealth of speedy backs headed by Garry Le Van, apparently packs entirely too much power for the Elis, who already have bowed to Army, Georgia and Harvard.

Army, winner of nine games in a row, including major triumphs over Illinois, Yale, Harvard and Navy, will be a decided choice against a Notre Dame outfit that so far has been able to beat only Indiana and Northwestern and tie Kansas, while losing decisions to Carnegie, Pitt, Navy, Purdue and Southern California.

ARMY FEARFUL

Yet there is plenty of danger in this engagement for the Cadets and none realizes it better than Head Coach Gar Davidson. That Notre Dame boasts all kinds of power there is none to deny only Southern California and Pitt has been able to outgain the Ramblers this year. Should the invaders from South Bend finally "click," Army's perfect record may well go by the boards.

HEIDELBERG TOPS CECIL

By TOM BIRKS

Stanley Kuten's goal in the last half of the game proved to be the tally that placed Heidelberg in the second round of the National Amateur Cup competition, the green and gold-clad players defeating Cecil, 2 to 1, at Cecil yesterday afternoon.

Johnny McCosky scored in the first half of the game, and Cherokee evened up matters just after the second half got under way. Dolinar paved the way for Kuten's header that settled the game.

Two games were played in the Western Pennsylvania senior cup competition. Morgan flashed great form to beat Garfield United, 9 to 1, which would indicate that Heidelberg and Morgan are going to stage another battle in the National Open on Sunday at Greenlee Field.

The Castle Shannon Riehls beat the Union Switch and Signal eleven, 5 to 3, at South Park. The Reihls, ably led by Johnny Jaap, put the game on ice in the second half.

Switch surprised the large crowd by scoring three goals in the first period and holding its own with the Keystone Leaguers.

In the West Penn Junior Cup play, Avella defeated Beadling, 5 to 1, at Beadling, and the Shannon Braves flashed good form to nose out the Lincoln Hill aggregation, 3 to 0.

Large crowds watched the playing of the holiday games, at least 15,000 fans being at South Park and Cecil to watch the senior clubs in action. The lineups:

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF WEDNESDAY: THE RECORD BARREL JUMP—Ed Lamy, former world champion skater and barrel jumper, cleared 14 barrels (27½ feet) in a single leap at the Saranac (N. Y.) Skating Rink in 1912. This wonderful leap never was repeated. The undaunted old champ has been the victim of mishaps so numerous that they would tax the credulity of Old Man Coincidence himself. Hard Luck always seems to attack him from the left. He was shot in the left side, cut his left foot and broke his left ankle and left collarbone. He suffered a fractured skull by diving from the left side of a steamer, broke several ribs on the left side, ruptured a left kidney, broke a finger on the left hand and broke his left shoulder and left hip. 325 OYSTERS—Gordon L. Crooks, of Baltimore, consumed 325 oysters at one sitting between the hours of 5:30 and 8:30 p. m. The feat was performed in Crisfield, Md., and three oyster shuckers, natives of Crisfield, hardly could keep pace with Crook's appetite. The huge meal did not make the eater sick, nor did it in the least decrease his love of the succulent bivalve.

WEST VA. WINS OVER W.-J.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Driving 60 yards to score in the first period with Eck Allen acting as the spearhead of the attack, the West Virginia Mountaineers closed their 1933 campaign yesterday with a 7-to-2 victory over Washington and Jefferson, their most ancient gridiron rivals. A crowd of 7,000 saw the game.

The Mountaineers' victory march ended with Allen taking the oval across the goal line on a short plunge. Onder place-kicked the extra point.

The Presidents put on a desperate drive in the final period, making it appear for a time they would not be denied a score. Through a 38-yard run by Joe Hardy, and a 26-yard pass, Hardy to Headley, W. & J. advanced to the Mountaineer six-yard line early in this quarter. There they lost the ball on downs.

The Presidents' lone points were scored with less than a minute to play. Allen gave them a safety after Ercius' kick went out of bounds on the Mountaineer one-yard stripe. The lineup:

ST. LOUIS WINS, MEETS DUKES

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—St. Louis University battered a game Washington team into submission yesterday in the annual Turkey Day football meeting of the two schools, and obtained a 6-to-0 decision.

Stumpy Thompson, diminutive St. Louis quarterback, scored the lone touchdown of the afternoon on a sneak from the one-foot line in the fourth period. Twice previously a determined Washington line had held firmly on its own goal line.

As a result of the triumph, the St. Louis team will now meet Duquesne University, of Pittsburgh, in a charity game here Sunday, December 10.

MILLIONS OF MEN CHECK

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Havana and Domestic long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

This guarantee made Bayuk "Phillies"—in 10 months at 5c—the largest-selling cigar, at any price, in America.

Millions of men read this guarantee—believed it—and tried the cigar. They proved to themselves that the Bayuk "Phillies" Guarantee meant exactly what it says . . a proven 10c cigar value for 5c.

Many of these men were experienced, hard-to-please smokers accustomed to pay two to three times as much for cigars. They didn't believe any cigar—selling for 5c—could give them the enjoyment and satisfaction they demanded.

These same men now tell us—and tell their dealers—that Bayuk "Phillies" is an even better cigar than Bayuk guarantees. They prefer it to any cigar they've ever smoked—regardless of price.

Unless you try Bayuk "Phillies"—you can't possibly know whether you are getting all the pleasure and satisfaction you should from a cigar. In fairness to yourself—smoke at least one.

GOLF AMATEUR DEFINED

ROYAL-ANCIENT ADDS TO LIST OF 'DON'TS'

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Bobby Jones and many another American golfer automatically will become professionals if the U. S. G. A. adopts the new ruling put in force by the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland.

According to an International News Service cable today, the R. and A. C. last night ended years of wrangling over the amateur status in golf by decreeing that a professional is:

"Any player who has played for a money prize or has received payment for playing or teaching the game.

"Those who teach golf for remuneration either by personal demonstration or by lecturing or by allowing themselves to be filmed.

AGE LIMIT SET

"Those over 18 who carry clubs for hire (caddies) and those who exploit their skill or allow it to be exploited for profit.

"Those who for remuneration allow their names or pictures to be used for advertisement or the sale of goods.

"Those who permit their names to be advertised or published as authors of books or articles on golf of which they are not actually authors.

"Those who accept presents or are given facilities to buy at prices below those usually charged, golf balls, golf clubs or other merchandise when such presents are made for advertising purposes.

WRITERS CURBED

"Those who let their names be used in newspapers or magazines if writing is not their regular profession.

"Those who, being employed by firms interested in the manufacture or sale of golf goods, play in golf tournaments to further their employers' interests."

If these rules are adopted by the U. S. G. A. at its annual meeting in January, it will assuredly get Bobby and plenty—oh, verily plenty—of the other simon pures.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

After he had received the congratulations of Tech's head coach, Howard Harpster, on top of Pitt's victory over the Tartans at the Stadium yesterday afternoon, Jock Sutherland, head mentor of the Panthers, felicitated his players for their big year. Jock pointed out that it was a very difficult matter to go through a whole season without a defeat. He said:

"The Tech boys put up their characteristic fight. They are always hard for Pitt to play. Some of our boys appear to feel bad over our defeat at the hands of Minnesota, and that is natural, but if we had not been beaten by the Gophers, maybe we would have lost to some other club. Winning every Saturday is a very hard hurdle to get over."

Sutherland was sorry to see Bunny Burzio leave the game. He likes his style. He also paid a tribute to Fullback Joe Mihm, former Schenley High School star. He remarked:

"Joe is a big, strong, smart boy who knows how to play football from an offensive as well as a defensive standpoint. He should have a fine season next year."

Harpster gave the Panthers a big compliment as he congratulated the victorious coach. He said he expected Pitt to win as Sutherland's team had more power than the Tartans both in the line and backfield.

PANTHERS WIN OVER PLAID

Pitt game, and the tired and battered Carnegie host, worn almost to a frazzle after its hard game with New York U. last week, gave everything it had against the superior power of the Panthers yesterday. Maybe Tech would not have beaten Pitt even with a month of rest, but it could not have fought more valiantly or to better effect than the Harpster-coached warriors did yesterday afternoon.

The Panthers marched 50 yards to score late in the initial period, getting the ball in midfield on Joe Mihm's punt. Heinie Weisenbaugh, speedy little fullbacker, acounted for 33 yards in three attempts, Mike Sebastian picked up eight more, and then Howdy O'Dell tossed a pass out into the flat to Bob Hogan and the big Pitt quarterback pulled the ball in, pivoted and plunged through the arms of two tacklers over the line. It was Hogan's first touchdown of his collegiate career, his first and his last.

Tar Onder came out of the line to add the extra point with a place-kick.

BURZIO BRILLIANT

Carnegie's line, a powerful unit all the way, was being led by Bunny Burzio, who lived up to his reputation of being one of Tech's greatest guards and one of the outstanding performers of the country, but Bunny, who has been playing under difficulties all season, was forced from the action in the second quarter and could not return to the game. It was a tough way for a great football player to wind up his varsity career, fretting and squirming on the bench, but his period-and-a-half of play certainly did not detract from his great record.

The safety was recorded in the third period. With the ball resting on the nine-yard line, little Steve Terebus attempted to turn the right side of the Pitt line, a battlement where all opponents for for years have found it almost impossible to storm. Tiger Walton, husky Panther tackle, crashed through the interference and nailed Steve behind the goal line for the two-pointer.

In the fourth period, Pitt turned a Carnegie passing sortie to its own advantage. Fullback Izzy Weinstock pulled in one of Angie Bevevino's long heaves on the Carnegie 49-yard mark and raced back with the ball to the Tech 19. On the first play, he drove through center for 11 yards to the eight. A five-yard penalty for offsides inflicted on the Plaid put the ball on the three and then the hard-hitting Izzy crashed through for the score.

He then cooly booted a placement for the extra point on a second trial. On the first, the Tartans were offside and blocked the attempt.

A team with a stronger attack might have put the Panthers very much in the hole right off the bat. Burzio crashed through to block Hogan's punt shortly after the game got under way and the Tartans secured possession of the ball on the Pitt 17-yard stripe. Unable to gain through the Pitt line, Capt. Stewart dropped back and attempted a field goal, but the try was short.

HOGAN GOES OVER

A few minutes later, Mike Sebastian, who unfortunately enough suffered a reoccurence of his old illness of fumblitis in his last game, miscued on a try through tackle and the Skibos secured the ball on the Pitt 29. Again Stewart tried for a goal from the field and again his kick lacked power.

The outstanding individual performers of the struggle were Joe Mihm, Tech's big fullback, and little Howdy O'Dell, of the Panthers. Muggsy Skladany played his usual steady game, although the Tartans skirted his end for a couple gains. Hogan's kicking was fine, although a few yards short of Mihm's, and the work of Capt. Stewart for the Plaid was inspiring.

LEWIS INJURED

Poor Lib Lewis, the hard luck gent of football, was pursued to the last by the injury jinx which well nigh ruined his career. He suffered a broken finger in the second period and was not able to return to the firing line.

So its all over now, this college football in Pittsburgh, though the Dukes will be campaigning in St. Louis and Miami before the season is closed officially. The victory of the Panther arms yesterday was the sixteenth for the Blue and Gold against four for Tech and was richly deserved, just as is any victory over Carnegie.

RIVAL SANDLOT TEAMS PLAY TO DRAW

Pittsburgh district sandlot football teams took advantage of yesterday's perfect football weather to put over a fine Thanksgiving Day program.

Two of the leading teams of the district, the Etna Sycamores and Millvale Amici, battled to a scoreless deadlock. The Broadway Mounts bowed to the St. Rosalia Preps, 6-0, in somewhat of an upset, Williams scoring for the Preps in the initial period.

The Scott Morgans walloped the Wilkinsburg Merchants, 19-0, in a fine game at Wilkinsburg. In a game marked by several fist fights among the spectators, the Shady Side Locklins were trimmed by the Peabody Alumni eleven, 19-0. The defeat was the first suffered by the Locklins since they started on a winning streak that had reached the 12 mark.

The Goose Goslins, of Carrick, continued their good work by defeating the Williams A. C. in a hard-fought game, 6 to 0, at Carrick Park yesterday.

The Bloomfield Civics nosed out Corpus Christi, 9 to 6, in another fine game, three field goals featuring the scoring, two of which were booted by Cassidy, the losers' quarterback.

The East Liberty Scholastics won the Negro Lightweight Conference title by beating Garfield, 6 to 0, Childs passing to Roy for a touchdown in the final period.

CORNELL PASSES BEAT PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Cornell outscored Pennsylvania yesterday in a sensational aerial race for touchdowns, emerging with a well-earned 20-to-12 triumph over the Quakers in the fortieth anniversary game of one of the most colorful Thanksgiving football classics before a crowd of 50,000.

Gil Dobie's red-clad Ithacans capitalized all their big scoring opportunities with an attack smartly directed by Walt Switzer and piled up a lead that was too much for Penn's aerial circus to overcome. Four of the five touchdowns tallied by both teams were the direct result of passes, with Switzer rivaling Pennsylvania's Don Kellett on the sharp-shooting end of one of the most exciting aerial shows these old rivals have ever staged.

The victory was Cornell's third in four years over the Quakers, but the Ithacans desisted from any attempt to haul down the home team's goal posts. It marked the Big Red's second straight conquest over a major rival, Dartmouth being the previous victim, as the team from up-state New York completed a strong comeback in an otherwise disappointing season. For Pennsylvania, the outcome climaxed a disastrous campaign in which the Red and Blue won only two out of seven games.

Last Rites Held For W. O. M'Geehan

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The body of W. O. McGeehan, famous sports writer, was buried in historic Frederica Cemetery on St. Simons Island late yesterday.

McGeehan died suddenly at Sea Island Beach of a heart ailment. He had come here more than a month ago to visit Wilbert Robinson, former Brooklyn pilot, who was a close friend of the New York Herald-Tribune sports authority.

Stricken soon after his arrival, McGeehan left the Brunswick Hospital a week ago. He was apparently improving, but died within a short time after a renewed attack Wednesday while Mrs. McGeehan was shopping in Brunswick.

D.-E. Team Cracks St. Thomas' Record

SCRANTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Davis and Elkins stopped St. Thomas' drive for an undefeated football season yesterday by nosing out the Purple machine, 13 to 12, before close to 15,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever to attend a football game in this city.

The Scarlet Hurricane scored a touchdown in each of the first two periods and enjoyed a 13-0 lead at the half. In the final quarter, however, the Tommies came to life and registered two touchdowns, but were unable to convert the try after touchdowns.

W. Va. Wesleyan Defeats Marshall

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—After being greatly outplayed in the first half, West Virginia Wesleyan's clawing Bobcats made a powerful comeback to defeat Marshall, 12 to 6, in their traditional battle at Fairfield Stadium yesterday.

The first half, in which Marshall chalked up 10 first downs to none for Wesleyan, ended with the Thundering Herd but a few inches from the invaders' goal line.

Tod Sloan Orders Black Cigars as Doctors Worry

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Reports that he was near death were answered yesterday by Tod Sloan, world famous jockey of other days, by ordering a box of long black cigars for himself. He said:

"I'm not as near death as they said I was.

Physicians, who admitted the condition of the famous rider was critical, said Sloan would have to take unusual care of his health if he is to live long. He added:

"I've got a couple of gold mines up north in California. I hope to live to cash in on them."

N. CASTLE GETS SCHOOL TITLE

placed the ball on the eight-yard line, from which point Cavalier carried it across on a wide end sweep. The second was scored in the fourth quarter on a pass from Kopcsac to to Waugaman.

LEAD IN POINTS

Had the point system been applied in determining the championship, New Castle would have held the advantage, 120 to 116⅔. The committee would have decided the title on this basis had three or more teams survived.

The class B championship of the W. P. I. A. L. will be settled in a post-season game at Greensburg tomorrow afternoon when East Pittsburgh, coached by Johnny Coleman, meets Mt. Pleasant, coached by Ned Culler. Both are undefeated in class B competition. One of Mt. Pleasant's big achievements was a 6-6 draw with Greensburg.

In other games yesterday, Charleroi ran over Monessen, 21-7; Donora made it eight in a row by beating Monongahela, 6-0; Rochester won its traditional battle with Beaver, 12 to 6; New Brighton knocked off Beaver Falls, 20 to 6; New Castle walloped Sharon, 39-0; Latrobe rallied to beat Derry, 13 to 7; Vandergrift won over Apollo, 6-0; McKeesport beat Clairton by the same count; Johnstown lost to Windber, 7-0; Connellsville won over Dunbar, 3-0, and East Liverpool beat Wellsville, 13-0.

W. VA. ALUMNI BACKS NEALE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The alumni of West Virginia University yesterday took notice of "a state of unrest which tends to destroy the morale of the athletic teams" and overwhelmingly voted complete confidence in the existing regime.

The alumni association, with more than 500 attending a meeting, gave unqualified support to the policies of H. A. Stansbury, director of athletics, by turning thumbs down on a motion to favor employment of a graduate of the university as athletics director. Stansbury is not a graduate.

Blaming certain alumni, and certain other individuals not connected with the university or the alumni association, as well as certain newspaper writers for the state of unrest, the association adopted an emphatic resolution declaring its hands are off administrative matters, and expressing complete confidence in the board of Governors.

Despite rumors to the effect that he would resign following yesterday's game, Coach Neale so far has failed to turn in his resignation.

TENNESSEE VICTOR

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A homecoming crowd of 15,000 turned out yesterday to see Kentucky administered its worst defeat in history by a Tennessee eleven. The score was 27 to 0, one point more than the 26-to-0 loss suffered by Kentucky at Knoxville last year.

Gold Control Plan Goes Under Trial

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

This is the fourth of a series of articles on monetary problems.

IN MY MAIL this morning I received 100,000 marks. Unfortunately they were not present day marks. They were part of the German currency previous to 1923. The writer of an advertising circular said that they were in payment for the time I would spend in reading his sales talk.

The offer was not flattering. These marks, after Germany came to the end of her inflation jag, were exchangeable into new money on the basis of one trillion old marks for one new one. The new ones were worth 23.82 cents in American money at that time.

This was inflation in its extreme. Other countries inflated currency during and after the war with varying results. England returned the pound to its original gold standard. France eventually revalued the franc at about one-fifth of its former value.

Undoubtedly the German experience is responsible for much of the criticism of the administration's monetary moves.

Inflation Control Is Major Factor

THE EXPERIENCES of other countries indicate that the German results do not have to be repeated. The United States financed the Civil War partially by the use of greenbacks. It went off the gold standard and for a considerable period there was an open gold market and widespread speculation in the metal. While this country indulged in inflation at that time, it later regained its original gold standard.

From this it appears that the important factor about any inflation plan is to stop it at the right time. The next important thing is to stop it without causing such a disturbance that the stimulating effects of the inflation period will be overcome.

Effect of Plan Still Uncertain

TO AVOID the dangers of inflation—to keep our inflationary progress under constant control—the administration is attempting to get the effects of inflation by the mere control of the price of dollars in gold, without printing more money and without reducing the real backing of gold behind the currency.

Each day the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announces a gold price. Theoretically this is the price at which this country will either buy or sell gold. Actually it has bought little gold outside of metal produced in this country. It is unlikely that any gold would be sold at this price unless conditions should make it expedient.

We, and the rest of the world, are waiting for the answer to the question: Will such a scheme work? Only time will tell.

Other phases of monetary problems will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

STOCKS CLIMB AS U. S. LIFTS GOLD PRICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Stocks displayed a moderate upward urge today in quiet trading as the domestic gold rate was lifted another 8 cents to $34.01 an ounce.

While there was no rush for equities generally, and an occasional soft spot was noted in the list, the persistence of the administration's price-raising program was an obvious selling deterrent. Public participation was still at a minimum and the majority of the transactions was accounted for by professionsl. The British pound advanced some 8 cents and the French franc moved up about 1/10 of a cent in early dealings, but subsequently yielded part of their gains. Grains were indecisive, but cotton, rubber and silver firmed. Bonds were mixed, with federal issues a trifle easier.

Aside from the steadily climbing gold rate and its depreciating effect on the exchange value of the dollar, the Treasury's financing plans for December 15, when maturities of some $730,000,000 must be met, were awaited with much interest by investment circles.

Few, if any, bankers believe that the financing will involve the issuance of "greenbacks" of even the payment of any considerable amount of cash. Most of the obligations are held by the banks, it is said, and, as these have more cash now than they know what to do with, the forthcoming transaction is expected to mean little more than the exchange of one piece of paper for another. With the banks loaded down with idle funds, it was not believed the Treasury would have any difficulty in raising any reasonable amount it desired.

The freight car loadings report for the week ended November 25, showing a decline of 17,942 under the previous week, apparently was not interpreted as pessimistic. The decrease, it was pointed out, was probably less than seasonal. The week's total of 581,347 loadings was 88,029 above the same 1932 period, although last year's week included the Thanksgiving holiday.

WHEAT PRICES TURN DOWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Downturns in wheat prices and upturns in corn formed the rule early today. Wheat was bearishly influenced by breaks in Liverpool quotations, owing to cheap Argentine offerings.

Delay of the United States corn processing tax until January 1 was a bullish factor as to corn. Opening unchanged to ½ lower, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn started ⅛@½ higher, and subsequently held near the initial range.

Helped by a new advance today in the Washington quotation on gold and by a letup of December liquidation, wheat later rallied to about equal with Wednesday's finish. Deliveries of wheat today on Chicago December contracts were unexpectedly small, only 320,000 bushels to start with.

A stimulus to higher prices for corn was evidence of good export business with Canada, said to be the first large purchases of United States corn for that country in two years. Some belated liquidation of Chicago December corn contracts took place, but was readily absorbed. Oats sympathized with corn strength.

Provisions were steadied by indications that lard December deliveries had passed into strong hands.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

ALDRICH LONG ADVOCATE OF REFORMS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—In the annals of American finance, no relationship is more bizarre than that created by the recent testimony before the sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency by the present executive head of the nation's largest bank, the Chase National Bank, and by his immediate predecessor.

Mr. Rukeyser

Winthrop W. Aldrich, the new executive, not only in effect repudiates numerous banking practices which his predecessor, Albert W. Wiggin, created and fostered, but Mr. Aldrich, a trained lawyer, also volunteers to tell Congress how to close up the loopholes in the law which make such questionable practices feasible.

Recognizing the adverse effect on public opinion of Mr. Wiggin's self-revealing testimony, hard boiled cynics might be inclined to question the sincerity of Mr. Aldrich's zeal as a reformer. Mr. Aldrich's past history helps to give an answer to the questions raised.

LED STEWART FIGHT

Long before the wrath of Congress against financial malpractices broke loose, Mr. Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was quietly and effectively enrolled in the fight to raise the ethical standards of American business. In the younger Rockefeller's fight in 1928-29 to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Mr. Aldrich was the generalissimo.

Though for a time it seemed that Col. Stewart, with his fine record as a profit-maker, could resist the moral pressure even of the Rockefeller group, he finally stepped down, and Mr. Aldrich's victory was complete.

This significant incident is cited to indicate that Mr. Aldrich's moral enthusiasm is not something which has been quickly improvised to offset the psychological effect of the Wiggin testimony.

KNOWS INTEGRITY NEED

Whatever one may think of Mr. Aldrich's specific proposals, one must recognize his attempt to approach banking in the broad spirit of statesmanship.

Mr. Aldrich, with only four years of service as a banker, knows that respect for bankers must rest on possession by financiers of qualities of integrity and public spirit, which cannot be simulated.

In his striking recommendations of last March for far-reaching banking reforms, Mr. Aldrich startled his colleagues in Wall street.

Some thought that he had rashly read himself out of the company of important financiers, but the truth is that the executive head of the nation's largest bank and the trusted financial agent of the Rockefellers occupied a position of leadership which none could effectively challenge.

What Should We Do About Insurance?

—By B. C. FORBES—

LETTERS RECEIVED by this column reveal that some people are worried over the soundness of insurance companies.

Mr. Forbes

A few individuals have asked whether they should give up their policies entirely.

In reply, I have stated unequivocally that I have absolute faith in all the companies in which I carry insurance, that I have not surrendered a single policy of any kind whatsoever and that it has been a source of comfort to have as a financial backlog "equities" in insurance policies against which money could be borrowed.

WHILE I could not and do not have information covering all the smaller life insurance companies in America, I am satisfied, from what I have been able to learn, that the leading companies have come through the long period of depression in very creditable shape.

TRUE, AT times there were overwhelming demands for loans on policies and various state governments imposed delays and restrictions on such lending—sometimes against the wishes of insurance executives.

True, also, the terrific shrinkage in securities affected the holdings of insurance companies. But the decline in the giltedged bonds comprising the major resources of well-managed insurance companies has been much less than in second-grade bonds and in stocks.

Naturally, too, the demoralization in real estate values has not left insurance companies immune from losses. But here, again, insurance companies have fared better than many others because they have not been under the necessity of sacrificing their mortages regardless of the price obtained.

LIFE INSURANCE presidents from all parts of the country will gather in annual convention at New York next week, when the facts and figures supporting the foregoing will be presented. The writer is not at liberty to present them in advance.

IF EVERYTHING had only stood up as well as life insurance, how vastly better off all of us would be!

FRENCH BANK LOSES GOLD

PARIS, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Bank of France lost approximately 1,500,000,000 francs in gold during the week ending November 24, it was learned in Treasury circles today.

This loss, largest of any yet, makes a total of 3,000,000,000 francs in gold withdrawn from the Bank of France in the last three weeks. The rate withdrawn during the week of November 24 was double the amount withdrawn during the week ending November 17.

The greatest part of the loss was attributed to purchases by the British equalization fund in Switzerland and Holland. American purchases of gold were reported to have been small.

The Bank of France gold reserve now stands at less than 78,000,000,000.

ROCK ISLAND DEFAULTS

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—On petition of trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company, Federal Judge Wilkerson has signed an order permitting the deferment until further notice of payment of semi-annual interest and principal due December 1, 1933 on the series L and series Q equipment certificates of that road.

The order also authorizes trustees to enter into negotiations with trustees under the notes with individual holders for the purpose of effecting a re-financing of the notes without change in trusteeship of securing equipment.

President Queeny estimates 1933 earnings will not fall very short of $5 a share. Employes who have been with the company a year or more will receive a full week's extra pay on December 22. Here Are the Simple Rules

Every day we will publish an unfinished rhyme. Read these Christmas Shopping Hint ads and select an article from these ads to use in making your own last line. Then clip this square, fill in your line, or write the whole rhyme on a piece of paper and mail to the Want Ad Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, giving, at the same time, the name of the dealer from whose ad you made the selection.

The best rhyme on each day's contest, judged from the points of originality, neatness and accuracy, will win a $5.00 merchandise order on any advertiser in the Christmas Shopping Hints which the winner may select. The second best $2.00 and the next three best $1.00 each. Two prizes of $5.00 each will be given on each of the last two days of the contest.

The Girl Who Won

CHAPTER XLV.

Tony O'Brien stepped ashore from the canoe with Nollie.

He wasn't pleased at the arrival of these people, in his heart. But he hid his chagrin, agreeably.

He doffed the funny old fishing hat he wore. He said, with exaggerated bow: "Welcome to our city!"

"So this is your domain, is it?" Madeleine extended her hand to him, ignoring Nollie.

She said: "Ted White is beauing us around. Jack isn't here, is he?"

"No. We haven't seen your bridegroom. Hello, there, Ted? Hello, Rhoda."

He turned to Nollie, said: "Do you know Jack Brilling's wife?"

Madeline bowed frigidly.

But Nollie's gaze wasn't on Madeleine, disagreeable as it was to meet her again. Beyond her, Nollie was looking with a strange an almost frightened look at the man in the party.

Now Tony loathed Ted White. What on earth did the rotter mean by staring so impertinently, and with that strange smile on his lips at Nollie?

"This young lady and I have met before. Perhaps in not fe... quite such pleasant circum...ances!" White was saying on ... slowly and deliberately. self-... boiled ... he drinks were in the head. ...uestic gave him daring.

Aldrich

TRAPPED ANIMAL

...rich ... as the same young girl he had met some months ago in the apartment of the Broadway showgirl and cocotte . . . one "Daffy."

He had tried to kiss this child, to make violent love to her.

And she had struck him in the face. The bridgework in the front of his mouth bore testimony.

What a hell-cat she had been! He had tried to discover her name, her whereabouts, so as to get even with her . . .

For Ted White was vindictive, and was capable of harboring a grudge for months and even years.

How dare this chit repulse him so, and with such violence?

Now fate had let them meet again. This was his moment.

Would she acknowledge having met him?

Or would she repudiate it?

She had turned white. Her hands, as she pushed back the hair from her face, were shaking.

Like a trapped animal she looked. That was obvious to all of them.

"Don't you remember me? We were all having drinks galore in the apartment of Daffy Delatour on Fiftieth and Broadway? Then you went in the bedroom —" —and Ted White broke off, smiling at her meaningly.

DIFFICULT TO EXPLAIN

"Daffy Delatour? The woman even the police couldn't protect, because the gangsters were after her?" shrilled Rhoda.

"Yes." Ted White kept his eyes fixed on Nollie. "Surely you remember meeting me in Daffy's apartment?"

That leering face that she had struck! He had followed her into the bedroom.

And she struck out wildly, recklessly, terrified of the man and her surroundings!

But how explain it all? No one would believe it, least of all these antagonistic women . . .

The bridge-work in the front of his mouth that her blow had been responsible for . . . she could see those false teeth of his prominent in the sunshine.

But what would Tony think . . . believe? How could she possibly vindicate herself?

She loved him so. He knew so little of her, really. And he was wonderful . . . had such high standards.

When an Irishman falls in love—she'd heard it often and now she knew that it was so—he sets his woman on a pedestal.

"Daffy Delatour on Fiftieth and Broadway!" The very sound of it, was incongruous . . .

She took her resolution. For the first time in her life she lied deliberately.

"You have mistaken me for someone else. I know no one of the name of Daffy Delatour," Nollie said slowly.

"But yes. You are the girl. And I can prove it, too. Your first name is Lollie—or is it Trollie?"

"Trollop is right!" said Madeleine.

Tony didn't hear this, luckily. But Nollie did.. She put her chin up and she faced her tormentors resolutely.

TONY PUZZLED

"You are mistaken in thinking you have ever met me before. New York is a big city and there must be many girls who look like me," she said coolly and levelly.

At 6 o'clock that day, Tony was in the sun parlor of Mr. Galbraith's hunting lodge, having pre-dinner cocktails with Rhoda, Madeleine and Jack Brilling.

This had been absolutely wished upon him. They had been quite offended, they declared, about his desertion of the party the previous evening.

And Tony quite liked Jack, although in his mind there was still a jealous question about last night's denouement.

Nollie had worked as private secretary to Jack, only a few weeks ago . . . and hadn't said a word about it.

WHY?

"Because there was something to hide," an inner voice, whose jealousy he hated, told him.

How strange the bride had been, today!! How haughtily she had regarded Nollie!

She was angry at this girl . . . resented something . . . that was obvious.

Then Ted White, too . . . the Broadway rounder!

Nollie had denied ever meeting him before.

But it had been a strange, a frightened Nollie!

HAD the girl "a past?"

Or were these people unwarrantably persecuting her?

What to think. After all, he knew so little about her!

For days and weeks, his thoughts had run on marrying this lovely, fragile girl with the sweet, flying charm . . . he had dreamed of the alluring beauty of her.

And how had fate sent all these people here, pointing the finger of contumacy at her?

He loathed Ted White. But he had come here because he simply MUST get to the bottom of this wretched mystery.

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Mrs. Judson returns and ask Nollie to become her secretary and visit her ranch. Nollie accompanies Mrs. Judson to a garden party and meets Rhoda Vane. Rhoda seems to dislike Nollie. Nollie and the widow leave for the ranch after inviting Rhoda. Nollie is surprised when she meets Tony near the ranch. Tony is pleased when she tells him she is not Mrs. Judson. Rhoda visits the ranch. She is rude to Nollie, but plainly tries to gain Tony's favor. Tony confesses that he loves Nollie. Jack Brilling and his bride are on a honeymoon near the Judson place. Brilling's bride is angry when she learns that Nollie is so near.

THE ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U. S. (Sept. 17, 1787)

The Continental Congress, though it adopted useful measures (such as the Ordinance of the North West Territory, providing for its development in the future as states) was deficient in organization under the Articles of the Confederation; it dwindled away. In 1787 Congress invited delegates to revise the Articles of the Confederation. From these debates emerged the Constitution of the United States, the national law, a compromise between the conflicting interests of the states, embodying: The check and balance doctrine, dividing the government into legislative, judiciary and executive branches; the equal representation of states in the Senate; proportional representation (counting three-fifths of the slave population) in the House of Representatives; granting the House the sole right to initiate bills for raising revenue by taxes; the restriction of slave imports. After ratification by the states, 10 amendments, called "Bill of Rights," were incorporated into the Constitution. (U. S. History)

CARRYING THE BRIDE OVER THE THRESHOLD

The bridegroom of ancient Rome carried his bride into the house to symbolize his intention to lift her above all handicaps in her future life. This beautiful custom is still preserved. (World History—Roman Customs)

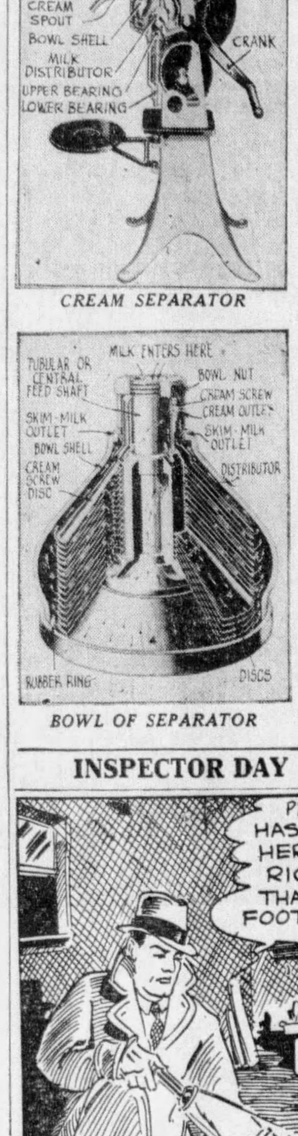
MAP OF STARS IN AUTUMN (Gen. Science)

In ancient times people named star groups (constellations) for things the star groups seemed to resemble. Science retained these names for convenience. Best known are the 12 constellations within the zodiac (a 16° belt of sky, along the ecliptic—plane of apparent path of sun—and bisected by it): Ram, Bull, Twins, Crab, Lion, Virgin, Scales, Scorpion, Archer, Goat, Water Carrier and Fishes. Stars seen same hour vary with seasons.



CREAM SEPARATOR

BOWL OF SEPARATOR

Diagrammatic cross-section of one-quarter of a cream separator bowl illustrating the filling of the bowl. The filling occurs from the outside towards the center, not from the bottom upwards. The center illustration shows a bowl partly full. The cream wall is already forming. When the bowl is full, as shown on the right, the cream and skim milk discharge through separate outlets.

MILK FAT—MOST VALUABLE PART OF MILK

Milk contains sugar and minerals in solution, proteins in colloidal suspension and fat globules (below) emulsified in the serum (liquid part of the milk). Cream containing 25—40% milk fat (called also butterfat) is the fat concentrated into a fraction of the original milk. Concentration is done in the separator (left), where the milk is given a swift circular motion, the resulting centrifugal force throwing the liquid (having greater specific gravity) outward and forcing the fat (of less specific gravity) toward the center (below left), discharging them through separate outlets as cream and skimmed milk. Above: Diagram of effect of centrifugal force. (Gen. Science)

FIRST SUSTAINED FLIGHT WITH HEAVIER-THAN-AIR CRAFT

Orville and Wilbur Wright built successful gliders and after years of experimenting fitted a bi-plane glider with a 16 h. p. gasoline motor at Kitty Hawk, N. C. Launching it from a track by falling weight, Orville Wright rose into the air on December 17, 1903, for 12 and then for 59 seconds, giving new impetus to the conquest of air, one great achievement of man. ATOMIC NUMBER—ELECTRONIC VALENCE (Chemistry)

The nucleus of an atom has a positive electric charge—due to the excess of protons (+) over the electrons (—), its constituents—which charge is equal to the atomic number of the element.

Above, left: Sodium (Na) nucleus has 23 protons and 12 fixed electrons; its atomic number is 23-12 = 11. The number of satellite electrons equals the atomic number needed to neutralize the positive nucleus. They are kept by attraction of the nucleus within the atom.

Similarly chlorine has atomic number 17 and 17 satellite electrons. The existing 92 elements form the periodic table from hydrogen, atomic number 1, progressively rising to uranium with atomic number 92 (85, 87, undiscovered yet).

Above, right: Combination of atoms (molecules) is the transfer of electrons (in polar compounds) or the sharing of pairs of electrons (in non-polar molecules) from their outermost shells. Sodium and chlorine form sodium chloride (common salt) a polar compound. Two fluorine atoms give fluorine molecule (non-polar), sharing one pair of electrons.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Powder pads work too hard, poor little things. A heavy coating of oily powder calls attention to the shape of the nose that didn't get a happy start. Powder slightly darker than the skin, fluffed on lightly, the surplus removed with a camel's hair brush made for that purpose, will make almost any nose self-respecting. Grinding in the calcimine adds to the burdens of pores that all too often are packed with sebaceous grease, tipped with atmospheric dust. Glands become enraged, oil oozes forth to such an extent that the powder pad must be used again, made to do its beauty duty. Remove make-up with a thin cleansing lotion or a cream of light consistency. Afterwards get busy with the soap suds, and be sure to remove it thoroughly with warm water. A final rinsing with cold water freshens the skin, closes pores, tones muscles, hardens tissues.

If you chance to see an old friend appear with the white threads in her brain crest colored blue or purple, don't ask her any questions. She has lately returned from Paris and that's what the pretty ones are doing over there. The effect is attained by the use of a powder which has no effect upon dark locks, just blues the silvered ones. Yes, the powder comes off on the pillow and it is all terribly messy, but it makes a big stir at the hen party, so why not?

Gently But Firmly Refused

We have an invitation from the American Barkeep's Institute of Science and Applied Arts.

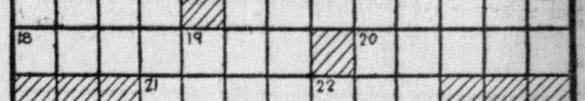
This institute is famous for pickling its subjects beyond preservation.

The boys want us to take a practical lesson in mixing ankle-benders and scalp explosives.

The classes are from 11 to noon on Monday mornings. The letter accuses us of being unable to get up that early in the morning. It would have been correct if it also included that early in the week.

The barkeeps are mixing their allimentary depth bombs again and wish to share their lore, legends and historic documentary recipes with others. Such popularity must be deserted.

We are sorry, but we must plaster the negative thumb on the invitation. Now that everything is as legal as three witnesses to a will there is no more romance to it. After 13 years we have acquired the contraband complex. We want our stuff smuggled.



There must be mystery to our fun. Why, even the circus sneaks in town in the dark of the moon.

Barnum knew that grunts, squeals and intricate chirpin sounded more fascinating behind the walls of opaque canvas. you saw too much of the parade you didn't care to see the show.

So, we will leave the mixings and the boilings to the liqu necromancers and their magic herbs, berries and rinds. We sh not rub Aladdin's bottle nor open Pandora's flask. To us the co screw is a metallic serpent. And the jinnee of the gin decan can report to Eblis but not to us. We don't care to be defeated our own camp followers.

Therefore, oh barkeeps, cling to your secret rituals and oc flexings of the fingers and elbows. We don't know what you shaking up in the aluminum jug. But it tinkles ingratiatingly bubbles like the spume in sea-washed grottoes.

Why worry about plans and specifications if the walls strong and the roof tight? Robinson Crusoe didn't build his ho from blue prints. We remain an innocent bystander and accept sum total of the adding machine as correct.

We shall stay on our side of the polished mahogany. You on yours. And never the twain shall treat.

'Rotten Boroughs'

School Districts Without Schools and Many of the Others Should Be Abolished.

Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, reports that 32 of Pennsylvania's 2,585 school districts have no schools, but send their children elsewhere for their education. But all of these districts without schools have school officials.

One district without a school has a total population of only 38 men, women and children, yet a board of five school directors is regularly elected.

It would make for simplicity, economy and efficiency to do away not only with the districts without schools, but also many of the others. There was need for them, no doubt, in rt days; but a century has elapsed since then and modern itions make it possible and desirable to consolidate them other districts.

Education advanced remarkably in Pittsburgh when we laced the numerous ward school boards with a central board ring the whole city.

Similar advantages can be gained by replacing the nerous borough and township boards with a county board.

It Means Better Water

Sealing of Abandoned Coal Mines Will Help to Stop Pollution of the Streams.

More than 1,200 coal miners will be given work in Penn- nia under a CWA program for sealing abandoned coal s which have been draining into the Allegheny and ngahela Rivers and their tributaries.

Gratifying as the furnishing of these jobs is, it probably e least important, in the long run, of the benefits that come from the work.

Sealing disused mines will help to stop pollution of the ams by the sulphuric acid that issues from old coal workings when they are exposed to the air. The acid, coming in contact with limestone in the stream beds, liberates elements which make the water hard.

The city was spending $1,000 a day in September in tralizing the acid in the water used for domestic purposes. e water was thus made fit to drink, but it remained excess- ely hard, necessitating heavy use of soap in laundry work.

Sealing disused mines will save the people of Pittsburgh much money.

Buy Christmas Gifts Now

Shop Early and Make the Holiday Season Happy for Others.

Now that Thanksgiving Day has passed Christmas shopping is in order.

The stores are ready, as you will note by the window displays.

Shop early. If you buy your gifts now, you will find a larger quantity and larger variety of fresh goods from which to select than if you postpone your shopping.

You will have the satisfaction during the next three weeks of knowing that your duty is done. You will be relieved of the dread of the last-minute rush, with its crowds of belated shoppers struggling to attract the attention of the sales persons.

Best of all, you will make things easier for the merchants, their helpers and the rest of the public.

Shop early—and mail your Christmas parcels early.

Protecting Pulchritude

It Is to Be Hoped Beauticians' Licenses Will Cover the Last Field Requiring Supervision.

The State Department of Public Instruction soon will be as ng questions of all beauty shop operators, hairdressers and r micurists in Pennsylvania.

"Beauticians" has been chosen as the official name for this class of workers.

A new law requires them to take out a state license on January 1. Applicants who have practiced for six months or more will have little difficulty. Others will have to pass an examination.

No doubt there should be a careful check on the qualifications of beauticians, because incompetent practitioners may ar beauty and careless or insanitary ones may spread disease.

We hope the state has now provided for supervision in ery occupation in which supervision is necessary.

A state license is required before one can work as a physi- , a nurse, a pharmacist, a dentist, an undertaker, a veteri- an, a public accountant, an optometrist, an osteopath, an itect, an engineer, a mine inspector, a teacher, a barber, a l estate agent, a dealer in securities, or a beautician.

If this list is extended much farther, no occupation will be exempt.

Christmas Trees

Pennsylvania Imports Millions of Them, But Could Easily Raise Its Own Supply.

In about two weeks Christmas trees will begin to arrive t the produce yards.

Pennsylvanians buy two million annually. Most of the rees come from Canada and the New England states, others rom West Virginia, Wisconsin and the South.

Why not raise them at home? Charles R. Meek, of the Department of Forests and Waters at Harrisburg, says if 1,000 rees to the acre are cut, 2,000 acres would supply the state's annual Christmas needs, and with a 15-year rotation 30,000 acres devoted to Christmas tree growing would take care of all our requirements.

Pennsylvania has more than a hundred times 30,000 acres in idle and abandoned farm land.

We do not make the most of our opportunities.

A Skin Game

For the Criminal.

Chicago reports the case of a criminal who was fingerprinted and then, in order to avoid detection in future, had new skin grafted onto his fingers.

But the remedy seems easy—why not take prints of a criminal's toes hereafter as well as of his fingers?

By the time he had had 20 operations performed on him, nstead of only five or ten, he would probably conclude that it as wiser to give himself up and take the rap.

Watching His Chickens

(Copyright, 1933.)

In his authoritative book on "The American Commonwealth," James Bryce remarked that this country, with its 48 States, unlike any other nation, has 48 laboratories in which 48 experiments in government may be made at one time. Out of so many efforts, the right solution of a problem is almost certain to be found.

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment has set all our State laboratories working on the problems of liquor control.

Some States will still have their own Prohibition laws. Their problem is concerned with Federal co-operation under the Webb-Kenyon Act.

Other States are experimenting in various ways with effective local control—and in every such State, keeping politics and racketeering out of the business is a first duty of the Control Boards.

However, the American public can do more than any set of rules to promote temperance, abolish speakeasies and prevent the return of saloons.

Let the public make up its mind to OBEY THE LAW. After December 5, legal liquor and wines may be purchased openly from law-abiding dealers, paying their just taxes to the Government.

Let good citizens patronize the licensed dealers who obey the law, and boycott the lawbreakers. Then repeal will be an assured success, and criminals will be forced out of the business for lack of trade.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Thoughts while strolling: Why does a male ballroom dancer stand fixing his cuff while his partner takes those sitting-down bows? Attractive name for the keeper of a decorating shop—Olivette Falls. Russ Colombo and Bill Tilden look alike. Those pert half veils with enormous dots.

Cliff Sterrett, an Alexandria (Minn.) boy who made good in the city. That bogus Prince Whatshisname has a dachshund profile. Few knew the White Way's box scores like N. T. G. Deaf Johnnie Dundee's quiet diffidence. Col. Joseph Hartfield, famed international lawyer. Once a stenographer in Henderson, Ky.

One word description of Jack Benny — whiney. Boss Curry somehow doesn't look so bossy. Every evening finds Ralph Barton's brother, Homer, on the curb in front of the Somerset. George Middleton, the playwright. Monte Brice, of the movies, is remindful of the late Eddie Dillon.

Wonder if Peggy Hoyt's hair was ever mussed. Larry Waterbury bears resemblance to Holbrook Blinn. And was there ever a finer American actor than Blinn? Hard-boiled Jack Pulaski, a sucker for all the panhandlers.

One of my favorite people—Mrs. Sime Silverman. Lillian Gish makes me think of someone's description of Shelley, "gold-dusty with tumbling amongst the stars." Dudley Malone's moonbeam smile. Optician's sign: "We never make a mistake."

In his carefree bachelordom, Billy Seeman opened one of Manhattan's first penthouses, Ski-Hi-Farm. After his happy marriage to the beauteous Phyllis Haver he deserted the bright lights, but clung to his Greenwich Village aerie. But Mrs. Seeman, saying nothing, did not care so much for it. About six months ago, unbeknown to her husband, she rented the penthouse atop the new spire on the Century Theater site, overlooking the park. In slyly sequestered time she outfitted the dozen-roomed home. Then invited her husband to meet her at that address "to lunch with friends." When she had piloted him around she broke the news, waiting a little breathlessly for his verdict. He sank in a deep cushioned chair and sighed: "All I can mumble is I've been living all these years in a dump."

Among the slim list of restaurants of 30 years ago that still carry on is the Cafe des Beaux Arts at its original stand on Fortieth and Sixth avenue. It was the scene of after-theater parties for the debuts of such stars as Billie Burke, Nora Bayes, Lenore Ulric and others. Emil, who has been catering to gourmets during the cafe's entire career, is still bowing around.

THE DRESS CULT

By Winifred Black

"Are you going in for the new religion," said my friend who's always taking a new kind of diet or a new kind of beauty treatment or falling desperately in love with a brand new kind of religion.

Sometimes the religion has a good deal to do with ghosts and apparitions, and sometimes it's just something about thought transference, or maybe glands—always something different.

"I wonder what it is this time," I thought. "Ghosts or glands or what?"

"Oh, it's just perfectly lovely," said my faddy friend, "we have meetings twice a week, always in the evening, and everybody is in full evening dress. We have a leader of course—he travels and he trains local leaders and they're all just too wonderful—so spiritual and high minded, if you get what I mean. We sing and we tell each other our faults and promise to do better, then we sing again, and we're all in evening dress, don't you see—it makes it all so sort of different, if you get what I mean.

"I do wish you would come along tomorrow night. I'm going to wear a little blue chiffon with blue and white ruffles, oh, it's too sweet for anything. You wear your white or maybe your black and gold. We always break up into little companies and have supper somewhere, the meetings are always in the parlors of one of the smart hotels. You'd never think it was religious at all—all in full evening dress mind you—why it's a regular thrill."

And it is—isn't it?

I wonder some of our great religionists haven't given this matter of dress more attention.

What a mistake it was for the early Christians not to tell us more about the fashions of the times, wasn't it?

We hear about the beauty of Mary Magdalene—all the artists have taught us that she had red hair and plenty of it, but what kind of clothes did she wear and and what were her favorite jewels?

Who was among those present when St. John the Evangelist stirred the world with his fiery zeal and what were the ladies of his congregations wearing when they turned from the error of their ways?

Way back yonder, when Moses took the children of Israel through the Red Sea. How much more thrilling that story would have been if someone had remembered to jot down the costumes of the mothers in Israel.

And what were the fashions for well dressed men, when the lowly fishermen threw down their nets and followed the Man of Sorrows.

Terrifically important this business of dress, isn't it? Clothes, we are told, how they are worn and how many, have a distinct influence on the morals of the day. Remember the hobble skirt and the more recent short skirt and the uproars of the moralists of those style periods?

Yes, an important question, this one of clothes, especially when the business of moral reform and religion goes with it.

I do hope my faddish friend will hear of another new religion soon—something with sack cloth, and ashes and bare feet and sandals in it—it will be a lot cheaper won't it?

And we do have to consider money these days after all, religion or no religion, isn't that true?

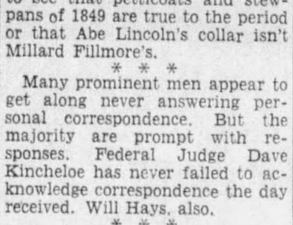
MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Why Men Drown Their Sorrows

December is practically upon us and the average woman has done most of her Christmas shopping and has lots of tissue paper bundles already tied up with fancy ribbon and topped with sprigs of imitation holly.



But the average man just isn't Christmas-conscious yet. He puts off his Christmas shopping (as he puts off anything that bores him) until the bell has rung or he hears the last call for dinner.

More love-affairs have been spoiled and more marriages turned sour, by the shocks or disappointments of Christmas morning than by anything else.

Christmas morning is the magic moment, when a woman expects that all the unspoken or suppressed romance in a man's soul will blossom forth into the perfect gift. She fondly believes that he will read her heart's desire.

But, to a man Christmas is "just another holiday." Worse still, it is the painful moment when a woman is EXPECTING something of him. And that takes all edge off his enthusiasm and paralyzes his imagination.

A man loves to play Santa Claus; but to give a woman something that she is "expecting" affords him no kick. It's more like a hold-up than anything else.

It's a wise woman who never expects anything she really WANTS on Christmas day, but accepts whatever comes her way with childish delight and feigned astonishment. This makes at least one member of the family happy and helps to promote the well-known "Christmas spirit."

* * *

It isn't fair to judge any man by his Christmas gift. Because a man simply isn't himself at this time of the year. He's practically unconscious when he's wandering around in the mazes of a modern shop. And, even though he went in with a necklace or a box of lingerie in his mind, he is likely to come out with an electric toaster or a cuckoo clock in his hands.

No Christmas is a WOMAN'S time to be joyous. But there's not much use trying to make a man work up any big enthusiasm about it. He will be generous and kind and tolerant. But he simply can't be romantic or excited or kiddish about it.

He has two Big Problems to face. First the problem of what to give his wife or his sweetheart. And second the problem of what he will do with the foolish or undesired things she is sure to give HIM. For no gal ever gave a man a Christmas gift that did not somehow embarrass or depress him.

No wonder so many men begin drowning their sorrows on Christmas Eve and don't come out of the fog until after New Year's day!

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

You may not have much ability in any line, in addition to being deficient in the rudiments of education; you may figure therefore that you have not had an opportunity to be a success in anything.

Are you making good use of your common sense?

Are you drawing on the education you have for all it will stand?

Early advantages you lacked, to be sure, so you think that there is no chance for you to be anything but mediocre.

But others who have made good in the world had just as heavy a handicap to combat.

Brains grow with use, and to do more thinking would be to increase your mental equipment and make it easier for you to learn.

The man who says: "I did not have a chance to go to school like other boys and how could I be anything but a poor scrub" is mistaken in his idea.

How hard have you ever tried to accomplish things or teach yourself?

No, you were not willing to do the studying—you would not concentrate.

It may not be too late for you to get a start even now.

Do more work to improve and less grumbling over lack of early advantages.

A Carrier Pigeon, Found in California, Is Believed to Have Crossed the Pacific Ocean

By Edwin C. Hill

A CARRIER pigeon bobs up in California bearing a tag marked "Siberia, 1931." Fanciers believe that the bird has been wandering for two years, across the Bering Sea, Alaska, Canada and the Northwest, to arrive finally in the town of Visalia, central California. While this sounds incredible, one cannot be too sure about these stout-hearted little feathered heroes. Only a few weeks ago seven of them flew for 600 miles, directly through an electric storm, from Marion, N. C., to Stratford, Conn., at the rate of more than 30 miles an hour. Over at Fort Monmouth, N. J., a post of the United States Army Signal Service, I have seen some of the birds who won their wound stripes in France, carrying messages which saved hundreds of lives and relieved desperate situations.

There was Mocker, an old fellow with one eye. He lost the other one on September 12, 1918, in the region of Beaumont. Carrying an important message from headquarters to the front lines, a piece of shrapnel caught him in the tiny head, but on he flew, and from the scrap of tissue paper he carried, as he winged straight through a rain of death, the American staff learned of the location of heavy enemy batteries which were mowing down American infantry. In 20 minutes those batteries were silenced by the American guns.

Then there is the stuffed figure of another carrier pigeon they called President Wilson, because he had an air of such dignity and intelligence. This bird lost a leg in the Meuse-Argonne on November 5, 1918, but lived long enough to get home with a message which meant the lives of men.

And over in London, in the Army Service College Museum—in the very building in Whitehall from which Charles Stuart, King of England, walked so gallantly to bend his neck to the headsman of Cromwell—I have seen the stuffed figure of a little carrier pigeon which saved a whole British division and which, although shot almost to pieces, made his way to the British lines, crawling on bloody feet when one wing was shattered.

Homing Instinct A Scientific Mystery

IT is one of the mysteries of the world, this almost unconquerable instinct of the homing pigeon to find its way to its cote. Nothing but death stops them. Some say it is sheer instinct, others that it is a sense of smell. There is another theory that they follow the air waves, like radio.

There was a time in this country when the skies were black with tremendous flights of passenger pigeons. The last great flight was reported in 1878, from Petoskey, Mich. A mighty army of pigeons, 40 miles long and three to 10 miles wide, blotted out the Michigan skies. But man was then their enemy and slaughtered them by the million, and they came no more.

But the homing pigeon is far from extinct. In England alone the trained breed numbers some 10 million. Over there prizes totaling a million and a quarter dollars are offered every year in homing pigeon races. In connection with one of these races the last great tragedy among these little couriers of the air was recorded.

Fifty thousand birds were released in France to fly to England. Shooting homeward at terrific speed, they were caught out over the Channel in a great fog and storm and dashed downward into the raging sea. Scarcely a handful found their way to their cotes, and the sportsmen of England took a loss of three-quarters of a million dollars, while condemning the government for being wrong in its weather reports.

Thousands stood, that unforgettable night, on the chalk cliffs of South England, peering into the murky, wind-driven night quite frankly praying for the safety of little birds whose valorous wings were already stilled in death.

Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary

THIRTY years ago Jack Miner put his gun in the rack and vowed he would never take it down to shoot another bird. Instead he set about to become one of the world's best-known bird lovers and naturalists. He established a sanctuary on his Ontario farm. By twos and threes, and then by tens of thousands, the Bob Whites, the ring-necked pheasants, the purple martins, the red-headed woodpeckers, the Kentucky cardinals and the mourning doves came to know Jack Miner as their friend and his farm as a place for safety, rest and food.

Nor was it long before the Provincial government recognized Miner and his work, and with its assistance thousands of evergreens were planted, gardens, groves and ponds laid out. These are within a mile's radius of Miner's place which by government decree, was declared a bird sanctuary, with severe penalties for the one using firearms.

But today a winged serpent has come into this Paradise, to bring discord, death and desolation. The intruder is the British sparrow, and Jack Miner has taken down his gun, literally and figuratively, to deal each to the pest which, coming in countless battalions, has destroyed thousands of trees in his sanctuary. The ground is overrun with weeds sprung up from seeds carried in by the starling, and some of the finest songbird species are seen no more.

Mr. Miner has just reported his findings on the starling, which arrived in Ontario in force in 1928. He tells how, in 1931, more than 200,000 starlings were trapped and smothered, and how in June and July of this year he caught and buried over 25,000 more.

In calling for help in the extermination of the starling, Jack Miner says that the bird is the worst weed-seed distributor America has ever known, that it carries deadly chicken diseases and that it is destructive to fruit and vegetables and death to trees in which it roosts.

Emergency Legislation Need of Most States

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNLESS called into special session by the Governors, Legislatures of only nine of the 48 states of the Union will meet during the new year beginning January 1, 1934.

Were these ordinary times, many states could spare the services of their Legislatures for another year. But the times are far from ordinary. Urgent problems are pressing for solution in every one of the 48 states.

Most of these problems require not only the leadership of a strong Governor but the conscientious and courageous co-operation of a hard-headed and a hard-working Legislature for their solution.

On this account those Governors of states where no regular legislative session is scheduled for next year face an opportunity to render public service of unusual value by putting their Legislatures to work next year.

By calling their Legislatures in special session early in the new year and submitting a carefully-studied and timely list of specific recommendations progressive Governors can bring to their support a public sentiment that will command the co-operation of their Legislature in applying legislative remedies to public ills too long neglected.

Problems for Legislatures

HERE are some of the problems that the Legislatures of the several states ought to be tackling before another year has passed.

Control of the liquor traffic, which with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will be for the most part restored to the states. Only 10 states have already set up machinery to control the liquor traffic. In 18 other states liquor is prohibited by state law.

In every state where a special session of the legislature has been or may yet be called to regulate the liquor traffic an opportunity will be offered to enact other measures of immediate importance to the people.

For example, only 15 states have thus far ratified the child labor amendment to the Federal constitution. Twenty-one additional states must give their legislative consent to complete ratification of this amendment.

If President Roosevelt renews his appeal for ratification before the new year he will tremendously increase the prospect of favorable action by most of the states in which regular or special sessions of the Legislature will meet during 1934.

Narcotic Measure Deserves Approval

EFFECTIVE enforcement of federal anti-narcotic laws requires the support of Federal leadership by the several states. But only four states have passed the uniform state narcotic act since it was submitted to the state Legislatures. This is a measure that ought to receive the approval of every state legislature which meets next year.

Iowa legislators will be urged by the governor of that state to reorganize state and local governments in the light of facts made by a thorough survey recently completed by the institute of government research of the Brookings Institution.

Every state Legislature meeting next year would benefit by a similar survey. It is the first step toward the modernizing of governmental machinery in the several states, as North Carolina and Virginia will testify. They have blazed the way by modernizing their government.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Turn of the Tide

She lay so weak, she lay so still and white
That we who watched, unsleeping
by her side
Saw how each weary day and pain-racked night
Left her with every force an ebbing tide.
Her joy was gone and all her dreams were spent,
One pale hand mocked the sheet
beneath her there;
So calm she lay, so dreadfully
content,
Her wan face pillowed on her
dusky hair.

We feared to trust, there seemed no promise left
That laughter to her lips would come once more;
Our hearts were stripped of gladness and bereft
Of every shining gem of hope's vast store
Until we saw her listless eyes unclose
And her look brighten, falling on a rose!
